Now what's the matter with Binger Hermann for United States Senator? That is if he does not get the appointment of secretary of the interior. Did it ever strike you what a fine quartett John Mitchell, Binger Hermann, Tom Tongue and Newt Williamson would make in congress? We'll wager any old thing that with those four men in congress there isn't a state in the Union, nor any country on earth, that would have better representation under such circumstances.

The JOURNAL feels a little bit stuck up over the way things worked out in the state convention. Ever since the campaign fever first began to pulsate in the arteries of the vanguard of the candidates we have advocated a fair representation on the ticket for eastern Oregon and now that such representation has fallen to our part of the state it is with a high degree of pleasure that we look back at the path followed by this paper from the first.

We would like to ask the Huntington Herald if it has heard the news from Portland? Did you hear a dull thud when the Baker county delegation deposited its ballot for Moody? You gave the JOURNAL some information a short time ago, but you must have been eating baking powder bread or something that disturbed your sleep. Wouldn't that jar you?

J. R. Whitney, the nominee for state printer, is a newspaper man of Albany. He is a man of ability and will make a good state officer. It is pleasing to note the fact that occasionally one of the newspaper fraternity is recognized. The state printing office is the best paying office in the state.—Portland Journal.

With no disparagement to any of his predecessors, Mr. Furnish, if elected, as it is almost a matter of course he will be, will be the best, or equal to the best, governor Oregon ever had. he is completely clean, utterly invulnerable. He spends money to carry on his canvass, no doubt, but only in a perfectly legitimate, proper way. As governor, he will need no watching. People will sleep safely and soundly throughout Oregon, so far as the governership is concerned, when this young man is on guard. There will be no trickery, corrupt bargaining, hypocrisy, or schulduggery, in his administration.—Telegram.

Yesterday was a day of acclamation in the state of Oregon. Hon. J. N. Williamson, of Crook county, was nominated by acclamation in Portland, and a like compliment was handed out to Thomas H. Tongue at Roseburg. Neither had opposition, although that of Williamson faded away but a few hours before the convention. Mr. Williamson will ably represent the congressional district. Mr. Tongue's service in the first are known to all.—Portland Journal.

The state ticket is something to be proud of. It is sufficiently well scattered out over the state that no one locality has the lions share of the candidates and it is just divided up well enough that it will be a winner. We predict the largest majority this year that the republican party has polled in many years.

Watterson and Bryan, who are against "imperialism" and advocate the policy of "scuttle", do not have the support of such able democratic papers as the Atlanta Constitution, the Nashville American and the Memphis Commercial-Appeal. The democratic party, on this, as on nearly every other question of importance before the people, is divided.

The Kentucky legislature passed a bill prohibiting the "docking" of horses tails, but it was vetoed by the Governor as its provisions were aimed against the sellers of "docked" horses. He was unwilling to discriminate against Kentucky dealers, he said, but would gladly sign a bill aimed at the faddists who bought and drove the mutilated animals.

Eastern Oregon is in it this time. Well we wanted the Governor and we got him.

Cavalry Horses Wanted.

I will be in Prineville about the 25th of April for the purchase of cavalry horses. Will pay from $20 to $30 for green horses and $35 for well broke. Height 14.1 to 15 hands high. All colors except white; mares or geldings.
