

FREEZE, continued from Page A1

The Two-Week Freeze measures include:

- Limiting social get-togethers (indoors and outdoors) to no more than six people, total, from no more than two households.
- Limiting faith-based organizations to a maximum of 25 people indoors or 50 people outdoors.
- Limiting eating and drinking establishments to take-out and delivery only.
- Closing gyms and fitness organizations.
- Closing indoor recreational facilities, museums, indoor entertainment activities, and indoor pools and sports courts.
- Closing zoos, gardens, aquariums, outdoor entertainment activities, and outdoor pools.
- Limiting grocery stores and pharmacies to a maximum of 75% capacity and encouraging curbside pickup.
- Limiting retail stores and retail malls (indoor and outdoor) to a maximum of 75% capacity and encouraging curbside pickup.

- Closing venues (that host or facilitate indoor or outdoor events).

- Requiring all businesses to mandate work-from-home to the greatest extent possible and closing offices to the public.

- Prohibiting indoor visiting in long-term care facilities (outdoor visitation permitted for supporting quality of life).

Unlike the spring lockdown, the new freeze does not apply to personal services such as barber shops, hair salons, and non-medical massage therapy), congregate homeless sheltering, outdoor recreation and sports, youth programs, as well as childcare.

The Salem-Keizer School District has limited its in-person services even further and canceled sporting activities as a result of the freeze.

According to the most recent weekly report, the Oregon Health Authority, nearly 12% of more than 34,000 COVID-19 tests were positive for the disease. People of Hispanic descent are being disproportionately affected by the virus, the group represents approximately 13% of Oregon's population and 42% of known cases.

In the report, Community Action Head Start – Buena Crest had reported two cases of COVID-19 to the Oregon Health Authority. The preschool is located at the northernmost end of Keizer on River Road North.

the target of the post. "That was directed at me," said Herrera. "I've never been in a gang," he added.

Herrera supported progressive candidates running for the council earlier this month. Since that time, hostilities seemed to have festered, particularly among those who supported the winning candidates.

Herrera has taken heat in recent months over his stance pushing for a bold inclusivity resolution. Herrera wants the statement to include a condemnation of white supremacy, others on the council have appeared less willing to support such a statement. Herrera has also apologized, repeatedly, for the moments in public meetings when he appeared to let anger get the best of him.

Last week, Post submitted a written comment opposing the current draft of the values statement, then read it aloud as part of public testimony at the city council meeting Monday, Nov. 16. He is advocating for a more bare version of the statement: "All people shall be treated with dignity and respect."

"All means all," Post told the council. "If we must resort to listing specific people or groups then 'all' loses its meaning and strength."

As part of public testimony, another Keizer resident, told the council that she appreciated their work, but did not appreciate being labeled as a "gang member" because she had different views.

"I was disappointed to hear a difference of political views being characterized as a hostile takeover rather than a normal, healthy, part of the democratic process," said Pat Fisher.

Fisher noted that none of the candidates, on either side of the political spectrum, received more than 50% of the votes when undervotes were included. Undervotes are the number of ballots that are returned without a vote for a specific race.

Amid the rancor over a draft of the values statement under discussion, Councilor Dan Kohler used his city email address to admonish Herrera.

In a message sent Wednesday, Nov. 11, Kohler wrote, "The continual victimhood you spew reminds me of a deeply bitter man I once knew."

Kohler then recounts a parable-like tale of the man and how he "died a bitter man with few friends."

Kohler concludes writing, "I care about you. You don't look happy. I fear for your health and well being. God did not put us here on earth to be victims. Here is to putting your best foot forward, finding peace, joy and happiness in life. Let's stop and smell the roses."

The content of that email was not discussed during the council meeting, but a pallor of exhaustion appeared to hang over much of the council's discussions Monday night.

our community," Miller said.

A spokesperson for Brown said that non-compliance with the two-week freeze could result in a Class C Misdemeanor, which is punishable by up to 30 days in jail, a fine of up to $1,250, or both.

"All of the two-week freeze measures are enforceable by law upon both businesses and individuals, specifically, a Class C Misdemeanor. OSHA will coordinate with other state and local agencies in enforcing the two-week freeze measures relating to businesses," Gov. Brown's press secretary Liz Merah said. "Penalties, if issued, depend upon a number of factors, including the investigating agency, the size of the employer, the nature of the violation and the employer's good or poor faith in attempting to comply."

Bill Post, Republican State Representative for Oregon House District 25, offered his support for Miller and the Courthouse via Facebook.

"I am proud of my fellow Keizerite and look forward to hearing from more businesses in House District 25 who understand that locking down where a "lockdown" is not necessary only hurts our working folks," Post said. "It's one thing to tell businesses "stick it to her" but another for that business to be fined $1,000's."

Post was also one of 14 local politicians that asked Gov. Brown to reconsider her two-week freeze order in a letter that was sent on Tuesday, Nov. 17 — the letter included signatures from Keizer Mayor Cathy Clark and Marion County Commissioner Elect Danielle Bethell.

"We recognize the threat that COVID-19 poses to our community and support data driven decisions to limit the spread of this disease, but we do not support the mandate to close gyms, churches, and restaurants as it is not supported by historical data and will only address a small fraction of Oregon's COVID cases at the cost of thousands of jobs and hundreds of businesses," the letter read.

"Combined, cases that can be traced back to churches, restaurants and gyms make up less than 1% of all the recorded COVID cases in Oregon. Quite simply, there is no actual evidence that restaurants, gyms or churches are driving COVID in our community. In fact, because of the adherence to mask wearing and social distancing, these establishments have been some of the safest in the state."
