The Alzheimer's Network is a non-profit organization providing support, education and resources to caregivers and families impacted by Alzheimer's and other dementias.

Founded in 2003, the Network is led by Executive Director Naomi Tillery, who has years of experience with memory and dementia issues. They have recently opened an Adult Day Respite Center which allows them to provide care for individuals with dementia who live at home to come and engage in social and life enrichment activities in a home-like setting. The Center also offers caregivers to get the respite they need for a few hours or an entire day.

The Alzheimer's Network is dedicated to providing support and resources to families, caregivers and the community, to meet their immediate needs. They ask help from the community to support its mission to assure that no one walks through the disease of Alzheimer's alone.
