WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 28, 1901.

Mr. McKinley and Boss Hanna again had their heads together over Ohio politics. They don't like the returns from the municipal elections in the state, and they specially dislike the election of Tom L. Johnson to be mayor of Cleveland. They recognize that Mr. Johnson's successful entry into politics means trouble and a lot of it for the republican machine in Ohio, and that it may turn out also to be a factor in the national political arena, as it is an open secret that Mr. Johnson only became a candidate for mayor as a stepping stone to a nomination for something higher. They believe that Mr. Johnson will be a central figure in the state campaign this year, whether he becomes the democratic candidate for governor or the democratic candidate to succeed Senator Foraker, and they fear him and his known personal popularity in the state. And they are not alone in fearing him. Col. W. O. Telford, of Columbus, which also elected a democratic mayor who is a republican and has something of a reputation as an expert on the currents of Ohio politics, and who is now in Washington, said: "Mayor-elect Johnson will start with an advantage now for higher places. He is very clearly in line for the democratic nomination for governor this year. No body believes that he can carry the State, but he may make trouble in the legislature. And if he can ever reduce Gov. Nash's majority for a reelection to a small figure he will be a powerful factor in the democratic National Convention. He surely is a vote getter."

According to whispered gossip around the War Department, Mr. Meiklejohn, who is in Washington, he says to attend to some private matters, and others say to see if he cannot get hold of another Federal salary, and Secretary Root had a bitter quarrel during which the former accused the latter of having prevented his election to the Senate by forcing him out of the position of Assistant Secretary of War while the Nebraska legislature was in a deadlock, and Secretary Root retorted by saying that the duties of the Assistant Secretary of War were in Washington, and not in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Again Pierpont Morgan! That man seems determined to control everything in sight and a lot of things not in sight. While officials deny the story that Mr. Morgan, during his recent visit to Mr. McKinley, offered to buy out the Panama Canal Co. and complete the canal, giving the U. S. government any concessions it might desire as to the control of the canal in time of war, with private capital without cost to this government, provided that Mr. McKinley would pledge this government to kill the project for the construction of a canal over the Nicaragua route, it is generally believed in Washington that Mr. Morgan did make some such offer to Mr. McKinley and further that it is being considered. The story is plausible, and if true would explain much of the mysterious opposition to the Nicaragua Canal bill which constantly cropped out in unexpected places while the late Congress was in session. It is known that Mr. Morgan's relations are close with the big railroad interests that opposed Nicaragua Canal legislation, as well as with the capitalists who compose the so-called American Panama Canal Co., which is believed to have been organized for purely speculation purposes. Another thing that adds to the plausibility of the story is that the State Department in its negotiations with the Columbia, minister and the president of the Panama Canal Co., clearly shows its recognition of the possibility of the Panama canal passing under American control. Since it was started by De Lesseps the Panama Canal Co. has been not one whit, but a series of gigantic swindlers, which have made tens of millions and thousands of honest French investors paupers. With that record open to all it is not conceivable that the American people will ever endorse any connection of this government under any circumstances or conditions with the Panama Canal Co.

The administration has once more revived the story that the Sultan of Turkey is about to pay those long standing American military claims. Like all its predecessors, the new story says that this time payment is forthcoming in the clearest and which our diplomats have got the Sultan board. Common decency ought to keep the administration silent on this question until it can announce that these claims have been paid. It has allowed itself to be lulled and lullabyed by the Sultan to an extent that has made this government the laughing stock of the diplomatic world.

It looks as though the administration were shifting the responsibility of dealing with Aguinahlo upon Gen. MacArthur's shoulders. At least that is the inference from its having suppressed Gen. MacArthur's cablegram telling how and why Aguinahlo took the oath of allegiance to the U. S.; also the instructions sent to MacArthur on the subject. It is an old game. If everything goes right, it will be announced that Gen. MacArthur was acting under instructions from the administration. If there is a slip anywhere that results in public condemnation, it will be said that Gen. MacArthur acted in his own discretion and made a mistake. In other words, it is a case of heads, McKinley wins, tails, MacArthur loses.

A dispatch from Albany to the Oregonian says that J. G. Crawford of that city, brought from a farm near Tolson, last night, the entire skeleton of a woman taken from a mound, which he reports is undoubtedly that of one of the original mound builders. A like skeleton, that of a male, was unearthed in the same mound several months ago. These skeletons are entirely different from those of the Indian, and undoubtedly belong to a much earlier race of people. The head is low and the joints, especially the large ones, indicate a person under five feet tall. In all the Indian skulls the sutures are well defined, but in these they are almost wholly missing. Beads and arrowheads are always found buried with Indians, but there was nothing with these. The skeletons are creating considerable interest among our archaeologists.

A good rule will be inaugurated by the postal department this fall. In advertising for proposals for carrying the mail, the second assistant postmaster will issue an order that hereafter all contractors on year contracts shall live tributary to the route. In this way east-bound mailers will be restricted from entering the competition, and Oregon men will carry the mails in Oregon. This rule, if observed, will have a tendency to increase the amount paid and the bidders have sufficient time to look over the route and put in a reasonable bid. This is a move in the right direction and when this scheme is enforced we will have better mail service.

A Country Lass.

Health in her beaming eyes, health in her glowing cheeks, health in her merry laugh. Yet country air and country hours can't save her from the common experience of women—an experience which dulls the eye, pales the cheek, and turns the laugh to a sigh. Womanly life comes to almost all. But for these there is help and healing in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, stops unhealthy discharges, cures inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.
