Former Volcanoes pitchers listed on 2022 HOF ballot

Nathan

Lincecum

Former Salem-Keizer Volcanoes pitchers Tim Lincecum and Joe Nathan were two of 30 players listed on Major League Baseball's 2022 Hall of Fame ballot — both players are first-time nominees.

Lincecum, a 5-foot-10, 170-pound right-hander, otherwise known as "The Freak" is the only pitcher in Major League Baseball (MLB) history to win back-to-back Cy Young awards in his first two full seasons. Lincecum also appeared in four consecutive All-Star Games and led the National League (NL) in strikeouts for three straight seasons.

Lincecum and Los Angeles Dodgers legend Sandy Koufax are the only two players in MLB history to throw multiple no-hitters, win multiple Cy Young awards, receive multiple All-Star selections and win multiple World Series titles.

Nathan, on the other hand, played in six All-Star Games and is considered one of the greatest closers of all time.

Nathan ended his career with the eighth most saves in MLB history (377) — 376 of which were in the AL, which is second most in league history. He also retired with an 89.3% save percentage, which is the highest among players with at least 200 saves.

Nathan's had four seasons with 35 saves, a sub-1.89 ERA and sub-1.00 WHIP, which is tied for the most of all time. His nine seasons of 35 saves or more and four seasons of 40 saves or more are each the third most in MLB history.

We weren't looking for someone to go wine tasting with and to be our new BFF... we wanted someone that knew the market like the back of their hand and would be a tough negotiator for us.
That's Dana!

I had some financial challenges. Another Realtor told me that I should come back in a year and they would "try" to help me then. Dana connected me with his "team", guided me through the process and I'm sitting on the back patio of my new home as I write this. Thank you! I don't think I'll be contacting that other Realtor in a year!
