The Rev. M. Bramblet will give a farewell service at Culver, Oregon, next Sunday April 13th at 11 a. m. All are invited to attend.

Cornett & Elkins are adding some modern improvements in their blacksmith shop. When completed they will have one of the best equipped shops in the interior of the state.

Gardner Perry came down from Upper Deschutes last week to attend the stockgrowers meeting, and went to Antelope to meet the executive committee of the Oregon wool growers.

E. E. Mogan, E. M. Garnier and Peter Mocho, sheep men from the French settlement near Paulina, were in town last week attending to business matters and laying in supplies for lambing.

J. N. Quiberg, the rustling road supervisor of Sisters, was a business visitor in the county seat Friday and informed the JOURNAL that considerable timber was being taken up in that section of the county.

Keeley Messinger came in from La-follett's sheep camp the latter part of last week slightly under the weather from an attack of grip. He reports the sheep looking well considering that they were wintered on the desert without feeding.

People on the outside are beginning to find out that we have a lot of nice timber in this county and it is being taken up pretty fast. There is some left however and we would be glad to assist in locating parties who desire to take such land.

The delegates to the democratic state and congressional conventions left for Portland Monday morning, and we may confidently expect to see them returning after a short stay in that metropolis, happy in the thought that they have made some nominations.

F. T. Higgins came down from his Bear creek ranch the first of the week and reports work progressing on the dam out there. He says that the company of which he is a member, will have in some good storage reservoirs by next spring and will be enabled to reclaim some very fine land.

The adjourned meeting of the Crook County Stock Growers Association was held in the court house Thursday at 10 o'clock as advertised, and the meeting was called to order by the president who stated the reasons for the same. On motion of Roscoe Knox a committee of three was appointed by the president to represent the members of the association, who could not go to Antelope to meet the executive committee of the Oregon Wool Growers Association, which should have full power to act for the association. The president appointed Roscoe Knox, Judge Wills and E. H. Sparks. No further business coming before the meeting it adjourned.

J. N. Hammond was a business visitor from Cline Falls last Thursday.

W. A. Bell went to Salem the latter part of last week on professional business.

The delegates to the state and congressional conventions arrived home Saturday evening.

Ferd McCallister was sojourning in town the fore part of the week receiving medical treatment.

Frank Johnson was down from Mill creek Saturday and reports seedling well under way up there.

The Desert horse ride will begin on April 25. at Browns corral on Lost creek, Wagon tire mountain.

J. P. Hahn, the Culver merchant, was in town the latter part of last week attending to business affairs.

G. Springet was in from his stock ranch at Culver last week, and reports stock looking well out that way.

L. C. Perry has been laid up for the Mrs. B. F. Allen is having an insert put in her residence this week adding about four feet to the height.

Rev. B. F. Harper started for Pendleton Monday, where he goes to attend the eastern Oregon Presbytery, past week, but is able to be on the streets and talk sheep range as well as ever.

Mrs. Harry Barnes was a visitor in the city last week in company with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Boynton.

C. T. Boynton has sold his ranch near Crook to Harry Barnes, and will remove with his family to Malheur county in the near future.

C. A. Bedell and W. C. Jacobs and wife returned from a trip to Portland the first of the week, and went on up to their home near Fife.

H. J. Lister left for Rabbit valley last Thursday to prepare for lambing which will begin in a couple of weeks, also to prepare for shearing.

C. W. Colby and J. E. Roberts were representing Upper Crooked river at the stock growers meeting last Thursday. They report lambing in progress up that way.

J. L. Windom was in from his ranch at Culver Friday morning, and reports everybody busy now putting in grain and that the prospects for a large crop are good.

The Artisans had a fine time at their meeting Monday night. After the regular order of business had been disposed of a neat little program was rendered consisting of recitations, readings and music, closing with a light luncheon.

Uncle Billy Smith, the pioneer settler of Mill creek, was in town Saturday attending to business matters. Mr. Smith is still hale and hearty notwithstanding his advanced age. He is still living on the old home that he settled on over thirty years ago.

About a month ago John Geiger had some repairing done to his back porch. The carpenter boarded up a portion of the basement and in doing so housed up one of John's favorite Plymouth Rock hens. Just 26 days afterward one morning a hen's head was noticed protruding from a knot hole and an investigation brought to light the hen which had been boarded up for 26 days without food or water. This seems to have been the champion faster during Lent in this neck of the woods.

Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed by those who attended the meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon wool growers association at Antelope last Saturday on account of the Crook county men being cut down. Wasco county with about eight townships in the reserve gets approximately 150,000 head of sheep in the reserve while Crook with about 28 townships gets 60,000 head. One of the Wasco men who scattered scab through this county last year gets an increase of 100 per cent while one of our large sheep men gets left out entirely. This means only 150,000 head of foreign sheep running over Crook county for not less than two months and destroying grass that is needed for our own stock. If we can't get an equal show with outsiders we can at least close the reserve against sheep altogether.

THE TAILOR.

B. B. Helfrich was in from Lamonta last week on a business visit.

Miss Jackie Brock has accepted a position on the Review typographical force.

W. A. Carson and Clarence Morgan came down from Maury the first of the week.

Any one having a small alfalfa farm for sale can find a buyer by addressing the JOURNAL.

Jack Shattuck and wife were down from Crook the first of the week on a business visit.

Joe Lister and wife are down from their ranch on North Crooked river, visiting with relatives and laying in supplies.

Miss Ada Foster completed a very successful term of school in the Powell Butte district last Friday and began a term in the Broese district Monday.

All of the sheep men who attended the meeting at Antelope last Saturday express themselves as highly satisfied with the treatment accorded them by Superintendent Ormsby, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him by the Crook county people. It seems that there has been a misunderstanding here as to his methods and he has been laboring under difficulties regarding this county all of which is understood now.
