

Local Mention.

Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

A. G. Allingham and P. B. Davis were visitors from Sisters last week.

W. F. King returned last week from a business trip to northern California.

L. D. Claypool was down from his farm in Paulina valley one day last week.

W. P. Vandervert and son and Guy Reese were in from Lava one day last week.

J. I. West and Milton Young were business visitors from Bend last Saturday.

Eliam Faught and wife were in from Bear creek and took in the Christmas festivities.

Lark Elliott was down from the ranch at Horseheaven for the Christmas tide festivities.

G. W. Glenn was down from his farm near Post last Friday looking after business matters.

Vince Circle was down from his farm on Wolf creek last week and paid this office a pleasant call.

Dan Haggerty, of Mitchell, was in the county seat attending to business matters one day last week.

C. T. Boynton and wife, of Price, were in town the first of the week and spent Christmas with friends.

P. A. Helms came over from Prineville the first of the week. His daughter Pearl accompanied him.—Mitchell News.

G. E. Smith was down from Upper Crooked river with nine wildcat and five coyote scalps Tuesday, receiving a warrant for $28.

Dr. W. W. Oglesby, of Junction City, was a passenger on the incoming stage Tuesday morning. He is looking after some professional business.

County Clerk Smith issued warrants Tuesday for 20 coyote and 13 wildcat scalps, amounting to $66. This will be used for Christmas joys and all spent with our business houses.

At the sheriff's sale of the real estate in the escheat proceedings of the Elias Davis estate last Saturday, the property was bought in by Dick and Boyd Adams, of Combs' Flat, for $2600.

T. F. McAllister was up from his farm at Culver Tuesday and presented eight coyote scalps to the county clerk for identification. They were marked plaintiffs exhibit A and a warrant issued for the same.

Lee Miller and Dr. C. E. Frye came over from Izee last Thursday and went on below to look after business matters. The doctor seemed well pleased with the town and spoke favorably of locating here in the near future.

Benjamin Shepherd was down from his ranch on Swamp creek the first of the week and reports the best grass in that section of the county that there has been for years. Stock of all kinds looks well and will winter in fine condition. Mr. Shepherd's home is near the head of Crooked river.

Dan and Pat Hastings were in from Hay creek the first of the week with a load of fine turkeys which met with a ready sale. Mr. Hastings complains that some person or persons unknown are in the habit of cutting his fences whenever he is away from home. This is an outrage that is entirely too common in some portions of the country.

The Christmas tree at the Union church was a very nice one and full of presents. A pleasing program was rendered, after which Santa Claus made his appearance and distributed the presents for the little folks. The Artisans also had a tree for themselves and families and friends. It was well filled with presents and all seemed to enjoy the festive occasion.

T. H. Lafollett was down from his stock farm on McKay creek the first of the week and reports stock looking well in that section of the county. Mr. Lafollett is one of the foremost citizens in the county in the line of progressive education and expressed himself as being well satisfied with the stand taken by the JOURNAL in regard to establishing a high school in this county.

C. E. McDowell has gone to Portland on a brief business trip.

J. W. Merrill was down from his ranch near Fife last Saturday.

There will be special services at the Christian Endeavor next Sunday evening.

R. A. Stewart, the sheepman of Upper Beaver creek, was a business visitor in the city last week.

J. L. Smith was down from his ranch near Post the first of the week looking after business matters.

A. W. Boyce, one of the leading agriculturists of the Haystack country, was in the city last Friday.

Perry Read, the genial proprietor of Hotel Read, at Culver, was a business visitor in the city the first of the week.

Henry Beck, one of the leading farmers of Post district, was a business visitor at the county seat last week.

E. G. Hodson was over to his ranch in the Haystack country one day last week attending to matters pertaining thereto.

"Bake" Knox, John Gillenwater, J. M. Wold and Geo. Gibson and wife were down from Post and took in the K. P. ball.

Elmer Clark and wife were down from Upper Crooked river spending Christmas with relatives and taking in the K. P. ball.

Rev. M. Bramblet will preach at the Weaver school house, 12 miles down Crooked river, next Sunday, Dec. 29, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. All are invited.

Last Friday night the Artisan lodge of Culver gave an entertainment for the benefit of the lodge funds and realized about $40. The performance was very creditable.

J. H. Horney was in from Haystack last Saturday looking after matters pertaining to the creation of a new school district in that neighborhood, which is badly needed.

Frank Glass and Ovid Riley, of Bend, were business visitors in town last week and paid this office a pleasant call, leaving their measures for the JOURNAL for another year.

R. M. Morris came in from his farm at Culver Monday with a load of fine fat turkeys, some of which weighed as high as 29 pounds. Turkeys have found ready sale here this fall.

If every person riding or driving faster than a walk across the Ochoco bridge were fined $5, there would soon be money enough in the treasury to improve the town very materially.

Ed Parker was down from his ranch near Price Monday and reports things progressing nicely in that vicinity. He has three thoroughbred jackasses for sale. Any one in need of such articles will do well to give Mr. Parker a call.

MARRIED.

LEHRMAN—DILLON—At the residence of the officiating clergyman, Sunday, December 22, 1901, Peter Lehrman, of Ashwood, and Miss Frankie Dillon, of this city, were united in the Holy bonds of matrimony, by Rev. B. F. Harper.

The wedding was a very quiet affair, only a few invited guests being present. The bride was attired in a rich old rose costume and the groom in the conventional manner. In the evening they were serenaded by their friends. Mr. Lehrman is a prosperous blacksmith and has fitted up a nice little home for his bride. The JOURNAL unites with their numerous friends in wishing them a long life of unalloyed bliss.

FRUM—TEMPLETON—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Arthurs, in Brownsville, on Tuesday, Dec. 10, 1901, Mr. Geo. Frum and Miss Callie Templeton, Rev. J. E. Snyder, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Frum are native Oregonians, attaining to manhood and womanhood in Linn county. They have many friends who wish them happiness.—Lebanon Criterion.

The groom is a nephew of Mrs. H. J. Healy, of Haystack, and the bride is the sister of Arthur Templeton and a cousin of John Templeton, of this city. The young people have a number of other relatives in this county.

The weather the past few days would form a mighty fine contrast to that of the eastern part of our nation, where people are freezing to death. Beautiful moonlit nights and balm spring breezes blowing softly from the pine clad hills, would just about express the state of the case.

The editor was the recipient Monday of a box of mistletoe from the wooded hills of Benton county, the gift of Miss Gladys Moore, for which she has our most sincere thanks. The little sprigs, with their wealth of berries, bring back to our mind the days of our youth when we clambered among the mossy branches of the sturdy oaks on the western slope of Rainy Ridge.
