M. R. ELLIOTT, Secretary.

A merchant who had a store in each of two small neighboring towns recently tried an experiment. He put a bargain counter in each store, containing the same articles at exactly the same prices. In the newspaper of one village he advertised his special counter. In the paper of the other he did not advertise, and sold goods amounting to $984. In the store, the same month, where he did advertise, he sold goods amounting to $1,732. In commenting on the result of his experiment that merchant says: "The people who get the advertisement pass by one of my stores and drive miles to the other, for what they can obtain at the same price at my store at their door."

Out west of town, three or four miles, lives a widow. Her husband died two years ago. He was Daniel Taylor. In life he paid $1,300 or $1,400 into to the exchequer of the Chosen Friends, expecting at death that $3,000 would be paid to the family. When death came, it developed that the order was insolvent, and nothing has been or ever will be received from the policy. The beneficiary orders are almost universally an unmixed blessing, but the management of this one, made it in this instance, a curse.—Corvallis Times.

FRIDAY, MARCH 15, 1902.

We are having written tests in our room this week.

Assigning lessons to be learned outside of school hours may give parents a favorable impression of the school, but such work is usually productive of more evil than good. Your pupils do not know how to study by themselves, and their work is usually done for them by others. Besides, if the teacher requires proper application on the part of the pupil during the regular school hours, this is as much as the child's mind should be taxed.—Educator.

The greatest need of manual training is not in expensive shops at public expense, but in the home. There are thousands of patient, toiling fathers and mothers whose mistaken kindness permits children to grow up without doing anything for their parents. The boys never carry coal or water, the girls know nothing of needle or broom. They grow up "unthankful and unholly" because in their selfish indulgence they have lived "without natural affection."—The Ohio Teacher.

Nellie Summers gave a birthday party at her home, last Wednesday which was enjoyed very much. During the evening refreshments were served on shingles by the waiters, Nellie Summers, Verna Howard, Ceole Smith, Iora Ward, and Charles Summers. The following were present: Beulah Hyde, Beulah Crooks, Jessie Elliott, Iora Ward, Stella Hodges, Lorene Winnek, Elva Dobbs, Emerien Young, Dolly Hodges, Louise Summers, Birdie Morris, Nora Stearns, Verna Howard, Linnie Foster, Celia Neims, Lora Stearns, Edna Estes, Cecil Stearns, Newton Poindexter, Randolph Ketchum, Lester Chors, Elwood Draper, James Elkins, Horace Belknap, Earl Wurzweller, Roy Foster, Sichel Hinkle, Geo Summers, Mrs. Michel, Ward, Risser, Howard, Elkins, Wigle, Crooks and Summers.

So few parents remember that, though they have only two or three children and have studied their dispositions from the time of birth, know all of their inherited tendencies, all their little oddities and contradiction, they make mistake after mistake in their management; while the teacher has all the way from thirty to ninety, no two alike, from different homes, having different influences, different surroundings, different standards of right and wrong, and she has known them at best only a few short weeks, having to study them all a once instead of singly. Knowing this, the parent should make allowances, and try to help rather than hinder the teacher. Mothers in particular should be interested in what the children are doing: above all they should visit the school.—Arkansas School Journal.

The following program was rendered last Friday by the first division: Song by the School; recitation, Only a smile, Aleatha Dillon; select reading, Pat, the Yanky and the Turtle, Chas. Summers; rec., Grandma's Bean, Dolly Hodges; select reading, Happy Children, Clarence Fergue-son; recitation, Walter McFarland; song, Where they Grow, Stella Hodges, Maggie Foster and Birdie Morris; select reading, The "Leant" Army, Roy Canning; instrumental music, Birdie Morris; recitation, Little Jacob Strasse, Stella Young; recitation, Arrabella and Sallie Ann, Verna Howard; recitation, Nattie Wurzweller; select reading, The Possum in the Hen House, Grace Merrill; solo Good by Dolly Gray, Ceole Smith; recitation, The Little Girl, Linnie Foster; recitation, Hans Schmidts' Mistake, Sammie Newson; song by school. Florence Merrill and Leona Turpin were visitors during these exercises.

"Something New Under the Sun."

All doctors have tried to cure Catarrh by the use of powders, and gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. These powders dry up the mucous membrane causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of CATARRH has at last perfected a treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures CATARRH by removing the cause, stopping the discharge and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy that actually reaches the affected parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES," the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE, and is sold at the extremely low price of one dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment, and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for throat-irritating and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD in the HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected or leads to CONSUMPTION—"SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is an ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany every package. Don't delay but send for it at once and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES," the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE.
