

Prineville Public School Notes

CHIEF EDITORS—Clyde Roswell, Charlie O. Christians.

ASSISTANTS—Ira Booth, Fay Hodges, Henry Smith, Roy Canning, Bertha Elkins, Nellie Day, Cecelia Nelson and Ruth Taylor.

Frieda Lippman was absent the first of last week.

Walter Smith came to school a little late last Wednesday.

Irene Barnes was absent from the VIII grade on February 16.

Maude Dobbs was absent from Prof. Orton's room one day last week.

Finny Childs was absent from Prof. Orton's room last Thursday afternoon.

Alecie Foster was absent from Prof. Orton's room at different times last week.

Lillie Hogg of the IV grade has dropped out of school and has gone to live in the country.

Roy Gray was absent from the VIII grade several days last week on account of sickness.

Mr. Fred Zell visited our school last Friday and was pleased to take part in our singing exercises.

The IX grade tests are all over with for this month, and some of them were found to be quite difficult.

The different rooms of the Prineville Public School gathered in Mr. Mosier's room last Thursday for the purpose of spending a few minutes in singing.

Rockwell of Yale was generally picked as the all-American quarter back for 1902. He was a new star, a light weight freshman, and has all the "sand" a quarter back needs.

Our school flag has been raised twice during the past week. The first time it was raised in honor of Lincoln's birthday and the other time in honor of Washington's birthday.

Since the few warm days which we have been enjoying, the boys and girls are better able physically to be in the open air at play time, and the play grounds are more lively than they have formerly been.

The base ball and mit have been in use during the past week. Some of the boys have been practicing up on pitching and catching and if the weather keeps good we may be able to get up a game of base ball among the school boys.

Last Friday six of the boys carried the organ down to the Union church so as to have it ready for use during the afternoon's exercises, the one belonging to the house was not suitable on account of its being in poor condition.

The test in Algebra, which the IX grade had last Thursday, was probably not the hardest we have had this year, but it required more time to finish up than any we have yet had. Many of the pupils did not get through in time to get their dinners exactly at the noon hour.

One day a young fellow with some of his associates stood on the street corner and had rolled the last cigarette he ever intended to smoke in that city for he was soon to take the train to a far off place. When the time came he went up to the ticket office and asked for a "boys rate" to the place where he wished to go. "What, a small chap like you smoking!" said the clerk, noticing the cigarette. "Who are you calling a small chap? I'm fourteen," replied the young fellow, absent mindedly. "Very well; full fare was the clerk's only answer."

Some one gave the Yale champions a banquet when the season was ended and every game had been won. Every man was in his chair except the freshman quarter. He was sent for and brought reluctantly from his college room. Evidently he didn't expect to enjoy that dinner but the older boys soon had his legs under the table. There were songs, and cheers and stories, and then the toasts. When the toast was "To Good Old Yale!" somebody noticed that the quarter back didn't raise his glass to his lips. It was champagne and he was a freshman. Yale freshmen are expected to do what upper classmen tell them to. But this "all-America quarter" had a good grit in that banquet hall as he had on the Princeton gridiron, and he said, "No! I've never tasted wine in my life, and I won't begin now!" There's a football hero worth having!

The Washington—Lincoln birthday entertainment was an event of last Friday. It occurred in the Union church and everything passed off very nicely. A greater portion of the seats were reserved for the school pupils and the remaining few were filled with visitors. Our exercises were in honor of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, and the pictures of these two great and noble men were placed upon the wall of the building. At 2 o'clock p. m. the pupils were formed in line at the school house and a few minutes later they marched down to the church house and were seated by those who were chosen for the purpose. The performance began at 2:30 and was highly enjoyed by all who heard, probably the most striking part of the program was the young maids in the disguise as old ladies. They played their parts well and were encored. When the program had ended all returned to their respective homes declaring the afternoon well spent.

Two Best Friends.

On the beautiful island of Sicily, is a very noted city by the name of Syracuse.

Here there lived a Tyrant King. This king had condemned a certain man whose name was Pythias. One day Pythias asked permission to go home and see his family and arrange matters so he could die in peace. The king refused except on one condition, that Pythias could find a man to take his place and die if he did not return. The king was very selfish and did not believe he could find a friend, when to the king's astonishment Damon offered to stay in his stead. So Pythias went home and Damon was put in prison.

Many days passed and Pythias did not appear. The fatal day drew near and still Pythias came not. At last the day came for Damason to be hanged. Damason was on the scaffold and the rope was around his neck, when galloping hoofs were heard coming down the road. As the horse came into sight Damason exclaimed, "It is he, it is Pythias."

Pythias came up riding a horse that was covered with foam from the hard ride. He did not draw rein until he came to the scaffold, when he threw himself from his horse and clasped his friend in his arms. The king was very much amazed and said such a friend did not deserve to die, and he also asked that he might be third in this great bond of friendship.

THE FORD'S
BLACK-DRAUGHT
THE ORIGINAL
LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Theford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Theford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Theford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.
I have used Theford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney trouble and dyspepsia and other complaints.
Rev. A. G. LEWIS.
