OCHOCO REVIEW.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1893.

Of the 174 national banks that have suspended since the first of last April 65 have resumed.

The report of the receipts and disbursements of the government for the first fifteen days of September shows the expenditures to have been $724,000 in excess of receipts.

The debate on the silver question is nearing a close. The majority begins to be wearied by listening to a repetition of the same thing day after day, and a vote will be forced by the last of the month at least.

Senators Teller, Stewart, Mitchell, Peffer and their ilk seem to be of the opinion that the president convened congress in special session especially to give them an opportunity to unload their surplus oratory, and don't realize that this is a time for action.

The Massachusetts prohibitionists have selected an Oregonian as their candidate for governor. He is a native of Benton county, the Rev. L. N. Banks, who several years ago figured quite prominently in a love affair at Corvallis, in which a little pistol cut quite a conspicuous part.

If United States senators were elected direct by the people quicker and better work for the country would be performed by them in times like these. But being as they are, mostly corporation attorneys, elected by the servile legislatures, pledged to serve private interests, the people have little to expect from them.—Enid Oregonian.

Last Monday the centennial anniversary of the laying of the corner-stone of the capitol at Washington was celebrated with ceremony and pomp befitting the occasion. The speakers were president Cleveland, Vice-President Stevenson, Speaker Crisp, Justice Brewer, W. W. Henry and Commissioner Parker.

City treasurers up in Washington seem to have a mania for speculating on the people's money. The treasurer of Seattle has absconded, after having squandered over a hundred thousand of the city's money, and the ex-treasurer of Whatcom is found to be $47,000 short in his accounts. He was arrested before he had an opportunity to get away.

An old and trusted clerk in the mint at Philadelphia, who had been in charge of a certain vault in the mint since 1857, has just confessed to having stolen thirty bars of gold bullion valued at $134,000, and has disclosed the hiding place of over $100,000 of it. He didn't have an eye to business, or he would have skipped out before he was caught.

A correspondent to the Salem Journal has learned the difference between business and exhilerlement. He says: "When the Job Bros. at Corvallis cause thousands of dollars of public money and private bank deposits to disappear, that is business. When a poor school clerk uses $80 of school money and replaces it, that is embezzlement and he goes to the penitentiary."

Even a populist editor finds that there is a limit to the freedom of the press in this great republic of ours. The "Hon." John C. Luce, who today might have been representing Oregon in congress had not Ellis received the most votes, and who is editor of the Spring Issue, of John Day Town, has come to grief for abusing the privilige of scandalizing matters relating to private life. He gave Sheriff Conlee, of Grant county, a benefit in his issue of the 7th, and in turn Mr. Conlee had him arrested on a charge of criminal libel.

The following from the Albany Democrat is a pretty fair illustration of the ideas which are being expressed by the would-be reformers who follow the lead of Peffer: "The Mt. Hersh alliance passed a series of resolutions providing for the prevention of the demonitization of silver, $50 per capita of circulation, that banks are a standing menace, that the country is full of paupers, that silver be monetized in a parity of 15 to 1, that national banks be abolished and their currency destroyed, that the government issue $5,000,000,000 of paper money to be loaned at 2 per cent, that $50 per capita be forever guaranteed, that in case congress at its present session fails or refuses to comply substantially with the above resolutions, a committee of safety be appointed, to consist of not less than three from each state, to take charge of the government, and that the present administration be forced to retain and turn this government over to said committee, the representatives of the people."

The great chaos-creator-stop, which for many years has had a strange hallucination for thousands of people who had a longing desire to become possessors of a home within its borders, has at last given up its mystery. Last Saturday it was thrown open to settlement, and the dream of those who had hoped to gain a foothold in the promised land, which to their fancy was else teeming with all the resources that go to make life comfortable, has been dispelled. Instead of a country abounding in natural productions, waving meadows of native grass, etc., they found a barren waste of sand and dust, little or no water, and nothing that appeared like the picture of their imagination. A drouth during the past summer had caused the naturally productive soil to appear a desert. Notwithstanding the uninviting aspect, the homers who had been waiting for weeks for the opportunity to get across the line, when the signal was given made a grand rush, and by the scramble for land some lost their lives and hundreds were more or less injured. Only about one in seven got a location, consequently thousands were forced to return almost as they came, sadder though wiser than when the deserted their homes to go to this region of blighted hopes.

SUMMONS

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Crook County.

C. F. CRAVEN, Plaintiff,
vs.
R. E. CRIPPEN, Defendant.

To R. E. Crippen, the above named defendant:

In the name of the state of Oregon you are hereby required to appear in the above entitled suit and answer the complaint of the above named plaintiff filed against you in the office of the clerk of said court within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, to-wit: on or before the 21st day of October, 1893, and you will take notice, if you fail so to answer, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: for a decree dissolving the marriage contract now existing between you and the plaintiff upon the grounds of desertion, and for the custody of the minor children, issue of said marriage, and for the costs and disbursements of this suit.

Service of summons is made in this county by publication in the Ochoco Review, a newspaper of general circulation published in said county, by order of Hon. W. L. Bradshaw, Judge of said county, dated this 23d day of August, 1893.

W. A. BOOTH,
Attorney for Plaintiff.
