SUNFLOWER.

The Ideal Newspaper.

You hear talk of the "ideal newspaper, like the flower that never withers, the bird that never alights the land where sunlight never fades, it only exists in the imagination of the sucker whom we are told the elements consume. Writing from the stand point of a country editor if you have ever been in his shoes, you know he is the repository of the secrets of the community, none of which he has ever divulged. He must publish a paper chock full of news, whether anything happens or not. His judicial mind must be far superior to the district judge, and give him pointers in instructing the jury. He must discourse with equal fluency upon the silver question and farmer Jones' Jersey calf, china painting and Poland-China pigs, preserved peaches and the perseverance of saints, foreign wars and local strikes, justification by faith and justification by type, the doctrine of election the election returns, the doings of the last synod and the details of prize fights. The receipts of church socials and the squabble in town council must be equally familiar to the versatile mind. With all this he must wait on the delinquent subscribers, discount the bill of the patent medicine fakes, stand off his wash bill, always go well dressed, pay the printer on Saturday night whether a cent has come in or not; write free puffs, teach the city; never ask for any honors but help others to get them, boom the local statesmen who owe him three year's subscription—in short, be all things to all men, make no mistakes in dates, take the cussings of the community and never cuss back. That is the ideal editor and his paper is a daisy. We never saw one.—Ex.

He expects to return to Oregon at the earliest possible moment. The ticket is as follows: For governor, Geo. E. Chamberlain, of Portland; for secretary of state, George Noland, of Astoria; for state treasurer, W. E. Grace, of Baker City; for state printer, L. Wimberly, of Roseburg; for superintendent of public instruction, John Gavin, of The Dalles; for attorney general, J. K. Weatherford, of Albany.—Chronicle.

Owing to the fact that the Eastern Oregon Banking Co., of Shaniko, Ore., is situated at the entrance and outlet of the largest and best stockraising country in Oregon, inquiries are constantly being made here by buyers in regard to the amount of stock for sale, the prices asked and where the same can be obtained.

In order to be of some accommodation to the stock raiser and to keep ourselves well informed, we should appreciate very much to have them send us, at any time, a list of their marketable stock, and post office address that we may enter the same on our list kept for that purpose; and, if at any time, they wish to obtain any information in regard to the market or to know when buyers will be here, a letter addressed to F.
