

'The Legend' Coach Anagnos

1956 – 2019

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

Craig Nicholas expected the death of his longtime friend and co-coach Ted Anagnos to be, somehow, more epic.

"I always figured he'd be wrestling a gorilla on some volcano some place and the mountain would explode and that's how it would happen. He's was too dang young," Nicholas said.

In the end, Anagnos died after a brief and intense battle with cancer at age 63. He is survived by his wife, Susan, and son, Christopher and Tony.

Anagnos was a volunteer coach, mentor and community cheerleader with an unmatched passion for contributing to the students making their way through McNary High School.

"He always could see the

"We weren't on the same page or same paragraph, we were on the same dang sentence." — Craig Nicholas

photo courtesy
The Anagnos Swancutt Group

bigger picture and was a great father and husband. There were dozens of kids he got into school or got through school and who wouldn't be the people they are today without him," said Nicholas.

Anagnos was, at times, a larger-than-life personality. Short in stature, he had a booming, raspy voice that was unmissable on football and baseball fields and in the gym at McNary High School. It was a voice he deployed as frequently in praise as it was in admonishment.

Nicholas said Anagnos was the one to smooth things over when things got tense in the baseball dugout, and that a wink and attabooy from Anagnos went a long way to salving any perceived wounds.

Anagnos and Nicholas were both part of the coaching staff that helped lead McNary to two football state championships. Nicholas served as defensive coordinator and Anagnos as lineman coach.

"We weren't on the same page or same paragraph, we were on the same dang sentence," Nicholas said.

That was possible because the two spent every Saturday watching film in their own homes and calling each other to consult about what could be done to face coming challenges or step up the Celtic game.

Please see LEGEND, Page A6

Lady Celts top league

PAGE A14

School board candidates sound off

In addition to deciding who will represent Keizer on the Salem-Keizer School Board, two other seats have contested races. Keizertimes asked the candidates about their priorities and concerns in the run up to the May 21 election.

Heyen, Marquez compete for Zone 2

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

In Zone 2, Marty Heyen is defending her seat against Raul Marquez. While board members represent pre-determined district, they are elected by the district at-large.

Heyen, a retired IT professional, was first elected to the board in 2015. Marquez is a recent McKay High School grad and student at Willamette University.

Keizertimes sent both candidates the same questions to give readers a sense of their priorities and qualifications for the role.

Keizertimes: What skills and expertise do you bring to the role of school board director?

M. Heyen

Marty Heyen: There is nothing like real life experience on the School Board. I have served for almost four years. I understand how the board works

Please see ZONE 2, Page A6

2 new faces vie in Zone 4

In Zone 4, Dr. Satya Chandrigiri and David Salinas are seeking to replace outgoing board member Jim Green. While board members represent pre-determined district, they are elected by the district at-large.

Chandrigiri is a psychiatrist and small business owner. Salinas is a project manager with Cherry city Electric.

Keizertimes sent both candidates the same questions to give readers a sense of their priorities and qualifications for the role.

Keizertimes: What skills and expertise do you bring to the role of school board director?

Dr. Chandrigiri

Satya Chandrigiri: I have served in three countries in my 30 years' experience as a psychiatrist.

Between my wife and I, we speak nearly 9 languages, came to this country with bare minimum with a wife and a kid in 1996, became proud citizens of our country in 2010 and today I serve all the way from Harney County to Douglas County and helped create over 300 jobs in the places where I serve. I have been educated in different educational systems in India and US. As a physician and psychiatrist, every day, I am in the trenches

Please see ZONE 4, Page A7

D. Salinas

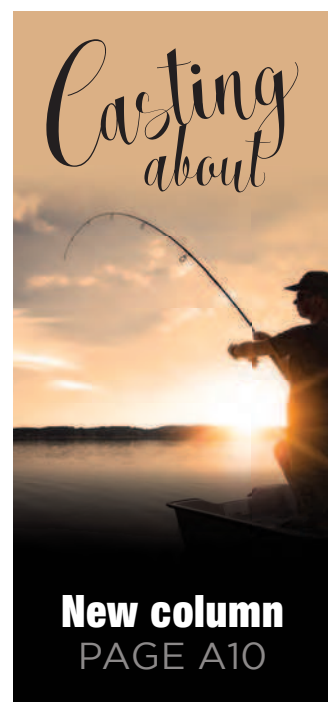

Grammy winner joins Celt choir

PAGE A2

#trashtag

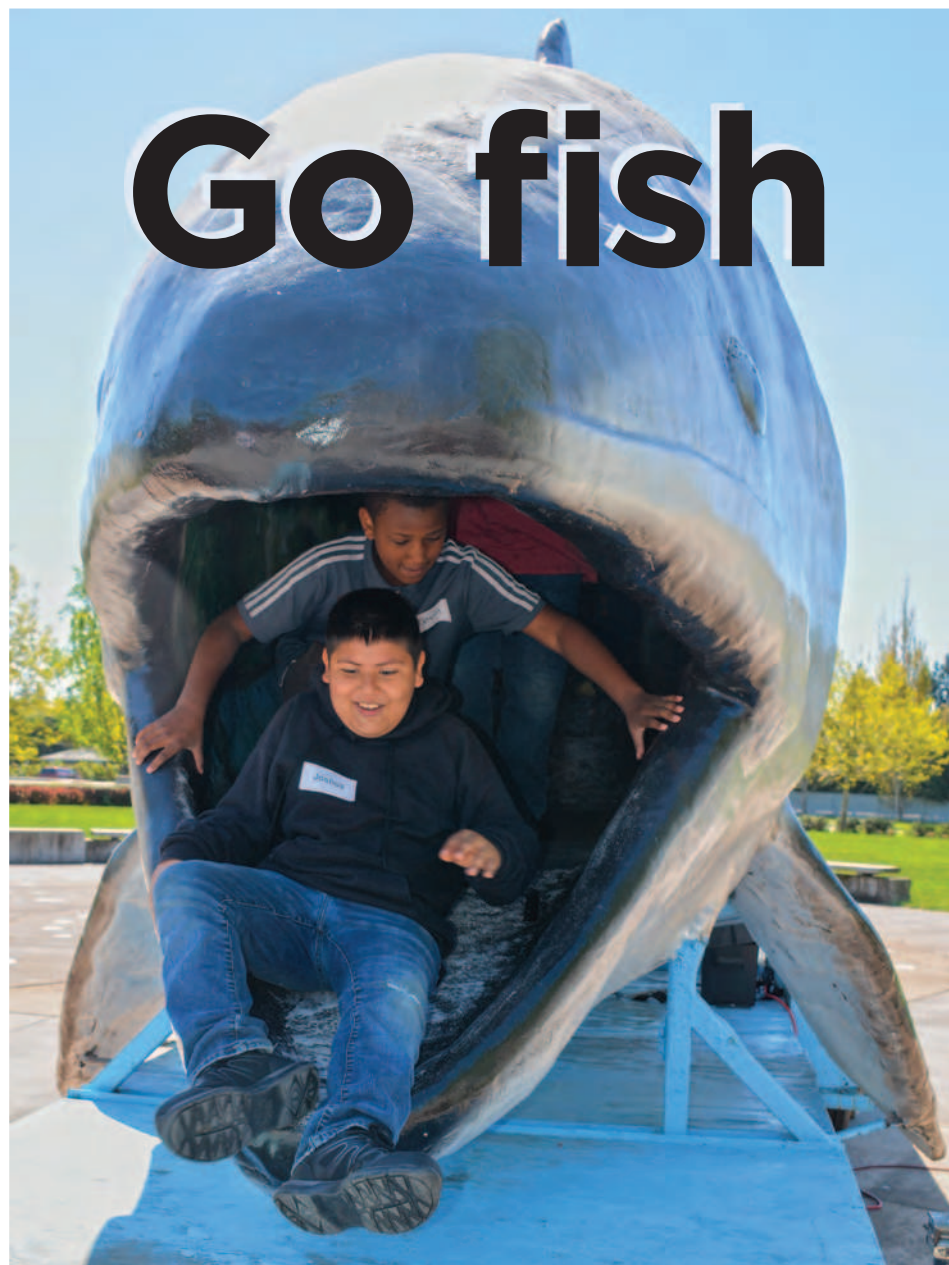

PAGE A3

Casting about

New column

PAGE A10

Go fish

KEIZERTIMES/Eric A. Howald
Joshua Vargas and Tevin Thomas Flemons slide out of the mouth of Claudia the Chinook Salmon as part of a Water Festival hosted by Keizer Public Works Tuesday, April 30. More photos on Page A4.

Man flees cops into attic, prompts apt. evacuation

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

A man who fled from police into the attic space of an apartment complex on Appleblossom Drive North prompted law enforcement officers to evacuate the entire complex for three hours while they executed a search.

The man was eventually arrested and taken to the Marion County Jail.

The incident began at 3:45 p.m. Monday, April 29, when Keizer Police Department (KPD) officers went to an apartment at 148 Appleblossom Drive looking for a man wanted on outstanding warrants from numerous agencies in addition to pending charges from local departments. The suspect was known to flee from police and resist arrest.

Officers questioned a female occupant where they believed the man was staying and she gave consent to search the apartment. Inside, officers noticed insulation on the floor below an access point to the attic and found an empty gun case for a Glock handgun.

E. Quall

A shoe fell to the floor when officers opened the door to the attic. Officers recognized the shoe from the last time the suspect fled police, said Sgt. Greg Barber, of KPD. There is no firewall between units at the apartment complex, which meant the man potentially had access to multiple exit points.

With the suspect considered armed, KPD and Salem Police Department officers evacuated the rest of the complex. Cameras were then used to try to locate the suspect in the attic, verbal commands went unanswered. Eventually, a K-9 unit was

Please see ATTIC Page A7

URGENT CARE
Monday-Friday 10-7
Weekends 10-5
5900 Inland Shores Way - Keizer
503.399.2424

Salem Clinic
Belong. For life.
salemclinic.org