

An exchange gives the following good advice to young men: "A young man can do no more manly or beautiful thing than to pay courtly attention to his mother. There is something peculiar about the conduct of such a man. Her one's heart voluntarily thrills with delight when a young man, proud of his mother, enters a public place with the queen of his life leaning on his strong arm. It is a sight to make the angels glad. Young man, listen! Be more courteous, more gallant to your mother than to your sweetheart even. No girl was ever so proud to be in company of a beau as is a mother in the company of her worthy son. Gladden the heart that way often, young man, not forgetting, of course, the one thousand and one little things she justly covets and greatly appreciates in the quiet home. Be a real ardent lover of your mother, young man."

Criticism Uncalled For.

Portland, Feb. 17.—(To the Editor.)—I learned by this evening's Telegram that Senator Brownell introduced a resolution today instructing the Secretary of State to appoint a committee, composed of two enlisted men and one commissioned officer of the Second Oregon, to revise a volume of records compiled by me under authority of an act of the Legislature passed two years ago, for the reason that I had favored the officers, and had favored the officers, and had done injustice to the enlisted men. The particular section of the act reads: "In addition to the foregoing duties and all other duties properly pertaining to the office of Adjutant-General and chief-of-staff, he shall, at the expense of the state, cause 500 copies of the muster rolls of the Oregon volunteers for the Spanish-American War to be printed by the State Printer, bound in proper form, and distributed in such manner as the Governor may direct. In my introduction I state that "the records of Oregon volunteers in the Indian and Civil Wars are very incomplete, so that it is always difficult and often impossible to furnish desired information. The Legislative Assembly very wisely adopted the above provision for perpetuating the official records of the late volunteers in case the originals should be lost or destroyed. A liberal compliance, however, with the requirements of the above section would have resulted in a volume of at least 1200 pages of tabulated and therefore very expensive work, including much matter of comparatively little importance. I have for this reason assumed the responsibility of preparing an abstract of the muster-in and muster-out rolls of each organization, and of adding official histories and reports of great value in their bearing upon the services of the state's volunteers in the recent war and insurrection."

The volume is not a history of the volunteers, but is what its title represents it, "The Official Records of the Oregon Volunteers in the Spanish War and Philippine Insurrection." It contains 700 pages, the first 100 giving "The Official History of the Operations of the Second Oregon United States Volunteer Infantry as Published in Campaigning in the Philippines, by W. D. B. Dodson," who was appointed by General Summers to write this history, and was permitted to use the official records of the regiment in compiling the same. This history was selected by me for the reason that it was official and was written by a private, who was twice wounded in the service of the regiment. It was first published four years ago, and I have yet to hear of any criticism of its fairness. As stated in my introduction, "It is an interesting and accurate account of the varied experiences of the Oregon volunteers, particularly as the occurrences described were still fresh in the memory of the author, and were seen from the standpoint of an enlisted man."

This history is followed by 300 pages of abstract of muster rolls of all the organizations of the Second Oregon, and of Batteries A and B, which give the complete description and history of each person named, nothing being added to or omitted from the record contained in the muster rolls under each head. The arrangement of these abstracts was decided upon after consultation with General Summers and the council of administration of the Spanish-American War Veterans of the Department of Oregon, the majority of whom were enlisted men. The remaining 300 pages of the book contain the official reports of general officers under whom the Second Oregon Infantry served, with appended reports of Second Oregon Volunteer officers, in which every enlisted man, as well as every officer known to be entitled to special mention receives it.

I have but one request to make in regard to this work, viz, that any person desiring to pass judgment on its merits first examine it and ascertain what it purports to be, and what it is—not a history, not an expression of opinion as to the services of any person or persons, but a compilation of official records, to be placed for further reference among the archives of the state.

I cannot but feel that the resolution adopted by the Senate was the result of misinformation as to purpose and contents of the book.

The initiative and referendum appears to be a stunner. It is something we have got and no one appears to know just how to pamper to its demands. Lawyers disagree upon its workings and the members of the legislature are in a quandry how to properly head their bills. It is like a wart on a fellow's nose, it's there, and for what good no one knows, but still it is there.—Prineville Review. How about you Brother Holder, didn't you help to grow this wart in the last campaign?—Duffr Dispatch.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. Sold by all druggists.

There seem to be a number of men in the Legislature who are of the impression that loyalty to a boss is something sacred. They are of that small calibre of human-kind who live to bask in the public light but once—then they flicker out and die. They are narrow men, men who serve selfish purposes and who think more of their private income than they do of their public popularity. Some of these men have peeped the final note of public existence during the present session of the state body. They have failed to note that gradually their star of hope has been blighted by their own silly actions. They have made of their opportunities but little, and the day of their political doom is come. These men are known to the Journal and the paper will attempt, to the best of its ability, to see that their political graves are kept green.—Portland Journal.

Pullman Ordinary Sleepers.

The tourist travel between the east and the Pacific coast has reached enormous proportions in the last few years, and calls for a special class of equipment. To meet this demand the Pullman Co. has issued from its shops what it technically calls the "Pullman Ordinary Sleeper." These cars appear similar to the regular sleeper, being built on the same plan, but not furnished with the same elegance. They are equipped with mattresses, blankets, sheets, pillows, pillow-cases, towels, combs, brushes, etc., requiring nothing of the kind to be furnished by the passenger. Each car has a stove for making coffee and tea and doing "light housekeeping," and each section can be fitted with an adjustable table. A uniformed porter accompanies each car, his business being to make up berths, keep the car clean, and look after the comforts and wants of the passengers. In each of the trains which are dispatched daily from Portland by the O. R. & N. Co., is to be found one of these "Pullman Ordinary Sleepers." The car is attached to the "Chicago Portland Special," which goes through to Chicago without change, and the one in the "Atlantic Express" runs to Kansas City without change. Passengers in this car for Chicago change to a similar car at Granger.

Much of the first class travel is being carried in these cars, the rates being lower, and the service being nearly equal to that in the palace sleepers.

Something That Will Do You Good.

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, colds, and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its prompt use we haven't any doubt but that it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their homes as a safeguard against croup.—Camden (S. C.)
