Without Pay.

the Question is Further Investigated

-Other Interesting News.

The South Bend town assessment roll, is not to be abandoned until the que

Sloux country.

their money goes.

now completed, shows a property valuation of nearly $2,500,000

CHOCO REVIEW THE PACIFIC COAST. PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY

& J. . A. . DOUTHIT. Terms of Subscription

136 Fort Lowell Not to be Abandoned Until OFFICE IN MASONIC BUILDING

State Offic	int I	Heertory.
percent, cribs y of State, gle Transcret, lair Pathler, gle Dute Apparenthms,		GRONGE W. M. BRIDE PRIL METERAL PRIL METERAL PRIL METERAL PRIL METERAL PRIL METERAL
date Impresse Court.	- 8	IL S BENGHAN
hilled States Senature, our results. blue S venth District, possesting Aktorney, but repaire.		BINGS HERMANN J. H. HIPPO W. H. WILMOND C. A. COMMUNICAL

apparentation, our y Judge.		 T. J. STREMENS
commissioniers.		ARTHUR HO
breift.		ARTHUR HOLES
reactor. Sired respertutements	t.	W. A. Gree
broof. P. Princettle Precis		M H W W S
Contable.	100	B. Mila

Arrival and Departure of Malla.

A C. PALMER, P. M.

MEETINGS OF SOCIETIES.

PRINCIPLE FIRE COMPANY, No. 1. MEETS

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

C. A. CLINE, Dentist, Dentist,

Princyille, Or.

H. P. BELKNAP, M. D., Physician and Surgeon,

Office in the 'man's drug store.

GEORGE W. BARNES. ATTORNEY AT LAW,

Prineville, Or

Office on Third street.

J. F. MOORE, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Princettle, Or.

Office on street leading to Courthouse near plans

D. L. PATEE.

Contractor : and : Builder,

Prineville, Oregon.

HARRINGTON & LEWIS,

Saloonists, West Side of Main Street, Princville, Opposite Cohes' Stable,

Keep a full stock of the choicest brands of Wines, Liquors and Cigars.

ALSO HAVE Fine Fifteen-Ball Pool and Billiard Ta-bles in First-Class Repair.

Neat and Comfortable Club Rooms for

* HARRINGTON & LEWIS.

Intelligent Readers will notice that Tutt's Pills

Vertigo, Headache, Dyspepsia, Fevers, Costiveness, Bilious Colic, Flatulence, etc. For these they are not warranted in-follible, but are as nearly so as it is pos-sible to make a remedy. Price, 25cia. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

EASTERN ITEMS.

Montana's Legislature Will Serve A Proposition Made to Form a The Czar Continues to Persecute Drug Trust.

> Great Increase of Applications for Pension -Alaska Will Probably Have a Territorial Government.

> It is stated that the Pewabic copper mine was sold at Houghton, Mich., for $710,000. The purchase is probably in the interest of the Quincy Copper Com-

The coal output of the State of Washlagton for the year 1890 is estimated in 1,347,773 tons, against 911,527 tons in vited to take part in Columbian Exposi-tion, and say Canada's exposition will be Scattle merchants seem to have utterconfined to private expositions. ly failed in their early-closing movement,

It is stated that a proposition has been made to get the Detroit wholesale drugmany of the larger firms refusing to close even as early as 8 o'clock. gists to join a drug trust, which is projected with a capital of $6,000,000 by New York and London druggists.

lighthouse to or near the month of Tillamook river.

A geologist will be employed at the Bitter Creek coal mines to examine the ores brought to the surface by the diamond drill in order that a thorough test may be made.

The Canadian

The second trial of the Provenzanos for lying in wait and shooting and wounding at New Orienns resulted in a verdict of acquittal. The case formed the basis upon which rests the theory of the murder of Chief of Police Hennessy. The President has appointed the Com-which was recently seized for smuggling on Puget Sound, has been libeled for $400, and, the owners refusing to pay it, the vessel will be sold. missioners to test the coinage of the mi is for the calendar year 1890. Among The new $25,000 opers house at Payal-lup is receiving the finishing touches, and will be turned over to the owners them are Congressman Thomas H. Car-ter; Frank A. Leach, Oakland, Cal.; J. R. Metten, Helena, Mont.; G. W. soon. It has a seating capacity of 700, and will be lighted with electricity. R. Metten, Helena, Mont.; G. Moore, Boise City, Idaho.

The company operating the steamer Dispatch between Whatcom and the islupatch between Whatcom and the islup on the beach at Clifton, Mass, with and shave secured the mail contract, and and shave secured the mail contract, and and shave secured the mail contract another small brass plates attached and the name find it necessary to secure another deamer in order to make daily trips. Columbia, it is supposed from the cabin of some steamer. Ware's Beach is also of some steamer. Ware's Beach is also strewn with oranges, lemons and squashes, supposed to be from a wreck. Bradstreet's mercantile agency reports sixteen failures in the Pacific Coast States and Territories for the past week, At Albany, N. Y., in the United States District Court James Faulkner, a brother of the late General Faulkner, charged as compared with thirty for the previous week and fourteen for the corresponding of the late teleral ranning with wrecking the Danville bank, pleaded guilty temaking a laise report to the Comptroller of Currency, and was sentenced to the Albany prison for five years The Astoria Prospecting Company has been formed to pro-pect in Oregon and Washington for coal and minerals, nat-ural gas, coal and water. The incorpor-ators are H. B. Parker, R. R. Marion, F. J. Goodenough and W. E. Dement. Commissioner Morgan of the Indian Bureau has written a letter to Father Craft, the Catholic priest, asking him in A telegram has been received from General Schoffeld, stating that Fort Lowview of his writings to religious newspa pers to formally prefer charges against him (Morgan), so that a thorough inves-tigation may be made of the workings of tion is further investigated. Troops II and K have left for Fort Wingate to take the place of troops that have gone to the Senator Allen has received a memorial from the Tacoma Chamber of Commores asking that an appropriation be made for the luget Sound dry took. He can get his bill for the appropriation reported from the Naval Committee. Before the naval appropriation bill is considered he may be able to get it tacked on to that as an amendment. He is now making the struggle for that result. A petition is being circulated at E temburgh, Wash, which calls for the overhading of the books and accounts of the city government for the past four or five years. It is a movement of the taxpayers, who want to know where

At the last meeting of the Seattle the newly-elected members of the board, submitted a letter upon the finances of the schools. It pointed out the state of the finances, and called attention to the necessity for economical management in lieve the lymph materially helped him. He had splendid treatment, being a first-class patient. His case was regarded as Apropos of the story that Collector a bad one, and, believing he could get no help, he returned to America. He declared that in all the time he was in Berlin he never heard of a single cure Bradshaw was attempting to divert en-tries and clearances from Tacoma to Port Townsend, J. A. Baillie, local representative of of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., whose from the treatment.

firm has chartered a majority of the ships that have already arrived at Tacoma, says it is his firm belief that there is not a word of truth in the report. ative of of Ballour, Online and a majority of the ships firm haschartered a majority of the ships that have already arrived at Tacoma, says it is his firm belief that there is not a word of truth in the report.

At San Francisco Collector Phelps has received from the Treasury Department as copy of the regulations governing the larger proportion under the dependent act of June last. This is the dependent act of June last. This is the largest number ever issued by the the largest number ever issued by the bureau during a like period. A vast brought from foreign ports for exhibition will be admitted free of duty, but will be admitted free of duty, but will be admitted free of duty, but will be admitted free of the fair. Then they can either be shipped to the country from which they came or can be sold from the treatment.

The Portuguese Meradum Africa Combant for damages in says the British South Africa Combant for adaptive for adaptive for a succeed the British South Africa Combant for a damage in the could not without his consent; but has sued the British South Africa Combant for adaptive for a succeed the sail succeed to be young again. He could not give his only son.

I remember so well when he placed his has sued the British South Africa Combant for a succeed to be yo tion at the World's Fair. All the articles brought from foreign ports for exhibition will be admitted free of duty, but will be under the charge of customs officers until the close of the fair. Then they can either be shipped to the country from which they came or can be sold here on payment of duty. All articles belonging to any government for exhibition only can be entered free on the certificate of the respective government's Commissioner. Other liberal arrangements are made, though the government is fully protected against fraud.

The Indian appropriation till introduced in the House contains the usual sums for the purposes provided by law. The State of Washington gets the following amounts: Columbias and Colvilles, $7,000; Duwamish, $7,000; Yakima, $10,000; Walla Walla, Cayase and Uma-At the annual meeting of the San tilla, $6,500. All the tribes in Idaho are provided for, and money is appropriated for special services at the different agen-Francisco Chamber of Commerce held recently resolutions were adopted inviting all commercial organizations for the An attempt will be made to put Pacific Coast to promptly join in memo-rializing Congress in favor of speedy construction of the Nicaragua canal; calling for a monthly pilot chart of the the Cour d'Alene on the appropriation bill when it goes to the Senate, provid-ing of course the bill ever gets through the House at this session calling for a monthly pilot chart of the Pacific Ocean; memorializing Congress to improve the government of Alaska; pass the shipping bill, and establish a naval reserve to be attached to the National Guard of California. The following resolution was also adopted: "That The Union Pacific officials announced that Gould is favorably disposed towards recognizing the transcontinental associa-tion rates of 1890 as applicable to Utah points from the Missouri river. The deing resolution was also adopted: "That the Senators and members of Congress cision causes considerable comment railroad circles, as it is known that the Board of Trade of Salt Lake City presented an application to the Union Pacific people demanding the new rate and and offering a monopoly of business of the Territory if granted. The decision means a reduction of fraight and cassion the Senators and members of Congress of the Pacific Coast be respectfully re-quested to take such steps as shall ap-pear to them best to secure a vessel from the United States navy for the purpose and an appropriation sufficient to equip such vessel for service, to proceed at as soundings for the Pacific Ocean cable from San Francisco to the Hawaiian Islands, and thence to the colony of New Zeeland via the island of Tutulia.

Montans econd Legislature will serve without pay unless the Supreme Courts without pay unless the Supreme Court with the War Department regarding the Wounded K nee battle. This substantial wounded K nee battle. This substantial the pay of the Constitution, the substantial the pay of the Constitution, which was refused. The constitution, the best was the compensation of members of the first Legislature should be fixed by any of the first Legislature should be fixed by the first Legislature, and no appropriation has been made to meet the expenses of them been made

FOREIGN NEWS.

His Catholic Subjects.

London Bankers Favor the Passage of the Silver Bill Now Before the United States Congre

The Chinese port of Chun Khing will be opened to foreign powers.

Germany is said to be planning to get control of the Gilbert Islands.

A draft of a new consection, between Spain and England is being canyassed.

An English Company has taken the Austrian Lloyd traffic in the Adriatic and Levant. In political circles the belief is ex pressed that the ministerial crisis in Rlo Janeiro is about over.

The Spanish Cabinet has d cided to do away with all treaties of commerce with other countries except with Morocco.

Arrangements are completed for the opening early in March of telephone communication between Paris and Lon-

The Austrian census shows that Buda-

Three British firms are sending for bidding privileges for building raillways in Africa. They offer to invest a capital

A Zanzibar dispatch save that a Por-tuguese official threatened to appeal to force to eject German trespassers, as he The London bankers in conference have agreed the silver bill in Congress should be passed, but its provisions restricted to American mines. It now transpires that the late Duke of Bedford shot himself during a 'empo-racy fit of insanity while suffering from extreme pain and weakness.

The Pope denies that he has written as alleged by the cable agency, to President Harrison regarding the treatment of the North American Indians.

Lord Salisbury is authority for the statement that a portion of the British Pacific squadron has left Panama to pro-tect the British interests in Chilt. The campaign of tenants in Ireland give as their reason for settling with landiords that the league had failed to sustain them financially, as promised,

Germany's Emperor has given orders that there shall be no public illuminations this year on his birthday. Last year a large sum was spent for this purpose for any When I joked her preference for any When I joked her make another strike in May for a labor dear old brother, you are worth more holiday, and the unfortunate scenes of last year are more than likely to be re-Advices from St. Petersburg state that the Russian government has determined to dismiss all Swedish officers from the Finnish military forces and put R sians fired upon and taken, South Carolina had in their places. The Portuguese-Mozambique Company Prince Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, proposes to visit St. Petersburg early in February, when the czar will doubtless reciprocate the cordial greet-ing of the Austrian Emperor to the

The Free Masons of Germany are petitioning the Reichstag against the repeal of the law expelling the Jesuits. The Catholic press returns the compliment by calling for the suppression of Free Masons.

The King of Dahomey is negotiating with English and German bouses for the purchase of breech-loading guns to arm his Amazons. Although he has made peace with France, he has refused to trade with them.

A frightful accident is reported from Pensing, a village in the suburbs of Vienna. During divine service, while the church was full of worshipers, the choir loft suddenly gave way, and eight persons were killed in the wreck and many others is in a others injured.

The Austrian Diet has adopted a curious method of providing for a public duty by enacting a law which levies a tax of 200,000 florins on the Bourse for the support of the poor. The exact relation of the stock exchange to poverty is not stated in the preamble.

THE OLD STORY

You may call it firration, or what not, But I don't see that I was to blama. How could I know that you loved ma, When you never once mentioned the same! I've walked in the startight with many. And have risked my life on the bay. Yet among them I've never found any But had something decided to say

You thought that your allence had told me?
The silence that's golden, we've heard;
But the girl of today prefers silver,
Coined into words sweet and atsurd;
There are lovers whom there's no mistaking,
Whose language leaves no one in doubt;
There are others who leave one's heart aching
For a word there's no living without.

But since the sweet year has grown older,
And you've failed as a special pleader,
Shall I be left out in the cold, sir,
Because I was not a mind reader?
You blame me, I think, without reason;
If you really had something to say,
What matters the time or the season?

A STRANGE STORY.

That many of you will laugh at its probability I do not doubt. However, we laugh most at that which we do not understand and caunot explain.

I was not as a boy particularly different I was not as a boy particularly different from other boys of my age. Perhaps I was more fond of books and reading than the average, but that I inherited from both parents, and I am afraid that I was not at all particular about the quality, either—dime novels, Scott, ancient history or Smollett—everything that came in my

One thing was a great source of trouble Pesth, Hungary, has a population of to me as I grew older, and has remained a to me as I grew older, and has remained a treat mystery until this day. It was decade. sep by somebody speaking my name.

At first it frightened me, and later I would spring out of bed, and, striking a light, search everywhere, but nothing could be seen. Then I tried locking my door, but it made no difference; the "voice" or "voices," whatever they might were still there I told my father, but he only laughed, and advised me to see a doctor

And now the "voices." if anything, became more frequent, until they came to be an old story, and I was 19 years of age when the events I am about to tell you of took place We lived in the college town of Cand, being well to-do people, moved in the best society of the place, for, you know that, no matter how small a place may be, it has its grades of society, and there is always "the best" Father had been a professor, but ill health obliged him to give up teaching; and with a fair income, in a congenial neighborhood, his last days seemed to be pleasant ones. It was a great source of grief to him that his only son would not enter college. But on this point I was obstinate, and finding that I was so opposed to a college life, he—bless his heart!—finally gave in, and I entered the counting room of a wholesale house in

And sister Neilie-she was not beauty as we judge of beauty, but she was bright, lively and happy—like sunshine wherever she went Every face brightened when she came near; old and young had only words of press for "Miss. Nellie."

Austrian Socialists have determined to ting her arms about my neck, say

Nellie, darling sister Nellie, how I loved ber! And she-well, nobody ever had such a brother, and no lover for favor in her eyes when "brother W was around

It was in 1861 Fort Sumter had been decided to leave the Chion, and declared. Everybody was full of excitement and I among the rest. I begged my father to let me culist, for, not being of father to let me without his consent; but dictions, and as winter came on they, with the rest of us, accepted the sad fact that it was to be a long, hard struggle. Both sides were brave and determined.

Nellie was very enthusiastic and very patriotic, she sympathized with me in my desire to fight for my country; and yet, after one of those long talks to cheer me up, she would—woman like—spoil it all by putting her arms about me and er. by putting her arms about me, and ex-claiming, "No, no, brother Will; we can't t you go." How busy she was in those days! doing everything for the comfort of those who were fighting, and cheering those who were left behind. Many were the bless ings that were called down upon her for her words of comfort and her other acts more substantial nature. One day in December I was sitting in

One day in December I was sitting in my office at work, or, rather, I should have been at work; but a feeling of uneasiness possessed me without any apparent cause, and I had laid down my pen and was looking out of the window, watching the people pass and thinking of nothing in particular. I did not know what was the matter with me; I only felt unease. Suddenly I heard a "voice" at Suddenly I heard a "voice" at uneasy. Suddenly I heard a "voice" at my side speak as those "voices" never had before: "Willie! Willie!" I sprang from my seat so thoroughly frightened that the other clerks noticed ellie had left there long be fore dark visited all th likely to call the same re By this were as frig on the outsk we feared we di any trace or clew, and most of the party had decided to wait until daylight before continuing the search. I, too, had turned back, when one of those "voices," now so familiar, spoke my name I waited. "Turn to the left. By the big oak you will find Nellie." You may not believe it. No matter. I had no thought of hesitating—my faith was sure—and turning my horse. I fairly flew over the snow. It was only a short way, and I was at the oak. I sprang out of the sleigh and flashed my light here and there, then gave one cry. "Nellie!" and knew no more.

When I came out of my father's house.

When I came out of my father's house again the snow had disappeared, the trees were putting forth their tiny leaves and the brave little crocus was in full bloom. Winter had retired in favor of spring. Most of the time was a blank to me. From the moment I saw Nellie's upturned face under the old oak I knew nothing until, weeks after, I found myself in my room, with mother bending over me.

When I was able to bear it, they told me all there was to tell. Nellie had been found lying in the snow, dead. There me all there was to tell Nellie had been found lying in the snow, dead. There were tracks of a sleigh, but so far as they were able to judge, there was no struggle of any kind. Where her head lay, there was a large stone, and a mark on her forehead made them theorize that per forehead made them theorize that per haps she fell from the sleigh and came to her death through its means. But why was she there, and who was with her, and why did he leave her? Detec-tives had falled to find any clew. The country was in such a state of excitement all the time, that the occurrence was for gotten sconer than it might have been, except by the heartbroken family and immediate friends.

Yes—one other did not forget it. He who had caused her death could not for who had caused her death could not forget it. All the theories in the world could not shake my belief that she had been murdered—but by whom? My life should be given to find out. I grew better, but the great shock had taken all the ambition and aim of my life out of me. Work I could not. Even if I did busy my hand with this thing or that, my mind was not with it; it simply used no time. Father and mother, though they had their own heavy grief to bear, sorrowed still more to see me in such a state And I—my God, how I suffered! I—my God, how i suffered!

At length I could stand it no longer
The president was calling for more troops —here was a chance for relief I went to my father and told him it was my only hope—I must get away from myself or die I can see him now, as he sat in his study, his face buried in his hands, strug the structure of design. At length, study his face buried in his hands, struggling against love and desire. At length, clasping my hands, he placed the other on my head, and said "William, it is for the best—go, and may God protect you!"

I will pass over the intervening days, for though I had my desire, and all amought it was fee the best "he parting was no less hard. I obtained an officer's commission and went out with a home. was no less and went out with a home regiment. In the hardships and the excitement of army life I grew away from my old self and grief, and became a man

It had been a day of heavy fighting, and many of our brave men lay dead and dying on the field. My regiment had been in the thickest of it, and after it was all over I went forth to look after my men and to render such assistance as could or that might be needed. I was wandering about in the vicinity where we had been fighting, when one of those "voices" that still haunted me, but no longer gave me any uneasiness, said
"Willie" I waited. "Turn to your left Remember Nellie!" Perhaps you can imagine how this startled me, not the sound of the "voice"—that was an old story — but those words. "Remember Nelliet" Remember her! I never forgot her or her sad fate. Sleeping or waking I seemed to see her upturned face as it lay there on the snow, but the "voice" said, "Remember Neille!" I turned and walked on mechanically. I knew I was being led for some purpose, and soon the "voice" said, "He is here." Who was

I looked down, and there lay a young I looked down, and there lay a young man in an officer's uniform; be had a fa-miliar look, but my memory refused to place him. Suddenly, as by a great effort, it flashed across my brain he was one of the students at college, and a great ad-mirer of Nellie's. He was of Spanish birth, and Nellie often said she was fairly afraid of him

And there he lay, cold and lifeless. But why had I been led here? I stooped down, and saw that one hand had drawn a small leather case half out of his pocket. I become dit and opened the case. Inside I loosened it and opened the case. Inside found his name and a few papers, then picture. I gasped, and almost fell. It was Nellie's, and fastened to it was a lock of hair. Then it flashed across my mind, as thoughts will, without any apparent reason, that here lay Nellie's murderer. I asked the question, in my mind, and, turning my face upward, I waited for an answer It was only a few seconds—it seemed an age; then a "voice" close to my ear whispered "Yes."

They tell me I was picked up insensible,

They tell me I was picked up inscussion, and many were the questions poured in upon me by my comrades. What excuse I gave or what story I told them I have forgotten. Had I told the truth they would have thought as you do now, that forgotten. Had I told the truth they would have thought as you do now, that my brain was disordered; and so I have kept the story to myself, telling only my How he came to do it I never knew, but in my own mind there was never a doubt that he did commit the deed. You will say a court of law would never take such evidence. They will never have the chance. To me the evidence is conclu-sive. I found that he left college the day after Nellie was found and enlisted. His comrades say he was sober and morose, but brave and daring as a very devil, and that he met his death as the result. To me there was a reason for all this— he was a haunted man. I am strong in my belief that he suffered as only one with a load of guilt to bear can suffer. My story is told, and I feel, as I said in the beginning that you think it is only the imagining of a disordered brain. Never mind—call it what you will—call it as I do, "Another Strange Story."—Frank

E PREMATURE BURIAL HUMBUG.

Medical Men Do Not Know of a Single Authenticated Case.

The subject of premature burial has been of late revived in this country by the appearance of sensational para graphs in the daily press. Not long go the public were horrifled by a story from Leeds of a gravedigger having heard sounds proceeding from a coffin recently buried. It required a coroner's inquest and the evidence of Mr. Scattergood, the lecturer on forensic medicine, to reassure the public that the rumor was false, the deceased woman having died a perfectly natural death, while, although its cause was typhoid fever, the burial had been by no means hastened, and it was clear that death had occurred at the time stated by those around her. More recently there was a sensational story from Southampton of a clergy-man who stopped the interment of a friend, whose funeral he had come from a distance to attend, on the grounds that he saw some sign of life, which proved to be simply his own imagination. So far as this country is concerned there has not been a single authenticated case recorded of premature burial, though there have undoubtedly been cases where persons have revived after apparent death, and many alleged cases of premature burial in addition to those previously alluded to. But all these have the appearance of sensational stories manufactured for the "penny dreadfuls" and those newspapers which thrive on sensation.

Even on the Continent, in America and in other countries, where in conse quence of the intense heat burial must take place within twenty-four hours after death, the authenticity of the stories of alleged premature burial has never been proved, and it may be safe ly asserted that one genuine case would have led to an alteration in the law and the postponement of burial until after a longer period.

In England, on the contrary, there is less reason to complain of too speedy burial as of too prolonged an interval between death and burial. Mr. Seymour Haden's suggestion of burial with in thirty-six hours was not favorably received, and is, indeed, for this coun try too short an interval. A universally exact interval cannot be laid down; it must vary according to the time of year, the weather and other eircumstances. In these days of cheap disinfectants a body can be kept without prejudice to the living for four or five days after death, which interval is long enough to satisfy the wishes of the most timid. There is a circumstance well known to the profession which, if it were better known to the public, would ge far to reassure those whose minds sensational paragraphs.

Every day bodies apparently lifeless are received at metropolitan and provincial hospitals, having been found in every variety of posture, clothed, half elothed or naked, and under varying circumstances. At the hospital the resident surgeon must give a prompt and decisive answer to the question, "Is he (or she) alive or dead?" To send a corpse to the ward or to keep it anduly long in the reception room would be a very stupid blunder; to send a living person to the dead house would be a crime. These cases amount in the aggregate to thousands annually, and yet we have never heard of a mis take being made. It is probably this circumstance which makes members of the profession skeptical of these stories of so called premature burial, and causes them to reject with an incredulous smile the suggestion that so horrible a fate might occur to any of us. -London Lancet.

When Traveling.

I cannot imagine why people are so suspicious of one another in this world. Start a car full of people out of a depot, and for the first hundred miles of the way they look askance at each other, as though doubtful whether to keep their pocketbook under watch or not This world has lots more nice people in it than bad, just as a summer meadow has more flowers and birds than snakes. Only cowards and idiots go through the land ignoring all the wealth of blossom, all the shadow and shine of summer weather, to keep a perpetual outlook for snakes. Snakes are occasional, but flowers and sanshine, thank God, are perpetual Do you know, I rather fancy suspicious people are very mean themselves, and knowing their own capabilities for evil they suspect and seek in others the similitude of themselves, as magnetized iron searches out steel -Chicago Herald.

A Man Who Was a Mascot. "If you won't use my name I'll tell you a story on myself," said a man in the crowd on Madison street. "Not long ago a man hired me to edit a weekly paper for him. I began in the morning. In the afternoon he came to me and said: 'C—, I think you are a mighty poor editor, but you are a mascot. You've been here only one day and we've sold the paper We've been trying to get rid of this in property for a long time, but have never succeeded until the present time. We credit our good luck to your employment, and shall take pleasure in recommending you to our successors-as a mascot. " - Chicago Tribune.

Her majesty has sent a splendid cra-"Ah, my friend," sighed a lugnbrious die, rich'y gilded, to her great-grand-stranger at Asbury Park, "there are skellen, the infant of the duke and duches in all families. I have mine, and I ass of Sparta, and the whole outlit for the child was bought in England sir," was the reply; "she is down the child was bought in England sir," was the reply; "she is down by the Empress Frederick,—London

County Official Directory.