Parks Master Plan approval pushed to February

The Keizer Parks Advisory Board held one its shortest meetings ever on Tuesday, Dec. 14: 12 minutes.

With Dan Kohler filling in for city council liaison Elizabeth Smith, and all members in attendance, the board heard reports of slight damage in some city parks due to last week's windstorm.

Parks Division Manager Robert

Johnson reported that the recently completed Parks Master Plan needs to be presented to the Planning Commission before the plan is voted on by the city council. The Planning Commission will not meet again until January, pushing final approval of the plan to February 2022.

VOLUNTEER of the Week

presented by

William Leach

Where and how do you volunteer?

Being one of several who volunteer at the Keizer Community Library, and currently serving as President of the Board of Directors, I work with a truly dynamic and inspired team of people providing a variety of library services that support the entire Keizer community. Those services include programs that enhance reading skills for children and adults, providing computers and internet access for community use, managing the circulation of thousands of books and DVDs to library card holders, issuing free library cards to everyone who applies, sorting hundreds of donated books each year and many other related activities. As a non-profit organization, we also spend time meeting with business and community leaders, patrons and others raising the funding we need each year to continue our community support.

Why do you volunteer?

Volunteering for me is a powerful way to give back. Even though it may be a small way, I feel that supporting the library and the services it provides to the community allows me to express, in a very personal and real way, my appreciation for all the community has provided me and my family for over 40 years. It builds the sense of community.

What does volunteering do for you?

Volunteering has been incredibly rewarding for me. I get to meet a lot of great people, make new friends, fill my time with purpose and meaning that goes beyond all the joy I get from my family and it keeps me involved. Volunteering has truly inspired and enriched my life.

How do you get others to volunteer in their community?

It is always a personal decision that each of us get to make. What I share with others is the personal sense of reward and connection I feel with my efforts. Hopefully that will inspire others to reach out as well.
