Man piles up warrants in wake of chase

A Salem man, who had an outstanding warrant for parole violation before leading Keizer cops on a vehicular chase, is adding more to his collection.

About 10:40 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 20, Officer Kevin DeMarco spotted a 2001 Chevy Prism traveling southbound on Cherry Avenue Northeast. DeMarco ran a search on the license plate and discovered insurance on the vehicle had been terminated and the vehicle registration had expired. Soon after, the driver made a lane change without signaling.

The vehicle turned right on the Salem-Keizer Parkway and DeMarco initiated a traffic stop. The driver responded by pulling over to the side of the road, and presented DeMarco with an Oregon Identification Card, not a driver's license. A background check on the ID card uncovered a statewide felony warrant for parole violation.

The driver acted nervous during the traffic stop, according to police officials, and drove away after being asked to turn off the car's engine. DeMarco pursued the vehicle into Salem where the driver crashed in the 1500 block of Chemeketa Street Northeast. The driver fled the vehicle and eluded capture despite a Salem Police Department K-9 being brought into help. Another Keizer police officer recovered a plastic baggie containing methamphetamine they believe the driver threw from the vehicle.

The driver was identified Robert Thomas Padgett, 52, of Salem. The report has been forwarded to the Marion County District Attorney's Office with a request for additional warrants on charges of eluding a police officer, hit-and-run, possession of controlled substance and others.

Capitol Auto honored as great workplace

Employees know best when judging the perfect place to work. Results from a confidential survey of employees earned all three Salem Capitol Auto Group (CAG) dealerships—Toyota, Subaru, and Chevrolet—recognition for being among the best in North America.

For the seventh year in a row, at least one CAG dealership was individually recognized by Automotive News 2018 as one 100 Best Dealerships to Work For.

"We are so honored to be chosen once again for this prestigious list," said Scott Casebeer, president of Capitol Auto Group. "Our employees are the heart of this company and without their continued commitment to Capitol, the Salem community and their co-workers, we would not be the company that we are today."

This is the seventh year that Automotive News has partnered with Best Companies Group to identify dealerships in the U.S. that have excelled in creating great places to work. The program measures workplace satisfaction, talent retention, and excellent care of employees.

The top dealerships on the list will be profiled in an Automotive News special section Oct. 15, 2018.
