

Shred Day moves to Volcanoes Stadium

Oregon State Credit Union will host its annual combination free community document shred day and food drive for Marion-Polk Food Share all open to the public on Saturday, Sept. 15, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., at the parking lot of the Salem-Keizer Volcanoes Baseball Stadium.

The credit union provides the community service where anyone can bring boxes of outdated documents such as old checks or outdated forms and statements with personal information. Documents will be securely shredded onsite for free with easy drop off in the stadium parking lot. This is a location change for the event moving it to the Volcanoes' baseball home. The event has become so popular locally that it has outgrown the previous River Road parking lot site next to the credit union's Keizer branch.

"We remain an active partner in the Keizer community and this event has actually outgrown our previous site in our own credit union and Safeway parking lot to the point that we needed to schedule the baseball stadium parking lot from the Volcanoes," said Oregon State Credit Union Keizer Branch Manager Craig Williams.

The event includes a continued partnership with the Keizer Police Department and will run through 1 p.m. or until the shred truck is full. In addition, this year, the credit union has also partnered with Marion-

Polk Food Share to accept food donations during the event.

"Shredding personal documents, credit cards, and unused checks is a great way to reduce the likelihood of becoming one of the millions of victims of identity theft nationally," said Keizer Police Department Lt. Andrew Copeland said.

SKSD reaffirms inclusion commitment

Safe and welcoming schools, a policy the Salem-Keizer School Board established a year ago with a provision for annual reaffirmation, was reaffirmed Tuesday.

It means that student success must not be influenced by "race, national origin, disability, economic circumstance, mobility, native language, sexual orientation, immigration status, gender identity, or level of proficiency upon entering school."

It specifies that the board does not tolerate "any form of discrimination, hazing, harassment, intimidation, bullying, cyberbullying, or menacing of students."

Under this policy, all district staff must recognize and address violations of these principles.

The board's unanimous reaffirmation followed comments by 17 audience members, most of whom also spoke against state Ballot Measure 105, by which state and local assistance of federal enforcement of immigration laws would be permitted. The board did not take a position on the measure.

In other business, the board accepted six grants. The largest, $936,240 from Early Learning Hub, provides the ability to serve an additional 80 disadvantaged prekindergarten students.

The other grants were $525,000 from Oregon State University for outdoor learning for fifth- and sixth-graders, $75,063 from the Community Resource Trust for start-up equipment for the Career Technical Education Center's law enforcement program, $39,389 from the Oregon Department of Education for student vision screenings, $21,218 from ODE for enhancing activities for students who have disabilities, and $2,994 from the Community Resource Trust for the CTEC business development and leadership program.

Personnel actions approved by the board included the following for the McNary High School attendance area.

- Less than half-time: Tessa Westerlen, McNary.
- Temporary part-time: Carol Stenson, Whiteaker Middle School.
- Temporary full-time: Luis Castro Jr., Alexis Chavez, Carly Dillon, Sara Hankins, and Kevan Johnson, all Claggett Creek Middle School; Sandra Ferdig, Cummings Elementary School; and Britney Griffith, Keizer Elementary School.
- First-year probation part-time: Alexandra Johnson, McNary; Anna Johnson and Jonathan Stover, Weddle Elementary School; Raluca Linte, Whiteaker; and Robert Tavares, Claggett Creek.
