Want a New Engine Horse.

At a meeting of Prineville Fire Co. No. 1 held last Monday evening, a committee was appointed to wait on the town council and present to that body the necessity of either building a new engine house or procuring more suitable quarters in which to house the fire apparatus. The old engine house is totally inadequate for the use to which it is applied. The front is open, allowing dust to get into and damage the machinery of the engine during the summer months, and cannot be heated during cold weather to prevent the valves from freezing up, so when the engine is used hot water has to be applied to thaw the valves, retarding the packing and may cause disastrous delay at times when the company is called out to battle with fires. The town has a fire apparatus which cost over $2000, and it is not economy to let it go to waste or become unserviceable. It should be well cared for and kept in the best repair so that it will render efficient service when needed, and the only way this can be done is by providing a suitable house in which to store it when not in use. The town is now paying $84 a year rent for a room used as recorder's office and fire hall. This would more than pay interest on the amount that would be necessary to put up a building that would answer the purpose of recorder's office, fire hall and engine house combined, so it would be a saving for the town to put up such a building, even if it had to incur an indebtedness of $500 or $600 to do it. When the matter is laid before the council, it is to be hoped the councilmen will take a business-like view of it and that their decision will be to build a new house.

A Fair Outlook.

The occasional chilly blasts that come down from the north warn residents of Eastern Oregon of the near approach of winter and tell them that they cannot much longer bask in summer sun or be comfortable in light garments. They are also informed that the season is near at hand when their live stock must be gathered from the range and provided with artificial feed. But for this the people of Crook county are well prepared. Every farmer and stock raiser in the county has abundance of hay, and there probably has never been a season since this county was first settled when stock raisers felt more secure or when the outlook was better for the people to get through an approaching winter with light losses. Not only is hay and feed on the range abundant, but stock of every description is in better condition than is usual at this time of the year, and there should be no loss except from old age or disease.

Thought His Time Had Come.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen returned home from a visit to Halcyon, when Mrs. Allen had supper about ready. Mr. Allen thought he would sharpen his appetite by taking a dose of medicine which he had been using during the summer, before he went to Halcyon. He had hardly taken the medicine when he experienced a peculiar burning sensation all over his body and his hands and feet began swelling. Medical aid was summoned immediately and Mr. Allen was soon restored to his usual state. The peculiar effect of the medicine is attributed to the bottle having stood some time, the drugs had become separated and did not perform their proper functions. Mr. Allen's first impression was that he was poisoned, and that the time had come for him to denounce his wife and go hence. He says his greatest regret at the time was that he had just arrived home and had not yet had time to see and shake hands with his many old friends here before being called away for good.

Can't Compare With Ore. no.

Mr. Wilkins returned Monday evening from attending a meeting of the World's Fair commission at Chicago. Mr. Wilkins says that the next legislature should make an appropriation of at least $50,000 with which Oregon can be properly represented at the great fair. He was through the permanent exhibition building while in Chicago, and says no exhibit there of grain or cereals can begin to compare with that grown in Oregon. It excels alone do they exceed us. In timber Oregon need not fear competition. — Eugene Guard.

There is no question but Oregon can make as fine a display of cereals and fruit as any state in the union, but if the exhibit is not to be made on $30,000 there will be exhibits there that will not compare with Oregon's, but will be so far ahead of it that the throng in attendance will never realize that Oregon attempted to display her products.

A Good Ride.

Last Monday C. M. Crain, the book agent, "politician" and "learned" man generally, bid adieu to Prineville and has gone—the Lord knows where—we suppose. Prineville is fortunate in getting rid of Crain, as he was perfectly useless to society, though harmless, being too weak minded to do any harm, as anyone at all observing would not be taken in by his bombastic talk and silly schemes. Crain had been here since last spring, and at times made himself conspicuous through the columns of the News, and the editor of that paper is probably the only person in town who will regret his departure, he seemingly having formed quite a liking for Crain.

Send in the News.

The Review wants the news from every product in the county, hence it wants a correspondent in every precinct who will make a note of the happenings and send them in for publication. Anything of general interest is always acceptable, as it makes the paper more readable and of more interest to readers generally.

Railroad News.

A company of Union Pacific engineers have been making a close inspection of the survey on the Albany & Astoria line from Astoria south, which leads the Astoria Columbia to think there is something in the wind among railroad managers. It says: "This is one fact that tends to confirm the rumored purchase of the Oregon Pacific road by the Union Pacific and of the statement that the Union Pacific intends building a line immediately from there to Astoria. It is said, too, that the Oregon Pacific line will be extended through to Harney valley, instead of building the line from Baker City southwest, as has been proposed. This would make a road to the sea over a hundred miles shorter than by the circuitous Baker City route. This line would connect with the Union Pacific's present line at Parana, fifty-eight miles south of Huntington."

The Jury List.

The following named persons have been drawn to serve as jurors at the October, 1890, term of circuit court, for Crook county: O. G. Colver, farmer, Haystacks, G. W. Shepard, stock raiser, Camp Cr., B. E. Allen Jr., " Prineville, C. E. Person " " Black Butte, L. A. Wren, farmer, Willow creek, V. Circle, stock raiser, Beaver, E. E. Were Not Stolen.

C. M. Charlton returned last Saturday from Gilliam county, where he had gone at the instance of the Cattle and Horse Protective Association, to inquire after the ownership of the band of horses that were driven through this county last August by John Martin and John Scott—the parties Byron Springer had arrested at Red Bluff prior to his untimely death. Mr. Charlton made diligent inquiry among the stockmen in the locality from which Martin started, and learned that Martin was in the employ of Gilman Bros., largest stock owners in that section, and that he was in lawful possession of the horses, they having been placed in his charge by Gilman Bros., so the theory that they were stolen in this county by Martin is without foundation.

An Evidence of Enterprise.

This office is in receipt of a large 26-page paper issued by the managers of the Northwest Industrial Exposition of Spokane Falls, Wash. It is elegantly illustrated with half-tone pictures of the principal buildings and fine scenery of Spokane and surrounding country, together with pictures and biographical sketches of about one hundred of its leading citizens. The paper is not only an excellent advertisement for Spokane, but is a display of enterprise that might well be followed by many larger and more pretentious places.

Better Than Government Bonds.

The ordinary living expenses of a family of five persons, living in the customary manner of the American people, amounts to not less than $1500 a year. It would require nearly $40,000 in government bonds to produce this income. Ten acres of land in the Willamette valley planted to prunes, with an ordinary crop at ordinary prices, will net more than $1500, after paying for all the labor placed thereon. You can buy this land from The Oregon Land Company of Salem, Oregon, in tracts of ten acres or more at from $65 to $75 per acre.

Go Away to School.

On Tuesday Mr. E. Barnes started to Corvallis, accompanied by his three granddaughters, Miss Mattie, May and Susie Barnes, and Miss Rora Dodson, who expect to enter the State Agricultural College at Corvallis. The young ladies all completed the course in the Prineville public schools last winter, each displaying marked ability, and they will doubt acquire themselves creditably in college.

County Court Proceedings.

A special term of commissioners' court was held this week, at which the following business was transacted: Ordered that a levy of 1 1/2 mills on the dollar on all taxable property in the county be made. Bills allowed aggregating $558.50. Misses Mattie, May and Susie Barnes and Rora Dodson appointed as students to the State Agricultural College.
