

TRACY'S RECORD OF CRIME

As a Murderer, Robber, and all Around Criminal He Heads the List.

By inspection of Tracy's record as here given, it will be seen that he is easily entitled to a first place in the annals of crime. Escaping from the Oregon penitentiary June 9, 1902, and continuing his murderous career up to the time of his suicide August 5th, 1902, four days less than two months, he has a total of seven murders and 40 separate highway robberies recorded against him. If given the maximum penalty under the laws of this state for his hold-ups and crimes committed in less than two months he would be entitled to be hanged seven times and would have to spend 800 years in the penitentiary. He has a total of eight murders and 51 robberies during his career. The following is his record:

POST OFFICE AT SHANGHAI

Domestic Money Order Service Established in China.

"It is a matter of more than ordinary interest that a United States post office should be established upon foreign soil and practically under a foreign flag," said a postal official to a Star man this morning, "yet such is the case with the establishing of a postal money order office at Shanghai, China, under the direction of the United States postal agent at that city in the Chinese empire, for the postal agent is in effect a postmaster, and the United States, therefore, has a postmaster of its own in China.

"You see, this country at present conducts its money order business with Shanghai by means of the international system, the exchange office being situated in the British colony of Hong Kong, and money orders are issued on international form, and international fees charged therefor, which are much heavier than domestic fees, of course. The new system will make it possible for the postal agent in Shanghai to issue domestic orders only, which may be drawn upon any money order office in the United States, Canada, Cuba and the Philippines, and for which domestic rates only will be charged—that is, 30 cents maximum for $100, as against $1 maximum for international orders for the same amount, and three cents minimum for orders up to $2.50. On the other hand, all postmasters in money order offices in the United States will discontinue the use of the international form, and will issue the new orders upon the regulation domestic form.

"This presents a striking innovation in postal affairs of this country, and of the world, and would appear to raise at first thought international question as to the authority of one country establishing a post office of its own in another, but these questions are more apparent than real, and no actual international problems are presented for solution. The American postal agency was until last October situated in the British settlement of Shanghai, but it was at that time moved to the American settlement, and by agreement between the two countries an American postal agency was authorized to be maintained therein. In 1880 it was the desire of the postal authorities of the United States to establish such a postal station at Shanghai as is now to go into effect, but the matter was adversely reported upon by the then assistant attorney-general for the Post Office Department, and the project was abandoned. Not long ago, however, in view of the probable increased trade relations between the Chinese city in question and the United States, the project was revived, the opinion of the legal adviser of the department again sought, and, in this instance, it being favorable, the domestic system, much more simple and easier of transaction than the international, will be inaugurated.

"There is no international money order convention between this country and China, but, though it is not generally known, United States international money orders are payable through the Hong Kong exchange office in ten large cities in China, including Amoy, Canton, Foochow, We-Hai-Wei, etc., and this service will in nowise be affected by the new domestic office at Shanghai.

"And this brings up an analogous question which is at present engaging the attention of Congress—the question of the coining of an American piece of silver money which will take the place of the Mexican silver dollar, at present the principal circulation medium in the far east and in the Philippines. The amount represented by an order issued in this country will be converted by the postal agent at Shanghai into Mexican silver money at the rate quoted on the day of payment of the order, and the amount of Mexican money handed in by the remitter of an order at Shanghai for transmission to the United States will be converted into United States money at the rate quoted on the day the order is drawn in Shanghai. When the new American silver Philippine dollar is placed in active circulation in the far east, a modification of the present rules as to values will be necessary, but this will not affect the advantages of the new system at all, but will, no doubt, tend to accomplish still simpler methods.—"Star," Washington D C.

Is There a Cure.

Eugene has just been confronted with an object lesson, on the evils which befall young girls who run the streets at all hours and fall victims to the vice of the times, and the Register in referring to it says: It may be said that when a girl starts out to fathom the depths of sin she will find encouragement on every street corner, a beckoning hand, an evil eye and the devil's smile in all the dark haunts of the criminal and vicious places toward which her feet take her.

Unfortunately in dealing with vice the sterner sex are, in a measure, more exempt than are woman-kind. The man may be, through his alluring personality thrice more guilty than the woman, yet there is an unwritten law made by man for his self protection, that the woman must in most instances, suffer the penalty for which both man and woman are guilty while the man goes scot free.

When 16-year-old girls go astray in nine cases out of ten men of more mature years have been able assistants in leading them to destruction. While society cannot excuse the woman, it often fails to make the man a heavy sharer in her downfall. A 16-year-old girl is only a girl and is susceptible to the blandishments of men who have long since learned the ways of the world and consider every woman their legitimate prey. Every such man is a danger signal along the pathway of young womanhood that if followed will land any girl upon the breakers in the tempestuous sea of life.

Two sets of morals seems to have been set up for the human race—one to protect men the other to destroy women, and the sooner the American girl learns this the better it will be for her.

But the press and the pulpit are continuous in their warning on this point without any appreciable results for the world wags on in the same old way without giving heed to the admonitions, which if followed, would materially lessen the prevalence of vice and the consequent downfall of many a bright girl whose previous life gave promise of a splendid future.

What is needed is not so much the exercise of authority as of judgement and control in the home. When young girls cease to run the streets at night unattended we can hope for better moral conditions.

Measuring Hay.

The following is the rule used by the government in measuring hay that it buys, and as it is of general use we print it:

To find the number of cubic feet in a stack of hay, first measure the distance from one side of its base over the top to base of opposite side—measure distance across the bottom; subtract the distance from base to base over the top and divide the remainder by two, which gives the height of the stack. Measure length of stack and multiply length, breadth and height together, and the result is the number of cubic feet in the stack. In a ton of hay that has been stacked the government measures 512 feet to the ton.

Another rule often used in this country is: Add over and width, divide by 4, square, and multiply by length and divide by cube of 7½ or 421½.

STOPS PAIN

Athens, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901.
 Ever since the first appearance of my menses they were very irregular and I suffered with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen. During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Theodor's Black-Draught, and I passed the monthly period without pain for the first time in years.
 NANCIE DAVIS.

What is life worth to a woman suffering like Nannie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing those terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same
