

STATE MEASURES

MEASURE 102 - HOUSING

Passage of the measure would allow counties, cities and towns to use bond revenue to fund construction of affordable housing without necessarily retaining complete ownership of the dwellings. Bonds to begin such projects would still need voter approval. Currently, bond revenue cannot be used for projects with private stakeholders. The measure was placed on the ballot by the Oregon Legislature.

MEASURE 103 - TAXES

Measure 103 would ban state or local taxes on grocery sales. However, the larger effect would of passage be to retroactively freeze the corporate minimum tax on grocery businesses. The ban does not include alcohol, tobacco or marijuana. Albertsons Safeway, Kroger and Costco funded more than 90 percent of the effort that placed this petition initiative on the ballot.

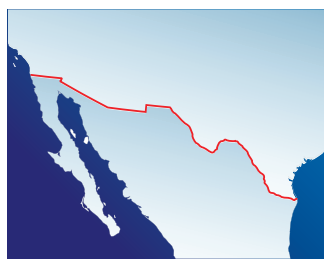

MEASURE 104 - BUDGET

Measure 104 would amend the state Constitution to require a three-fifths majority (supermajority) of the Oregon Senate and House of Representative to approve any bills that increase revenue. Currently, the only budget matters that require such a vote are out-right tax increases. Measure 104 would make it more difficult to raise revenues through enacting fees or creating or repealing tax exemptions, credits or deductions.

The measure is backed in large part by the Oregon Association of Realtors, which is upset over license fees and other legislation seeking to repeal tax credits. The risk in passing Measure 104 is giving minorities opposed to revenue-raising measures the ability to hold at bay actions backed by majorities.

MEASURE 105 - IMMIGRATION

This measure would repeal language in the Oregon Revised Statutes preventing state and local law enforcement from investigating and arresting undocumented residents when their only crime is living in the United States undocumented. Repealing the language could put additional strain on state and local law enforcement resources. The measure, which was placed on the ballot by petition, is most heavily backed by the Federation for American Immigration Reform (FAIR) and Oregonians for Immigration Reform (OFIR). FAIR and OFIR are both identified as a hate groups by the Southern Poverty Law Center for their ties to white nationalist leaders and rhetoric. Supporters suggest that living in the United States illegally is a precursor to worse crimes, but data from studies on that issue shows that immigrants are less likely to commit crimes than American citizens.

MEASURE 106 - ABORTION

Measure 106 would prevent direct or indirect public funds from being spent on abortions except when medically necessary or required by federal law. Under the measure, an abortion would qualify as medically necessary if a licensed physician determines that a woman would suffer an injury or death unless an abortion is performed. Under the measure, public funds may be spent on abortions in circumstances of rape or incest or diagnosed ectopic pregnancies, which means that a fertilized egg implants outside the uterus with no chance of a normal birth. The measure may prevent public employees from obtaining abortion coverage as part of their medical plans.
