

Members of the Whiteaker Middle School Leadership Class were out in force Saturday, Nov. 17, attempting to stuff a bus full of food for local families in need.

Students stood on corners encouraging passersby and went shopping themselves when enough cash donations rolled in.

more than 400 music boxes. "It was such a cool thing to give these things away," Kircher said. "All of the people involved in this group have a heart for the hurting. We believe our calling is to glorify God and to make these boxes and give them to people that are hurting."

The ministry, Music Box Angels, has grown to 45 people across eight churches, creating the boxes, making cards, delivering, praying and visiting with people who are hurting. Along with handing out boxes at local events, they've also mailed them to 34 states and given away nearly 600 in 2018 alone.

"This music box is a calling," Kircher said. "It gets us in the door to tell them that they're not forgotten, we care about them, God cares about them."

The boxes, some made from wood and others Origami, play four different songs—Amazing Grace, How Great Thou Art, Jesus Loves Me and What a Friend We Have in Jesus.
