

Local Mention.

F. C. Quimby was a business visitor from Bend last week.

Walter J. Irish was up from Hay creek last Saturday visiting the county seat.

Walter Knox was down from Post last week attending to various business details.

J. B. Shippy went to the front Monday to superintend the construction of the Newson creek bridge.

B. J. Pengra, of Rosland, returned Saturday from a business trip to Eugene and other outside points.

E. Sparks and Z. M. Brown are feeding seventy head of beef at the Slayton ranch five miles east of town.

N. B. Moses and Harry Hackleman were down from Price last week with horses for the cavalry horse buyer.

Z. M. Brown, Frank Bodefelt and James Conner were in from Sisters last Friday looking after business affairs.

Wm. Wigle and wife were in from their farm on Crooked river and spent Thanksgiving with their son J. H. and family.

J. G. Julian, the Sisters sheep man, was circulating in our midst last week. He says feed is fine in that section of the county.

Dr. Chise came in from the desert Saturday and visited in town until Monday, when he returned to finish gathering horses.

Rescue Hose Company No. 1 held its regular annual election Monday, which resulted as follows: W. A. Bell, chief, and Elmer Kayler, asst. chief.

W. C. Jacobs and C. A. Bedell were down from Twelve mile the latter part of last week after supplies. Charley is an old time friend of the editor.

A. Patterson, the Lookout Mountain mining man, leaves this week for Portland where he will remain for a time and then go on to California for the winter.

Frank Paul was down from the Bear creek country Saturday where he is learning the ways of the wild and woolly west, he being a late arrival from North Carolina.

C. A. Gilchrist, of Fife, was in town the first of the week on his return from Shaniko, where he had taken his wife who is en route to her old home in Indianapolis to spend the winter.

Davenport Brothers' turkey shoot on Thanksgiving was a decided success and passed off quickly. Over 100 turkeys were disposed of. The most spirited contest was between the medical fraternity and resulted in Rosenberg carrying off the turkey.

J. A. Wilkinson, a prominent business man of Grangeville, Idaho, was looking over the city last Saturday with a view of locating a stock of goods here. He has two other points to look at and if nothing better presents he will locate with us.

C. F. Smith was in from Lamonta Friday and informed our reporter that J. S. McMen's new dwelling was completed and it is a fine structure. It will be remembered that only a short time ago Mr. McMen was so unfortunate as to have his dwelling and all its contents destroyed by fire.

Peter Lehman, the Ashwood blacksmith, was a visitor in the city last week. Pete says they have a very promising camp over there and all that is needed now is to have the King mine controversy settled for the camp to go ahead in fine shape. We hope that it will soon be over as that will give an added impetus to mining in this county and we may reasonably expect new prospects to be opened up as soon as it is demonstrated that we have a fine field for the prospector.

Hon. J. N. Williamson left here last week for Portland where he joined the other members of a delegation of stock men and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, which will go to Chicago to attend the meeting of the National Livestock Association. An effort will be made to have the next annual meeting of the association held in Portland. If they are successful in getting it for Portland it will be a big thing, not only for Portland, but the entire northwest.

T. R. Curl was down from his ranch on Crooked river the first of the week.

J. L. Allen and wife were in from Willow creek Monday after supplies.

Oscar Hyde is erecting a handsome residence on Second street, near the court house.

M. L. Brown was down from Maury the first of the week looking after business interests.

Miss Pearl Vanderpool closed a very successful term of school at Combs' Flat last Friday.

Miss Mary Bramblet returned Tuesday from an extended visit with relatives at Dayton, Washington.

Hector McDonald was here last week buying cavalry horses and succeeded in getting several head of very good ones.

Mrs. Thomas Balfour, of Fife, passed through here last Saturday en route to Portland to visit her daughter, Mrs. Bixby.

Supt. Boegli is out in the north end of the county this week looking after the interests of the various schools in that territory.

A. L. McIntosh, one of the prominent sheepmen of the Paulina country, was a business visitor in the city the first of the week.

W. S. Thomas, president of the King mining company of Ashwood, was in the city a few days last week looking after business interests.

We are now installed in our new quarters near Ochoco bridge, and will be glad to have all our friends call and see us as soon as we get settled down.

Mrs. Nettie Briggs arrived from Tillamook City Tuesday for a visit with relatives in this city. Mrs. Briggs is a sister of our esteemed townsmen J. J. and Bob Smith.

The dinner served by the Methodists on Thanksgiving day was very well patronized, the proceeds amounting to $55. Rev. Clark desires us to thank the people for their liberal patronage.

Miss Ronda Claypool returned from Blizzard ridge, where she has been teaching school for the past six months, and will remain with her father who has been quite sick for the past month.

The Oregon Development Co.'s party of surveyors have drawn off for the winter and returned to Portland. They passed through town Sunday en route home. The party consisted of C. N. Scott, A. F., A. K., Richard and Robert Sears, Philo Holbrook and C. L. Ream.

An unprecedented rain began falling on Saturday afternoon and bids fair to equal the famed Webfoot country before it gets through. It is thought by old timers that the present storm got sidetracked somewhere down on the California line and so got on the wrong side of the mountains.

Prineville Assembly United Artisans elected officers last Monday, resulting as follows: Mrs. Hattie Palmer, M. A.; Wm. Draper, Supt.; Mrs. Amanda Elkins, inspector; Mrs. Mary L. Smith, treas.; Warren Brown, sec'y.; Mrs. A. J. Boone, M. C.; Maud Brown, sen. con.; Jennie Claypool, jun. con.; Dr. H. P. Blankup, med. ex.

Dick Kelly, of Post, had the misfortune to have his little child's leg broken in a runaway near that place on Thanksgiving. The family were returning from a ball and the horses became frightened at some young men riding very rapidly, the team running a short distance ran the wagon over a large stone on which it lodged. The horses broke loose and threw the occupants of the wagon out. In falling the little child's leg was broken.

W. R. McFarland came in Saturday from a surveying trip with the Oregon Irrigation Co. in the Bear-creek neighborhood, where he has been assisting in making a topographical survey of the land covered by the system of ditches being taken out by the company. This survey was made to show the character of the land that could not be irrigated. The company has suspended work for the winter and called in the men with the exception of a few who are working on the right-of-way. Mr. Hatcher, the president of the company, is expected to arrive as an early day, from California.
