SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

On Saturday evening, October 25, 1902, the air was slow and pleasing. At a little past seven o'clock, spectators began to gather at the hall to witness the great event of the season, our school entertainment. After the room was well filled with the smiling faces of little tots, boys and girls, maids and single men, married men and women, and men and women whose hair had been whitened by the snow of many winters, the band played a few favorable pieces and then the performances commenced.

The program was as follows:

- 1—MUSIC..... BAND
2—SOLO.....MISS MAGGIE GLAZE
3—DIALOGUE. MILLARD ELKINS, MABEL DOAK and LEO LA ESTES
4—SOLO....."Stay in your own Back Yard."
5—RECITATION....."Our Hired Man," ERNEST HARRINGTON
6—VIOLIN DUET... MISS KING and GEORGIA HODGES
7—SOLO.....CEOLE SMITH
8—DIALOGUE... VIVIAN HINKLE and FRANCIS ORTON
9—RECITATION...."Praying for Shoes," CELIA NELMS
10—TEN LITTLE NEGROES
11—INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC... WARREN GLAZE
12—RECITATION....."The Tramp Musician," by CHARLIE CHRISTIANI
13—BANJO and GUITAR DUET MESSRS. BRADFORD and FERGUSON
14—FARCE....."Aunt Susan Jones."

Every one played their parts well. When all was over every body wended their way home with a cheerful heart, declaring they had spent the evening well. The proceeds were much more than expected, and we propose to build a good and useful library therefrom.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes after the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by all druggists.

ASHWOOD GLEANINGS.

(From the Prospector.)

The Morning Star Mining Co. resumed work last Monday morning, and are now making good progress on their shaft, with the aid of their new hoisting machinery.

Granville Poindexter has been in Prineville the past week, moving the family of Mr. Parker of the Prineville Journal, who has sold out and will return to the Valley. Mr. Parker has a position in the office of the State Printer.

It is rumored here that the Oregon King Company will resume work at their mine within the next month or six weeks. The recent decision of the Court of Appeals in their law-suit, which practically confirms their title to the property, makes it safe for them to begin operations again. It is highly probable that the rumor is true, since the manager of the King Company has notified the present occupant of their bunk-house, that the company will require the house in about thirty days. The prospect of the resumption of work on this valuable property has caused general rejoicing in this camp, and there is a feeling that the dark days of "waiting" are over. So much has depended upon the settlement of the Ring litigation, not only with reference to that property alone, but the entire district, that the relief incident to the recent decision in that litigation has caused a general activity here, and great things are expected to happen before many months pass.

Spreads Like Wildfire.

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling bitters I have handled in twenty years." You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nerves. Electric Bitters tone up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds up the entire system, puts new life and vigor into any weak, sickly, rundown man or woman. Price, 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

How to Slaughter Pheasants.

A young business man on the road for a big supply house in Portland expended in the neighborhood of $15 for a short hunt for pheasants when the season opened. He was in a country where the best he could do was to get rumors of pheasants that had been there long ago. He came home with a couple of quail and grouse, and he enjoyed one of the most expensive game dinners that any man has had this year. But it wasn't "the bird."

"I have just been put onto a capital scheme" he confided to a friend in a corner of the smoking room at the Commercial Club. "A fellow who lives up in the valley was telling me how to get birds. I believe I will do it next year. He says to go out only in a buggy behind a horse that is used to shooting. You take a piece of rubber sole, boot, old hose or any rubber that is stiff, and you are to fasten it to the end of a stick. The stick, in turn, is fastened on the running gear or bed of the buggy so that the rubber dufficker will flip-flap between the spokes of the wheel, making a noise not dissimilar to the whing-whang of the tedubobdavey."

The man, who, was growing very excited as he related this comprehensive bit of information, asked his friend if he saw the point.

The friend acknowledged he did. "Now," he continued, "the rubber and flip-flap of the rubber piece on the spokes will, when you enter a field, create a sensation. The birds will all raise their heads and rubber to see what the very erratic noise is, and where it proceeds from. Then while their heads are all elevated you are to bring the gun into action and pot them where they stand, or, if you can, take them on the rise. The man who told me got plenty birds last season by going after them in a buggy, whereas on foot a bird will flush a quarter of a mile away and fly a mile before settling. I figure that the expense of a buggy in the field would not be greater than 1 paid for two quail and one lonely grouse."—Telegram.

Henry L. Shattuck, of Shellsburg, Iowa, was cured of a stomach trouble with which he had been afflicted for years, by four boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He had previously tried many other remedies and a number of physicians without relief. For sale by all druggists.

Oregon's Second Born.

The second oldest native son of Oregon, Judge J. H. D. Gray, died Sunday, Oct. 26, at his home in Astoria after an illness of several months, the result of a severe attack of la grippe.

Judge Gray was born at Fort Lapwai, Idaho (then Oregon) on March 20, 1839, and was the second oldest native son of Oregon territory, E. D. Wright of Albany having been born a few months prior to Mr. Gray, and is therefore the oldest native son. Mr. Gray's father, the late W. H. Gray came to Oregon with Dr. Whitman in 1836, and was the first historian of the northwest. For several years Judge Gray was a steamboat captain on the upper river, but located in Astoria in 1868, making that his home since. He was elected to the state senate in 1886 and served Clatsop county as judge from 1894 until July last. He was one of the foremost citizens of Clatsop county, always awake to its interests. He leaves a wife and eight children all grown.

Umatilla Fish Hogs.

F. B. Holbrook, manager of the Oregon Land and Ditch Company, of near Umatilla, was in town Wednesday on business, says the Pendleton Eastern Oregonian. In speaking of the salmon run in the lower Umatilla river, he says the "fish hogs" were killing fish by the thousands.

Mr. Holbrook said that men would go out in the shoals near the mouth of the river and kill the salmon as they come up the river. The water is so low that they can not get out of the way, and he stated that it was no unusual thing for one man to kill from 20 to 40 large salmon in a few hours. Of course, no man or family will eat this many large salmon before they spoil, and they are simply slaughtered for the satisfaction of killing them.

The Indians are a little different. They will kill them, and what they can not eat while they are fresh are dried and packed home for the winter. Thus they waste none, although they sometimes kill many more than they really need.

Mr. Holbrook said if the fish commissioners and game wardens would look after the "fish hogs" a little closer and stop this wholesale slaughter it would do a great deal toward saving the fish and keep the streams full of them. The time of year that they are killed in this way is just when they are spawning, and this destroys not only the old ones, but thousands of young.
