

Combs Flat Items.

From our regular correspondent. Steve Yancy looks better on a freight wagon than herding sheep.

Mr. Adams has again started to farming and Dick Adams is following one of the plows.

Mr. P. A. Helms, the Gravy Gulch farmer, has quit freighting and gone to cutting wood.

Silas Adams has lately purchased a band of cattle and is going to be numbered with the stock raisers of Crook county.

The Combs Flat school is flourishing under the supervision of Miss Pearl Vanderpool, but will close next Friday.

Mr. Chas. Cary has been on the sick list for the last week, but is now able to be about and is herding his sheep again.

The road supervisor has been doing some very good work on the roads the past week. They were greatly in need of it.

Alfred Cary went to Prineville this week and secured the legal document and the result will probably be known in a few days.

Dick Breese must believe in diversified farming, for he has cattle, horses, hogs, ducks, chickens, and has lately purchased him a band of sheep.

It looks as though turkeys are going to be rather scarce on Combs Flat Thanksgiving, as Mr. Faught has taken his band to town; but a duck will do.

Married.

OSBORNE—READ.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Read, at Culver, Oregon, November 24, 1901, Mr. Erank C. Osborne and Miss Pearl E. Read, Elder J. H. Grant, officiating.

The contracting parties are well and favorably known in Prineville as well as in Culver, the groom being a pupil in the Prineville school several winters. The bride is a sister of Lilly Read who taught there two years ago, and a niece of Mrs. Cleek, of Prineville. Their many friends extend to the happy couple their hearty congratulations, and wish them well in life's journey.

Both parties were tastfully and neatly arrayed for the occasion, and received a number of useful as well as beautiful presents, of which the following is a list:

Mr. Read, two cows and calves; Mrs. Read, safe, dishes, lamp and table linen; Mr. Montgomery, $2; Mrs. Montgomery, pair of pillows; Lilly Read, stand and rug; Lilly Read, James Read and Joe Montgomery, two pictures and frames; Mrs. Osborne, jelly and glasses; Miss Fannie Osborne, lamp; Miss Osborne, fruit dish; Lulu Osborne, sauce dishes; Robert Osborne, glass set; Mrs. May Schooling, pie plates; Mrs. Peck, salt and pepper set; Mrs. Cleek, tea set; Mr. D. Rodgers, water pitcher; Mrs. D. Rodgers, splashes; Mrs. May Montgomery, fruit stand; Celo Montgomery, cheese plate; Mrs. and Mrs. Hoffman, rocker; Mr. and Mrs. Hahn, cake dish and stand; Mr. and Mrs. Carson, jelly and glasses; Georgia Cleek, vase; Nellie Lambson, salt and pepper set; Alice Rodgers, jelly dish; Lettie Armstrong, salt and pepper service; Mr. Simpson, bedspread; Ed. Campbell, $2; Mr. Lipman, paper rock; Floyd Huntington, tea spoons; David Peck, silver berry dish; Aaron Hoffman, handkerchief. If any of the donors were not mentioned it was not intentional. Among those present were also Mr. George Osborne, Mrs. William Rodgers, Miss Ella McCain and Mr. N. McCain. J. H. GRANT.

Society's Shams.

The tragedy enacted in Eugene the other day recalls to the Roseburg Plaindealer the oft repeated story—a young and thoughtless girl fallen a prey and victim of the vultures who masquerade in man's clothing and are in many cases recognized as the nabobs of society. From what we can learn the poor and wayward girl who resorted to suicide last week to end her troubles and remorse owes her first wayward step and later downfall to a young man of this county, who flocks in the best of society and counts himself and is counted among the respectable, when he should be scorned and shunned as a leper. Here is where our social conditions are wrong, and parents prone to err.

A prodigal son may return—but how about the daughter? The son may wallow in the mire of debauchery, feed upon husks of infamy, associate with the herds of degradation, and with the first sign of a desire to return to the path of honor which leads to the home of purity he left to delve in sin, society prepares to receive him with open arms. Mothers who are otherwise careful of their daughter's honor are gracious and kind to the moral leper whose polluting influences are not yet harmless. As some one has said, under the impression that they will encourage him to lead a pure life them invite him into the sacred walls of their home and shower upon his sid-sodden head caresses and words of praise. How about the girl who went astray? Will the display of a desire to reform secure her recognition to social respect? Not the faintest zephyr of suspicion will be carried upon the tongue of gossip until it becomes a tornado of accusation. The erring girl is, in the eyes of a bigoted society, forever lost. A move to the better is not noticed; a plea for aid unheard; a beseeching cry for pity is scorned; curses instead of benediction are heaped upon her sorrowing head. And why should this distinction be made? Why should the one be forgiven, the other condemned? It is unjust! It is heathenish! It is a scar on the face of civilization! The weaker should not receive the blows while the stronger receives the protection. Instead of driving the daughter to suicidal occupation and sheltering the son who caused her ruin, reverse the decision of "sentiment" and the world will be better.

Spreads Like Wildfire.

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hore, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling bitters I have handled in 20 years." You know why? Most diseases begin in disorder of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nerves. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates the liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system. Puts new life and vigor into any weak, sickly, rundown man or woman.
