This office received word this week from Frank Nadot who has an excellent prospect at the head of Aubery creek, in which he states that his development work is showing some excellent indications. At a depth of 20 feet on the "Little Giant" a vein seven feet in thickness and carrying values of from $7 to $300 has been encountered. Work has been stopped however, awaiting the arrival of a steam pump which is now en route. They have other prospects in the same neighborhood, and all seem to be properties that will some day make Aubery creek as a great producer of precious metals.

As we go to press the smallpox patients are all reported better. Howard Dillon who has been hovering between life and death for the past three days is said to have good chances for recovery. He has many friends who are extremely solicitous as to his conditions and we hope he will recover. He has certainly made a good fight for life. Bonda Claypool passed a fairly good night and is out of danger. The others are all getting along very well, and as no new cases have developed all are hopeful that the disease is under control.
