6 Sullivan proving to be one of nation's best

He may be new to the area, but it didn't take long for Colby Sullivan to establish himself as one of the best young golfers in the Northwest. Sullivan, who is currently a junior at McNary, was the only golfer from Oregon that competed in the High School Golf National Invitational at Pinehurst Resort, N.C, which took place June 28-30. In the three-day, 54-hole tournament, Sullivan placed 34th out of more than 300 participants, shooting a 78 on day one, a 79 on day two and a 71 on the final day.

"I started to putt a lot better later in the tournament. I felt a lot more relaxed and took more advantage of my birdie chances," Sullivan said. "Playing in such a big tournament was a little nerve racking, but once I got out there I just played my game. It was a great experience and I think it will prepare me for other tournaments down the road."

Sullivan grew up in Virginia and experienced immediate success early on in his high school career. As a freshman at Lancaster High School, Sullivan was named the 1A Player of the Year in 2020 — high school golf is a fall sport in Virginia.

Sullivan credits his early high school success to his dad, who at one point competed on the PGA Tour and has played in nine major tournaments.

"My dad really got me into golf at a young age. I was swinging clubs by the time I was three years old," Sullivan said. "The experience that he has, plus playing with him all the time, has led to my success ... Golf is a big deal in my family."

Even though he still has two more years of high school golf, Sullivan already has his sights set on the next level, and aspires to be a professional golfer one day — just like his father.

"My dream is to go to the U of O. I have always wanted to play there,"

Sullivan said. "Even if I don't get to play there, I am shooting to play at the Division I level."

"The ultimate goal is to do exactly what my dad did and get my PGA Tour card."
