

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Charlie Hardisty, of Beaver, was in on Monday. The styles of Oxford ties and ladies' shoes at the Bazaar. Large stock of boots and shoes just received at the Bazaar.

Miss Josie Anderson closed a successful term of school at Mowry yesterday. Besides the customary closing exercises, the patrons of the school added to the pleasure of the day by giving a dinner to the teacher and pupils.

E. R. Cary was over from Malheur the first of the week. He has been listening for the whistle of the O. P. engines for some time past, but not having heard them, came out of the woods to learn what was the matter.

Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Garland started Wednesday for their new field of labor, Oakland, Douglas county, where they will take charge of the public school. Their numerous friends here wish them a pleasant sojourn in their new home.

Freight is now being hauled on wagons from Corvallis to Eugene. The S. P. has made such high rates from Albany south that Eugene merchants who shipped by wagon than over the former line.

Let Sunday B. F. Nichols attempted to violate the game law—at least he went down the river with a shotgun. "Uncle" Frank helped to fix up the game law the last session of the legislature, and ought to set a good example to other nimrods.

The next time the Prineville baseball club crosses bats with another team it will be in uniform. The uniform the boys have adopted is navy blue knickerbockers and caps, white shirts and black hose.

A. W. Branner was robbed of $53 in cash and a check for $10 last night. Some one entered his room at the restaurant while he was asleep and abstracted the money out of a bureau drawer.—Times Mountaineer.

Messrs. Darling and Cook leave today for Mitchell. There being no cow trails leading off from the well-beaten route, they will no doubt reach there in safety. These gentlemen, although book agents, are jolly good fellows, and our Mitchell friends are requested to tip up their big boots while Darling and Cook are canvassing the town.

Sealed bids will be received by the school board of the Prineville district, on August 15, 1893, for the delivery of 7 cords of dry and 8 cords of green juniper wood at the school house in said district by September 25. Terms, cash on delivery. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

M. R. Elliott, Clerk. The rawhide with which Miss Agna did such good service on the person of O. D. Taylor in The Dalles recently, has been put up at raffle, and nearly all the chances—250 in number—have been taken. We would advise Taylor to take hand in the raffle from the fact the rawhide may fall into the hands of one of Taylor's victims, then his reverend shoulders might again feel the weight of the lash.

Sunday evening a milk cow belonging to Mrs. W. C. Hamilton came home carrying a load of shot in her udder. She had evidently been trespassing on some one's premises, and received the load of shot as punishment. It is aggravating to be bothered with brawny cows, but this punishment is too severe. When a cow bothers any one he should go to the owner and make his complaint, instead of punishing the cow.

Not long since Alex. Mackintosh was playing gallant to two young ladies of Upper Crooked river, taking them rowing on the river, when the old boat went to the bottom, carrying with it its fair freight. Mac went to the bottom with the rest, but the ladies were strong and active and succeeded in getting out, while he struck for tall timber, and has not been seen in those parts since. The fair ones are solicitous for his welfare, and wonder why he don't return.

The financial statement of the First National Bank of Prineville at the close of business on July 12th, published in another column, shows Prineville's bank to be in a condition which many larger concerns might envy. The cash on hand at that date was more than 75 per cent of the amount of deposits. This condition causes all to have implicit confidence in the stability of the bank, and to have no fear of its going under even if all other banks in the state should fail.

The extension of the Oregon Pacific railroad eastward has been begun. It will be remembered that four or five miles were graded that were never completed by the laying of rails. The rails are now being laid on this as a part of the program for going into Crooked county. It is true that only four or five men are at work on it; but they are making rapid progress towards Boise City, and it is probable that before the rails are laid to the end of the grade, there will be a general movement across the mountains.—Albany Traveler.

A report reached the city today that Miss Mollie Nichols had been missing from Rufus since Thursday morning. She owns a farm near that town, but for the past few days had been living at Mr. Wallace's residence. On the morning of the day mentioned she left on horseback, and we are informed that the lady nor animal has been seen since. The most serious alarms are felt for the lady's safety.—Times Mountaineer, July 25.

This portion of the state is nearly ready to harvest its crop of grain, and the outlook is very promising. In places there will be an excellent yield; while in others wheat will not be up to the average. As a general rule, the average is large, and there will be more grain for export than for many years heretofore.—Times Mountaineer.

Miss Nichols is a daughter of Hon. B. F. Nichols of this place, and has many acquaintances here who will hear of her misfortune with deep regret.

An Angry Woman with a Whip. Friday afternoon of last week, the citizens of The Dalles were treated to a little commotion that seemed to us with general approval. It was caused by Miss Mary Agna parading the sidewalk in front of the real estate office of Bert O. D. Taylor, declaring that she would cowhide him if it was the last act of her life.

The reverend gentleman thought that discretion was the better part of valor and remained locked in his office for some time, but finally ventured out, and Miss Agna belabored him with a whip until the marshal appeared on the scene and interfered. The Times Mountaineer gives this account of the whipping: "About 2 o'clock this afternoon the young lady, Miss Agna, horse-whipped Taylor from his office to the Methodist church, when the marshal arrived and she was arrested. The affair was witnessed by a large crowd of persons, who followed the parties from the first place where they met to the point where the marshal interfered. There were frequent cheers from the throng of persons, and it is stated that on more than one occasion the cow-eyed gentleman was held while Miss Agna belabored him with the rawhide."

The cause leading up to the trouble is said to be the refusal of Taylor to pay for teacher's services in the Wasco Independent Academy. Miss Agna and Miss Holcomb are inseparable friends, having been school companions and having come to this town together. Rev. Taylor is president of the board of directors of the academy, and the ladies say employed Miss Holcomb at a salary of $750 a year, but refused to pay her more than $400. After repeated demands for the remaining $350 Miss Holcomb had about abandoned all hope of collecting the balance due on her salary. This so incensed her friend that she took the matter into her hands and administered a chastising to the reverend Taylor.

Both ladies connected with the affair are said to be highly accomplished and well respected, and their conduct meets with little censure in The Dalles. Stevenson in Oregon. Vice-President Stevenson and party were met at the state line last Monday by Col. R. W. Mitchell, of Governor Penney's staff, who escorted them north as the governor's representative. From Astland to Salem Mr. Stevenson's train made frequent stops, and a hearty welcome was accorded him at all the stations. He arrived at the capital at half past five Tuesday morning. Governor Penney and Mayor Gatch accompanied by numerous prominent citizens and the second regiment band met the vice-president at the station, where the governor made a welcoming address. The party was driven through the capital city. A number of prominent citizens from Portland met the vice-president at the metropolis. Mr. Stevenson expresses himself as being highly pleased with what he has seen of Oregon, and says the enterprise, thrift and resources of the Pacific coast is far beyond his expectations.

Looking for a Railroad Route. This week Messrs. Butler and Crandall, of The Dalles, passed through this place making a topographical survey of the country and viewing the route of a railroad from Portland to Pulaski City, Idaho. They began on Clackamas river and took the altitude of various points in the Cascade mountains to Warm Spring agency, and stated that the route through the mountains to the agency was feasible. From the agency to this place they encountered some very heavy grades, especially between the mouth of Willow creek and the basin. From the basin to Prineville they found the grade easy. From here they went south and intended to examine the country between here and Malheur. We did not interview the gentlemen personally, and as they did not state to anyone in whose interests they were working, it is not known what company they were viewing a route for.

Death of Mrs. Cyrus. Shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Dona Cyrus, wife of W. H. Cyrus, died at her home at Haystack, after an illness of four weeks, aged 20 years, 5 months and 6 days. Mrs. Cyrus was a daughter of Ephram Stringer, of Linn county, and was married to W. H. Cyrus on October 31, 1882. She leaves an infant daughter aged four weeks, and an affectionate husband to mourn her loss. The remains will be taken to Linn county and placed to rest in Dodge cemetery near Lebanon.

Big Ryegrass. This week Emory Foren brought in a lot of samples of ryegrass to be sent to the World's Fair that were 8 feet and 10 inches in length. These specimens will cause visitors to Chicago to wonder what kind of soil we have that produces such a wonderful growth, but if told the grass grew on ground that wouldn't sprout black-eyed beans, which is a fact, they would think it a pretty big yarn.
