

Local Mention.

John Fryrear and W. T. E. Wilson were business visitors from Sisters Saturday.

Any one wanting a fine stock ranch of a section of land will do well to call at this office.

A. Fogle, one of the substantial farmers of willow creek, was a business visitor in the city last week.

C. D. Gray and S. S. Black were county seat visitors from our mining camp of Ashwood last Sunday.

Frank Glass, of Bend, returned last Sunday from a trip to Portland, Salem and other valley points.

The republican delegates to the state and district conventions left on last Thursday's stage for Portland.

L. Gerber and A. T. Langell, of Bonanza, were in the city last week looking after matters pertaining to stock.

Charles J. Cötter was a business visitor from Bend last week, and reports everything in fine shape out that way.

W. A. Campbell, a representative of insurance, was in town the first of the week from Condon and paid this office a pleasant call.

Clarence Parker will arrive in this city in a few days and will open a bicycle repair shop, where all can get their wheels put in trim for further orders.

L. D. Claypool was down from his farm in Paulina valley last week, in attendance at the democratic convention. He reports stock having wintered well in that section of the county.

Charles Christiani is the latest addition to the Journal force. He will take a course in the art preservative and from present appearances will soon blossom out into a full fledged printer.

D. F. Furr was down from his ranch near Crook last week, and reports stock looking well up that way. He is interested in getting an allotment on the reserve this summer for his sheep.

Gail Newson returned from Portland Sunday where he has been imbibing the doctrines of Esculapius, or some other defunct dignitary. Any way Gail is going to be a firstclass doctor one of these days.

Z. M. Brown and L. S. Logan, were incoming passengers on last Thursday's stage. Mr. Brown will look after his stock interests and Mr. Logan will attend to his stock and real estate interests in the Camp creek country.

C. R. Henry came down from Paulina last Friday and paid this office a pleasant call, leaving his measure for the JOURNAL and Oregonian for a year. Our subscription list has been growing constantly until we now have very nearly 750 names to which the JOURNAL goes regularly.

W. W. Brown returned the first of the week from Hay creek where he purchased a number of fine bucks for his sheep ranches. He reports the burning of one of his stock ranch houses in the Camp creek country recently. The loss was not very great as the place was only used a portion of the year.

At an informal called meeting of the Crook County Stock-growers Association Saturday, it was determined to hold a meeting Thursday at ten o'clock, in the court house for the purpose of electing delegates to the meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon Wool-growers Association, which meets at Antelope on April 5.

"Uncle" Dick Carmichael and wife arrived from "Webfoot" last week and are stopping with their son-in-law, D. A. McDowell, on Crooked river. They will no doubt make this country their future home. Uncle Dick is one of the pioneers of this country having come here when about the only civilized animals in the country were eagles and owls. The writer remembers him when he lived on Lower Crooked river over twenty years ago.

T. R. Carl and J. H. Kelly were down from Post last week, taking in the convention.

Mrs. E. C. Faught is down from Bear creek visiting her mother, Mrs. W. R. McFarland.

R. V. Jenkins was over from his ranch near Culver last week attending to county seat matters.

Elmer Clark was a business visitor in the city last week and took in the democratic convention.

R. A. Stewart, E. E. and Clarence Morgan were down from Paulina last week, looking after business affairs.

Charley King closed a very successful term of school in the Weaver district last Friday. He has taught six months there.

Miss Ethel Swastengen has opened up a fine line of spring millinery in the Moore building which will be sold at reasonable figures.

T. M. Baldwin went over to the Ashwood country the first of the week and Will Wurzweiler is acting cashier at the bank during his absence.

B. T. Young, of Hood river, passed through here last week with a bunch of horses which he gathered in this county. There were a number of fine looking ones in the band.

J. R. Benham came from Bend last Saturday and was looking after matters pertaining to the Deschutes Irrigation and Reclamation Co., which is working steadily on the ditch and will be done in a few weeks.

Last week Cornett & Elkins started up their blacksmith shop, the temporary injunction being dissolved. Judge Bradshaw practically sustained Judge Wills in refusing to grant a temporary injunction.

George Ray was a business visitor in the city the first of the week, and reports everything moving along quietly out his way. There has been no decided change in the oil situation in that vicinity lately. He reports stock having wintered exceptionally well there and that everybody will soon turn out for the spring.

J. S. Churchill and daughter are up from Springfield looking after their ranches on Squaw creek. They will move over the mountains as soon as the snow gets out so they can cross with wagons. Mr. Churchill says that the spring has been very backward these this year and that there has been no gardens planted yet.

G. W. Wiley passed through here the first of the week with a bunch of calves that he had purchased from Charley McPherson. Some of them were in fine shape, while others looked as if the supply of bunch grass on the Hay creek hills had given out too soon. However they will all look different next fall after a season on the shores of Newson creek.

John Cytus returned last week from a trip to Arizona, where he went recently for his health. He says the country is no good and he never saw as many sick people or broke men in his life and is right glad to get back to Crook county, even if it is not so famed for cures as some other places. He lost fourteen pounds in weight while he was there, but has begun to regain flesh and color since his return.

We had the pleasure of inspecting the residence of Dr. Rosenberg the first of the week. It is now receiving the finishing touch to the inside and we can truthfully say that it is one of the finest residences in Prineville and would be considered a handsome residence, even in the best part of Portland. Everything about the house is in good taste and suggestive of solid comfort. The hallway is finished in Indiana oak and is a beauty. The woodwork was done by A. H. Lippman & Co. and the painting and decorating is the handiwork of Bob Smith.

E. A. Parker came down from Price the first of the week, to make out the final papers in his trade for all the interests of Wm. Wigle in the cattle business. By this deal Ed. becomes the successor of a half interest in nearly 500 head of fine cattle besides some of the best real estate in the county. He is to be congratulated on his bargain. Uncle Billy and his estimable wife will no doubt make Prineville their future home. We will be glad to welcome them among our population.

GORMLEY,
THE TAILOR.

Big Lumber Deal.

A. H. Lippman has consummated a deal whereby his manufacturing establishment controls the total output of Hawkins Bro's sawmill for this year. The amount involved is not less than a million feet of lumber. This has been rendered necessary in order that Lippman & Co. may have better facilities to furnish furniture and complete buildings at the lowest possible prices consistent with good work. These gentlemen are to be congratulated on the energy displayed in engaging in such a large undertaking.

Before another issue of the JOURNAL the Slayton building will be almost completed. The front is now ready to be put in and it is going to be one of the nicest fronts in the city.

Fred Lehman has added a needed improvement to his premises in the shape of a new picket fence. There has been a lot of new fencing put up during the past two weeks and the town is taking on a brighter appearance as spring approaches.

One day last week Bob Harrington had the misfortune to swallow a small stick of wood while coughing and it was thought for some time that a surgical operation would be necessary to save his life, but at this writing he is improving.
