

1st hearing on possible compost site Jan. 13

By ERIC A. HOWALD
Of the Keizertimes

A public hearing has been scheduled regarding a proposed in-container composting business eyeing a city-owned property near Volcanos Stadium.

Because of COVID-19 concerns, the Keizer Planning Commission meeting will be held via Zoom. Those wishing to contribute to the discussion are encouraged to submit written testimony via email or dropped off at the Keizer Civic Center no later than 4 p.m. on Jan. 13. Send email testimony to withams@keizer.org.

City staff are proposing a change to the city's industrial zone code. Currently, composting facilities are specifically prohibited. Keizer's planning department is asking the planning commissioners and residents for input.

The as-yet-unnamed developer

City officials are considering changes to the industrial zoning code that would permit composting facilities. An unnamed developer has expressed interest in an area near Keizer Station for a containerized composting facility.

veloper is interested in a composting facility that would be the first of its kind in Keizer and one of fewer than 10 in the nation. Containerized composting takes place in batches with "airtight" vessels attached to a building with a biofilter to remove odors, according to Green Mountain Technologies, a Washington-based manufacturer of the containers. A single aeration system can accommodate up to 50 containers.

The Keizer City Council approved moving forward at its Dec. 7 meeting. If the planning commission recommends approval, there will be additional opportunities for public input at city council meetings.

COVID-19 vaccines expands to most health workers

Salem Health, in partnership with Marion County Public Health, expanded their vaccine clinic to the Oregon State Fairgrounds and Expo Center. All individuals living or working in Marion County and included in the Oregon Health Authority's Phase 1a Vaccine Sequencing Plan are invited to receive a vaccination.

The OHA announced that all individuals in Phase 1a, Groups 1-4 are eligible for vaccine at this time. These groups include the following:

health care personnel at hospitals; urgent care clinics, health care personnel and residents from skilled nursing; long term care and memory care facilities; tribal health programs; EMS providers and other first responders; individuals who work in hospice programs; mobile crisis care and related services, and secure transport; Individuals working in correctional settings; health care personnel in outpatient settings, public health and early learning; in-home care; day treatment services; death care workers; and non-emergency medical transport.

The vaccine clinic will operate at the Jackman Long Building at the Oregon State Fair and Expo Center, 2330 17th St NE, Salem. The clinic will be open Jan. 9 and Jan. 10 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Jan. 11 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Individuals who arrive to be vaccinated will be asked to attest to their eligibility as a member of OHA's Phase 1A groups.

AGENDAS: One legislator wants state to intervene instruction without regard for COVID-19 spread in the community, but instead should carefully consider the metrics in their local context, the needs of students and families, and readiness to implement health and safety protocols," Brown said.

Salem-Keizer Public Schools (SKPS) Superintendent Christy Perry says that she will have an announcement regarding district plans in January. However, the decision to reopen SKPS schools will likely require approval from the school board, as well as an agreement from the two unions that represent the majority of employees in the district.

It's anticipated that another main topic of discussion this month for the board will be about the new policy passed that gives board chair Satya Chandragiri additional authority to manage public comments during meetings. The new policy, which passed 4-3, allows the board chair to cut off comments deemed "obscene, derogatory, name-calling, racist, threatening" or that criticize district employees by name.

In response to the new policy, state representative Paul Evans (D-Monmouth) penned a letter directed towards Chandragiri, calling the leaders of the school board "an embarrassment."

"I write this letter out of necessity: community leaders must hold each other accountable when there is a problem and sir—I respectfully tell you that the way you and your allies conduct business is antithetical to your public charge. Your attitude toward the most vulnerable among us, the language to all who disagree, and your persistent claims of victimhood are an embarrassment to our state and community," the letter read.

Evans also wrote in the letter his plans to draft, and seek to advance for passage, legislation that would expand the board by seven members who would be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate. Currently, school board members are elected locally and serve unpaid, four-year terms.

Salem-Keizer School Board meetings can be viewed live on Capital Community (channel 22) or on YouTube.

council policy, when naming a new council president. Councilor Roland Herrera, who has served the longest continuous term as a city councilor would have been next in line behind Freeman. Councilor Dan Kohler nominated Herrera and Herrera quickly declined. In his place, Councilor Elizabeth Smith was nominated and approved by consent.
