The River and Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Oregon and Washington both fare well in the river and harbor bills as reported to the House today. The mouth of the Columbia secures $100,000 more cash than last year, and The Dalles and Seattle canals are both granted greater recognition than in the last bill. The following are the appropriations for Oregon and Washington:

Mouth of Columbia, cash for continuing improvements, $550,000; for authorized contracts, $1,000,000; Lower Willamette and Columbia below Portland, for continuance, $50,000; for the construction of a dredge, $175,000; gauging Columbia river, $1000; Tillamook bay and bar, maintenance and completing improvements, $27,000; Coos bay, maintenance and continuing improvements, $10,000; Coquille, continuing improvements from Coquille, City to the mouth, $30,000; Coos river, maintenance, $2000; Siuslaw, continuing improvements, with re-examination of existing project, $26,000. Columbia river, at the Cascades, completing locks, $30,000; Upper Columbia and Snake rivers, $25,250.

To this latter item is added $12,750 transferred from unexpended funds for the improvement of the Clearwater, making a total of $37,754.82. Of this $10,000 is to be expended for the improvement of the Snake river above Lewiston.

The Willamette river above Portland and Yamhill river get $68,000, of which $37,500 is to be used in the construction of levees opposite Corvallis and below Independence.

The appropriations for the Columbia river are to be for continuing the improvements according to the present approved plan, with such modifications as may be approved by the Secretary of War, the estimated cost of said improvements not to be increased.

Battle with a Panther.

George Rhodes had quite a battle with a huge panther at Ten-mile, last Friday, says the Coos Bay News. It seems that the panther had been in that vicinity for some time past, and had been committing depredations on stock to an alarming extent. Frank Bowron alone losing 16 head of sheep, while other settlers report the loss of numerous calves. Frank Bowron, who is in town with his family, was notified by the mailcarrier of the death of the panther, and also the unwelcome news that Frank's two hunting dogs had been killed by the "varmint." The news brought by the mailcarrier leads to the conclusion that the panther had attacked the sheep, when the dogs appeared on the scene and treed it. George

Rhodes procured a rifle and wounded it, but not fatally. When it jumped from the tree the dogs attacked it, and in the mix-up which followed, George stumbled and fell on a log, a sharp knot in which cut a deep gash in his right thigh. Fortunately he was not knocked out completely, and succeeded in getting a bullet in a vital place, which ended the panther's career, but not before the two dogs had forfeited their lives in their gallant struggle with the beast. The panther, which was one of the largest ever killed in the county, measured 9 feet 11 inches from tip to tip.

A Damnable Society Fad.

High life society note: The smart set of San Francisco have adopted the fashion of cigarette smoking for women after grill-room dinners. It is astonishing, when one reflects upon it, to think how many people either want to shorten their lives, or else don't know any better than to do so, by "a hot pace and a smoky trail."—Telegram.

"How many people" may well be used in referring to this question, for tis said that did the people in small country towns, like The Dalles, realize how "many people" have adopted this fad in larger cities, they would consider themselves far behind the times and at once hasten to catch up. A lady who considers herself quite the proper caper said to a Dalles girl (who was horrified at learning to what extent this vile habit is gaining inroads among the young ladies in other places): "Oh, its all right. You haven't been forty miles away from home or you'd look at it differently."

Well, if that is what a trip forty miles away from home will do for a girl, for the love of all that is pure and womanly, let's remain at home. If we must smoke cigarettes after grill-room dinners, let's do without our dinners, or take a "hand out." If we must adopt this vile, degrading, suicidal habit in order to be "swell" let's sink into insignificance. If his old fashioned to refuse to smoke cigarettes let's claim companionship with Methuselah. In short let's be considered any old thing, just so we don't degrade ourselves by taking up with this, the very habit which every true woman should fight with all her strength of character. That women should adopt the use of that which is today ruining more boys and young men than perhaps is even the liquor habit, seems too terrible to consider.

And yet such is the case, particularly among those of the "smart set." Let us hope and pray that this evil will never gain a hold in The Dalles.—Dalles Chronicle.

A Pugilist in Disguise.

One day last week an incident occurred at Antelope that proved a surprise to about a half dozen pretty good men in that vicinity. As they expressed it afterwards they found something they were not looking for. A contest case was being held before Commissioner Leudemann, and after it was closed about half a dozen of those interested on one side, concluded Tom Lewis, an inoffensive looking niner, had testified to something he ought not to have, and thought to administer a punishment. But Lewis wouldn't be punished. As fast as they came after him he laid them out one by one until he had the room full of prostrate forms. It was the work of only a few minutes, at the end Lewis was "monarch of all he surveyed." The boys who sought to inflict the punishment concluded it was a bad job to run amuck such a giant in disguise, and will not repeat so rash an undertaking until they have graduated in the "manly art."—Dalles Mountaineer.

Pullman Ordinary Sleepers.

The tourist travel between the east and the Pacific coast has reached enormous proportions in the last few years, and calls for a special class of equipment. To meet this demand the Pullman Co. has issued from its shops what it technically calls the "Pullman Ordinary Sleeper." These cars appear similar to the regular sleeper, being built on the same plan, but not furnished with the same elegance. They are equipped with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillows, pillow-cases, towels, combs, brushes, etc., requiring nothing of the kind to be furnished by the passenger. Each car has a stove for making coffee and tea and doing "light housekeeping," and each section can be fitted with an adjustable table. A uniformed porter accompanies each car, his business being to make up berths, keep the car clean, and look after the comforts and wants of the passengers. In each of the trains which are dispatched daily from Portland by the O. R. & N. Co., is to be found one of these "Pullman Ordinary Sleepers." The car is attached to the "Chicago-Portland Special," which goes through to Chicago without change, and the one in the "Atlantic Express" runs to Kansas City without change. Passengers in this car for Chicago change to a similar car at Granger. Much of the first class travel is being carried in these cars, the rates being lower, and the service being nearly equal to that in the palace sleepers.

For rates and full information, including orders, write to A. L. Craig, G. P. A., O. R. N. Co., Portland, Ore.
