In a competitive examination for five scholarships in the Chicago College of Music and Dramatic art, Guy E. Moore of this city was one of the successful candidates.—Corvallis Gazette.

H. C. Ellis and wife, of Chicago, passed through the city the last of the week on their way to Bend where Mrs. Ellis will take a position as secretary to W. E. Gierlin, Jr., of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power company.

The Club will give a farewell reception to the Rev. and Mrs. Z. W. Commerford Thursday evening, the 29th from 8 to 11 p. m. The Annex and Club members are cordially invited to be present and bring their husbands, wives and partners.

Harry Esping and Wm. Jacobs were out to the Deschutes metropolis last week. Harry says that the Bend is certainly coming up on the front and new buildings going up on every side.

J. Frank Stroud was in from Haystack last week. The recent rains caused them to suspend threshing for the time, but they expect to finish the season in about two weeks more work.

If you wish to make any entries at the fair of the Second Eastern Oregon Agricultural Society, ask your postmaster for a catalogue containing a list of premiums, or write to T. A. Hudson, The Dalles, Oregon, he will send you one by return mail.

Frank Taylor was in town the first of the week on his way to the ranch at Haystack after an absence of four months in the Cascades where he has had his sheep on the summer range. He reports the sheep which are at Crane Prairie on their way out to be in good condition.

Lewis McCallister came in from Sisters this week by the way of Cline Falls where he has invested a few dollars in town property there. He expects to build a business block there in the near future.

Don't fail to attend the fair of the Second Eastern Oregon Agricultural Society to be held at The Dalles, on October 4th to 8th. In addition to the agricultural and stock show they are going to have some good rieling, also plenty of good music and other attractions will be furnished each evening.

Hon. M. T. Nolan, Register of The Dalles Land Office, has been in the city this week where he has been spending a part of his vacation. This is Mr. Nolan's first visit to interior Oregon and he expressed himself as greatly impressed with the development of this region. He left today for Bend, where he goes to look at the irrigation projects in that vicinity.

Colonel F. Smith was over from the Columbia Irrigation company's camp at Cline Buttes the first of the week looking after business matters.

J. W. Boone returned this week from Portland where he went with Ed Bradford who has entered a hospital there for treatment.

One of the best known students in the Agricultural College a year ago Guy E. Moore, because of his prominence in literary and oratorical lines. Mr. Moore is to leave Corvallis the first of September for a ten day's visit at the St. Louis exposition after which he is to enter a school of oratory in Chicago. Many friends in this city wish him success.—Corvallis Times.

The present year promises to be the most successful of any in the history of the city schools. At present there is an enrollment of 161 pupils in the grammar school which is an increase of 30 over the attendance last year. With the number who are attending High school the total enrollment numbers over 200. The work is now well in hand and the studies are progressing nicely.

The Columbia Southern Ditch Company have been steadily extending their main canal toward Cline Falls all summer and now their camp has been moved to within one and one-half miles of us. This means that the lands handled by the company will soon have water and can all be put in crops next season. Most of their land has been sold off in forty and eighty acre tracts and many of the purchasers will move here this fall and build homes.—Cline Falls Press.

Frank Vanina was in from his ranch on Crooked river Saturday. He says there was nothing to the story that the bones of Shorty Davis and his horse had been found as he visited the place where the supposed bones were and found them to be those of two horses which looked as if they had been burned by coal oil, which had led to the report that they were those of Shorty Davis and his horse.

A dinner is to be given at Madras Friday evening, October 7. The event will be given under the auspices of the M. W. of A. of that place and will be in the nature of a harvest ball. A matched game of baseball is to be played in the afternoon on the Madras diamond and it is expected that the entire Haystack and Agency Plains country will turn out. Not a few persons from this city will go down to enjoy the day's pleasure.

D. P. Adamson has a cougar exhibit in his drug store window which is attracting a great deal of attention. The mountain lion which stands there with all his attributes excepting his living viciousness, was shot and killed by John Demarris on Mill creek last winter. The huge animal, which measures eight feet from tip to tip, was stuffed a few weeks ago and now makes a very attractive drawing card.

Arrangements have been completed by the Athletic club to give the opening winter hop at the club building Friday evening, October 14. The dance will mark the beginning of winter functions in the social world and a large crowd will no doubt be in attendance. The proceeds from the dance will be used in installing the shower baths for the gymnasium, an improvement which is being anxiously awaited by club members and one from which a great deal of benefit will be derived.

The Lewis and Clark fair will have an inn, that question being practically settled. Realizing the need of such an institution the management some time ago invited a Mrs. McReardon, who owns the American Inn at the St. Louis fair, and the manager of the inside inn to make proposals for the concession. The latter was recently crippled in an accident and forced to give up the idea; but Mrs. McReardon will arrive in Portland within a few days with her architect and the matter will be definitely settled then. The temporary hotel will contain 500 and perhaps 1000 rooms and will be built on the grounds. Should the plan fall to materialize, Portland capital will build an inside inn.

Talk about American idiosyncrasy. Well, all idiots are not Americans, as was evidenced by a scene in Sydney town hall, N. S. W., when Paderewski appeared in recital one evening last week. At the end of the Polish fantasia men and women stood on chairs shouting excitedly. This might have been tolerated by sane people, but when the artist's room was visited by 300 young women some of whom threw their arms around Paderewski's neck, mingling their tears with his Auburn locks, that was the limit of the sanity part of it. Paderewski, like Brander in "A Texas Steer" after the Daniel Webster episode, concluded it wasn't a bad thing to be an artist.

Knux Huston returned Sunday evening from a business trip to Ashwood where he spent several days last week.

Charles E. Bliss staked his life last night on a game of cards, lost, and paid the penalty a few minutes later by committing suicide. Bliss was the son of a Seventh Day Adventist preacher of Peru, Ind. Shortly before midnight he called upon "Ted" Moore, a notorious woman with whom he was infatuated, and challenged her to a game of pitch. "For what shall we play?" the woman asked. "I will stake my life against yours," replied Bliss. The cards were dealt and the woman won. Bliss put on his hat and went to a nearby drug store, where he purchased a bottle of carbolic acid and ended his life. He died before a physician could reach him, refusing to take an antidote.—Journal.

A number of letters have been mailed in the local post office addressed to Forest, Oregon, which are intended for persons residing near the Forest ranch on Crooked river. Postmaster Summers states that there is no such office in this county, but that an office bearing that name is located in Klamath county. Of course the postal laws require the postmasters to send mail to the places to which it is addressed and considerable time and inconvenience will be saved letter writers if in the future they address their letters intended for the vicinity of the Forest ranch to the local office. Under ordinary circumstances a letter bearing the address Forest, Oregon, is sent to Klamath county.

A reception is to be given to the Rev. and Mrs. Z. W. Commerford at the Athletic club this evening. The function is being arranged by the members of the Ladies Annex and a general invitation is extended to all members of the club to attend. Rev. and Mrs. Commerford will leave next week for The Dalles where they will preside at the first annual meeting of the Columbia district convention of the state Christian Endeavor societies, after which they will go to Portland to reside permanently. The committees in charge of the event to night are: Mesdames C. M. Elkins, Shupson, Whinnick, M. R. Elliott, reception; Mesdames Edwards, Foster, Crooks, entertainment and music; Mesdames C. W. Elkins, Michel, Biggs, McCulloch, Cook, refreshments; Mesdames Wm. Wagle, Rosenberg, Clifton, Bradford, C. S. Smith, Stella, and Miss Pearl Vanderpool, decorations and games.

It seems that a Dalles girl, who is at present in Vancouver, has gotten into trouble, or rather has gotten someone else into serious difficulty. None have ever doubted the charming fascination of Dalles girls; nor that it is sufficiently strong to turn the heads of the opposite sex providing their heads are pliable enough. The fact, however, has been demonstrated in the Washington town, where a German by the name of Henry Tellman, has become so insane over a Dalles girl, whom he has seen but a few times and is not even acquainted with, that he was taken to the state asylum yesterday. Tellman appears perfectly rational on all subjects, except that he is bent on marrying the girl, which would be sane enough were it not that any mention of her will instantly bring on mental ravings, and while in this condition it was feared he might do harm to himself or to others. He is a native of Germany and came to Washington six years ago from Minnesota. The girl's name has not been given out.—Dalles Chronicle.

Revival Services Close.

The special services which have been conducted for the last ten days under the auspices of the First Presbyterian church, closed Sunday evening. The new church was filled to its utmost capacity, there being over 300 persons present.

Rev. J. E. Snyder, has been assisting in the revival services, preached an able sermon on "One Standard of Measure."

After the sermon the ordinance of baptism was administered to ten persons and fifteen were received into the fellowship of the church. Next Sunday the ordinance of the Lord's supper will be observed and it is expected that several other persons will be received into the church.

Rev. Z. W. Commerford has supplied the church for one year, and during this time the work has been thoroughly organized and the new building erected. With the new house of worship, a loyal membership, a fine Sunday school, and a very efficient Aid society, the prospects for the future work of the church is very encouraging.

Crook County Teacher's Institute.

The annual Teacher's Institute will be held in Prineville, October 14, 15 and 16. Superintendent of Public Instruction, J. H. Ackerman, will be here from Salem and the dedication of the Crook county High school building will take place on the evening of the 15th. Every teacher in the county is expected to be present and assist in making the institute enjoyable and profitable. County Superintendent C. B. Dinwiddie also asks that everyone interested in the welfare of the schools be present.

DIED.

At Hay Creek, Thursday, September 22, Harvey Edwin Kotzman, aged 22 years. Funeral services were held at the home near Hay Creek last Saturday, the Rev. W. P. Jiggett, pastor of the M. E. church of this city performing the ceremonies. Deceased was born in Clarkamas county Feb. 16, 1882, and had been a resident of Crook county for several years.

John T. Whistler, of the government geological and reclamation service, passed through the city Monday on his way to Pendleton.

The poor chuck isn't resting as easily as he might during these balmy autumn days. Hunters with savage-looking guns and plenty of ammunition keep up a constant parade along the banks of the streams and frequent reports make it certain that something has either been hit or missed, generally missed.

Views on Stock Matters.

Henry Hahn, who spent the last week looking over stock ranges of Crook and Wasco counties, says that conditions there in the cattle and sheep business are satisfactory. Mr. Hahn's mission was to inspect the cattle and sheep ranches owned by the Prineville Land & Livestock company, of which he is secretary. The company is now grazing about 18,000 sheep and 800 cattle. The hay harvest this season has been satisfactory. The company irrigates about 3,000 acres of land upon which the winter's supply of hay is grown. The present season's crop was 1,700 tons.

"The summer ranges are now dry and poor, as there has been no rain in the last 90 days, but the winter ranges are in fair condition," says Mr. Hahn. "Stock is in good condition, and there is a fair demand, at reasonable prices for this season of the year. Some buyers are taking good-sized bunches of stock. I think that stock raisers will in time change their methods somewhat in respect to marketing livestock. They will turn off some of their stock at different times of the year, when prices are at their best. By waiting until fall and then all selling at once, the market is naturally borne down. Another thing, there are times when prices are good and nobody wants to sell, thinking that there will be more in it by keeping the stock longer. Then when the price begins falling off all rush into the market and further depression in prices ensues. I think a little organization among stock raisers would do no harm. The men who handle the business at the other end of the line—the pickers—are organized. But it seems improbable that anything of that kind would succeed among the growers. There are so many men engaged in stock raising, and so many differing minds. By the way, the people are still waiting for the extension of the Columbia Southern railway from Shantiko to Bend, as promised by Harriman at a meeting at the Arlington club when he was in Portland last year."—Journal.
