THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1903.

Mrs. Carrie Nation does not represent Kansas and Senator Tillman does not represent the South. They are both in the lecturing business and therefore must have advertising. That is the reason they are noisy and noisome. Let them alone and they'll go home and take their tales behind them.

The Oregon Daily Journal of Portland is rapidly forging to the front as a newspaper, and is already recognized generally as the leading democratic organ of the Northwest. It has a new $50,000 Hoe press in the process of assembling and is making improvements in both its news and mechanical service that shows that it is thoroughly alive to its opportunities.

President Roosevelt has planned a Western trip, which he expects to commence April 1st. His trip as outlined will take him through the western part of the state, which he enters by way of the Southern Pacific and as he leaves Portland on the Northern Pacific, he will miss the greatest part of Oregon and the part that promises most for the future. What is the matter with the Prineville Board of Trade extending to the President the freedom and courtesy of our little city. We are only a little way from Portland, and we can guarantee him more ride for his money over the Shaniko-Prineville route than any like distance in America.

The report issued last week by the secretary of state shows Crook county to be the most economically governed county in the state. It stands sixth in the list of counties when it comes to expenses. Harney county's expenses for 1902 were $26,665.89, Grant's $31,104.24 while Crook's expenses were $14,849.83. Even poor Malheur required $29,663.53 to keep her officers paid and things in running order. This is a showing for Crook county that should be appreciated by her tax payers. We have as efficient and economical a set of county officials as can be found in the state, which is testified to by the secretary of state's report.

The mining interests of the state are busy at present in presenting kicks to Governor Chamberlain against the corporation tax bill framed by Representative Eddy and known as House Bill No. 2. Instead of instituting a legitimate campaign against it, they are threatening to invoke the referendum power of the people, under the recent constitutional amendment enacted by the voters of the state, and propose to bring both the corporation tax bill and the portage railway bill before the people for a vote. This will be the first time in the history of the United States that such action has been taken, and the result will be watched with interest. However, it looks as though the move was prompted by malice. The corporation bill may be detrimental to mining interests. Still the portage railway bill is a move in the right direction and will help the whole state of Oregon, and the mining industry along with the rest. The opposition to it by the mining men seems to me to be very much a case of cutting off their noses to spite their faces.

Young Men.

In opening this subject the Journal editor realizes that it is a sensitive one, and we preclude the following remarks with the statement that it is meant for good, and not for offense, and we are sure that our young men readers will take it in that light otherwise we would surely not voice it.

We have noticed a sentiment in evidence in our county which is a world wide one. That is, that it is manly to fight, to smoke cigarettes, and to do many other things that can result only in the destruction of the young manhood, which we need, and which we must have to make a perfect commonwealth. We would not hold ourselves as a model, anything but that, but we speak from a young man's standpoint, with many more things in common with our young men friends than if we had a few more years placed on our shoulders. A little time has a tendency to make us forget conditions and we often see middle aged people bitterly condemning young men for things that they themselves did a few years previous. Instead, should they extend a helping hand, and some kindly advice with a good example, it would do good, where condemnation does harm.

Young men, learn that to master a vice is a thousand times more honorable than to thrash the biggest bully in your neighborhood. There are times perhaps when fighting is necessary, and in that case we will bet dollars to doughnuts on the boy of good habits, for he will meet the occasion with good grace.

Remember that the most beautiful thing to any one's eyes in this world is parental devotion. Be to your mother what you would be to your sweetheart. Your mother's lot will be materially helped and we can guarantee you that your sweetheart will like you the better. Avoid all things that you know will make you worse. There isn't a young man in Crook county who hasn't more good about him than bad. Dig down in your natures and get the good and cultivate it instead of allowing the bad to grow. Be true to yourself; it naturally follows that you can't then be untrue to no one.
