High on meth, man makes himself at home in stranger's breakfast nook

A man suspected of being under the influence of marijuana and methamphetamine made himself at home in the residence of a stranger about 11:30 a.m. on Thursday, Sept. 27.

A woman called 9-1-1 to report a trespasser in her yard earlier in the day but he was not located at the time. Keizer Police Department Deputy Chief Jeff Kuhns was summoned back to the residence when the man returned and entered the home in the 800 block of Chemawa Road North.

Kuhns made contact with the suspect while sitting at a breakfast bar in the home.

Both occupants denied knowing the man who had entered and Kuhns said the suspect "was speaking rapidly and was sweating and was obviously under the influence of a stimulant. He admitted to smoking marijuana [that] morning and using methamphetamine" the night before.

The residents did not press charges, but the suspect, identified as Timmothy Scott Lowell, 32, was arrested and detained for violation of his probation.

Lowell, who has no permanent address, was transported to the Marion County Jail.
