Fate of Andree Again.

A report sent out from the Hudson Bay post at Fort Churchill over two years ago that Andree, the Swedish aeronaut, and his associates had been killed by Eskimos is confirmed by advices received here. Alstone Churchill, in charge of the company's most northern post on the west coast of Hudson Bay, has written that after about two years' search the men sent out by him have returned with a report similar to the one first published. Traces of the daring balloonist and his associates were followed for hundreds of miles but it was impossible to locate the tribe who caused the death.

The story of the searchers is that Arctic Eskimos saw "Iomich" (one of their largest boats) floating in the air. When it settled to the ground three white men, strangely dressed, came out with guns, which they indiscreetly fired. Andree and his associates were killed with Huskee bows and every thing of value taken. The searchers found knives, tobacco and cartridges supposed to belong to Andree in possession of one of the most northern tribes, but could get no further information.

News that Andree undoubtedly met his death at the hands of the Eskimos has been forwarded to the State Fish Commission.

The high, tight collars that women wear are good things for doctors, said one of the profession. Half the colds that women contract are directly due to this abomination. Nor is that the worst feature of it. The tightness of these neckbands result in damage to the coris and muscles of the throat and ear. One of my patients has been wearing the things almost tight enough to produce strangulation, and now she is nearly deaf and in the hands of a specialist. Still, I suppose they will be worn until fashion shall decree their removal.

There are only three sections of the world where mercury or cinnabar ore has been found in quantities.—Austria and Spain, and in California in this country. The oldest quicksilver mines are those of Spain, called the Almaden, which were opened 400 years before Christ. The New Almaden and the old Guadalupe mines near San Jose, the Guadalupe being the oldest quick-silver mines in the United States, having both yielded immense riches. If quick-silver could be discovered in this county in paying quantities, it would add greatly to the mineral wealth of the state. Mercury, or quick silver, is indispensable in the mining of gold and silver, and it has many other valuable uses, making it one of the most marketable of mineral products.—Ashwood Prospector.

"If you think it hasn't snowed in New York City this winter," said a man just returning from there, "take into consideration the fact that the people of the city have paid out $700,000 for carting snow out of the streets. I was there during the blizzard. I never saw anything like it. Business was paralyzed. The business men did not go to their offices. The theater did not play, although they had sold tickets in advance for full houses; people could not get out to go anywhere."

Pullman Ordinary Sleepers.

The tourist travel between the east and the Pacific coast has reached enormous proportions in the last few years, and calls for a special class of equipment. To meet this demand the Pullman Co. has issued from its shops what it technically calls the "Pullman Ordinary Sleeper." These cars appear similar to the regular sleeper, being built on the same plan, but not furnished with the same elegance. They are equipped with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillows, pillow-cases, towels, combs, brushes, etc., requiring nothing of the kind to be furnished by the passenger. Each car has a stove for making coffee and tea and doing "light housekeeping," and each section can be fitted with an adjustable table. A uniformed porter accompanies each car, his business being to make up berths, keep the car clean, and look after the comforts and wants of the passengers. In each of the trains which are dispatched daily from Portland by the O. R. & N. Co. is to be found one of these "Pullman Ordinary Sleepers." The car is attached to the "Chicago-Portland Special," which goes through to Chicago without change, and the one in the "Atlantic Express" runs to Kansas City without change. Passengers in this car for Chicago change to a similar car at Granger. Much of the first class travel is being carried in these cars, the rates being lower, and the service being nearly equal to that in the palace sleepers.

For rates and full information, including orders, write to A. L. Craig, G. P. A., O. R. & N. Co. Portland, Ore.
