Rev. O. W. Triplett returned Monday from Bend where he had been spending the week. He will leave the first of next week for Madras and vicinity to take up his religious work there.

Three days of warm weather beginning last Sunday and accompanied by a good sized Chinook turned the snow into puddles of water and gave Crooked river and the Ochoco cause to open up new channels. In the farming communities the ranchers are rejoicing over the amount of moisture which has sunk into the ground, a matter which has greatly facilitated plowing and given the fall sown grain a chance to refresh itself.

The Arabian Nights comedy drama, to be given in the Athletic hall the nights of the 3rd and 4th of next month, will furnish many a laugh for the audience. It is a humorous affair all the way through with just enough dramatic incidents to make the play interesting. The house should be crowded both nights of the play. Those who will appear in the cast of characters have worked hard for several weeks and the parts will be well sustained.

Beginning on February 1st and continuing until March 1st, J. P. Morris will sell a large assortment of Men's Suits and Trousers and a fine line of assorted Negligee Shirts. These goods must be sold to make room for the spring stock and to do this a big reduction of prices will be made. Call and look over the stock. Getting the prices will convince you that the goods are offered at bargain figures.

The chilled air which Bend has and during the last few months is productive of only one bad result—they have found that a jail was necessary in a thriving metropolis, so a contract has been awarded for construction of an undignified cage which will house all unruly and disagreeable citizens who happen to trespass on the law. It is to be hoped that the board bills of the institution will always be kept at a minimum.

Wall paper in the neatest up-to-date designs, all weights and prices. If you want wall paper, inspect this stock. D. P. ADAMSON & CO.

Albert Roller returned to the city Saturday evening from the Coos Bay country where he has been spending the past few months, putting in a portion of that time drawing cartoons for one of the daily papers there. He came here from North Bend which had been enjoying a boom time. The town now, he says, is dead, the mills shut down and business of all kinds run into the ground. He thought Crook county with its steady progress was good enough to live in for awhile longer.

W. P. Vandever, of Lava, has added another victim to the long list of ferocious monsters which he has put out of existence during his rambles through the woods while looking after his stock. Last week he struck a cougar trail over west of the Deschutes river and finally located the animal a short distance farther on and opened fire. The big cat found lodging in a rock pile where Mr. Vandever sent home the fatal shot. The animal measured nearly seven feet from tip to tip. The skin was given to W. E. Guerin, Jr. of the Deschutes Irrigation and Power company as a souvenir.

Frank Tillman was given a hearing before Justice Luckey Saturday on the charge of killing a horse belonging to M. Mulvahlil and was fined $50. In default of payment he was sent to the county jail to serve a sentence of 25 days. According to the evidence, Tillman, who had been leaning for Mulvahlil, was taking a team of horses to the latter's ranch. A hard drive through the mud and over rough roads had fatigued one of the animals and Tillman alighted from the wagon and with a loaded whip beat the horse over the head. The animal dropped to the ground where it was again subjected to blows from the heavy stock. The first blow evidently paralyzed the horse and its death resulted from others which it received after falling to the ground.

R. B. Metzler, of the firm of Metzler and Becker, commission merchants at Bend, arrived in the city Tuesday on his way home from an extended visit at Portland and eastern cities. While in the east he visited with his parents at Pittsburgh. He stated that from the basin of the Columbia to the Atlantic coast the country is covered with snow and that intense cold weather has prevailed in all sections. He was glad to get back to the generous climate of Central Oregon.

Last week's sale of irrigated lands in the region of Powell Buttes presages a quick disposal of all the irrigable tracts in that section. A party of ten settlers bought 2600 acres one day and 400 acres were sold to another, while a third purchased 119 acres. The sales included lands lying in the immediate vicinity of the Buttes where some of the company's best land will be reclaimed. If the present rate of disposition holds out, as it undoubtedly will, the entire district will be in the possession of settlers before the summer has passed.

It is reported that J. M. Keeney has bought the brick hotel building at Shaniko, now occupied by him for hotel purposes. The building was bought from the Shaniko Townsite Company, of which F. T. Harburt is the local manager at Shaniko, but the consideration has not been made public. Mr Keeney has been engaged in the hotel business at Shaniko for several years, during which time he has built up an enviable reputation for the Columbia Southern Hotel and it is now known throughout the states as one of the best hotels in interior Oregon, if not the best.—Ashwood Prospector.

The 1905 wool clip in Lake county has begun to move at a lively pace, and during the past week the price has jumped from 15 to 16 1/2 cents a pound and shows a tendency to go higher. Several large clips have been contracted at 16 cents and if the present prices hold for awhile longer it is stated that almost the entire clip of the county will be purchased. Two firms in Lakeview are doing most of the contracting for different companies, a fact which is partially responsible for the marked advance in prices. The recent sales have been of great benefit to the sheepmen in Lake county and relieved them of a high rate of interest that they usually are compelled to carry during the winter season.

In giving an account of the National Livestock convention, to which A. L. Wigle was sent as representative from the Crook County Cattlemen's association, the Journal last week in its article regarding the break in the former organization unintentionally conveyed the idea that the new association, formed under the name of the National Stock Growers association, allowed the railroads and packers to a full vote. Quite the reverse is true, the latter organization having withdrawn from the National Livestock association and adopted a new constitution prohibiting the membership of both these interests.

Thron Thronson left the first of the week for Howard. He had been over to Sisters on a business trip and remained in the city here for several days looking after mining interests. Mr. Thronson is making arrangements to build some extensive improvements on the Mayflower group as soon as the weather permits in the spring and Crook county will derive the benefits from a mine which has already been the source from which thousands of dollars have been poured into the county and principally this city. Since Mr. Thronson began his work in the Howard district some two years ago he has expended nearly $25,000 in the development of his properties, a fact not generally known or appreciated. This year another considerable sum will be spent in that district and the result will be the placing of the Mayflower group along with the best of them so far as equipment is concerned. Up to the present time the development has been confined practically to the placer fields, but this year will see complete arrangements made for quartz mining.

The snow is no respecter of persons. At least the wet snow that slides off unexpectedly from the roofs of buildings during a thaw doesn't care particularly when it takes a notion to descend hastily to the ground who happens to be beneath in the path of its descent. One day last week during the warm spell a stranger in the city who was stopping at the Poindexter for a few days while on his way to Bend chanced to turn the post office corner to go towards the south just as a nice mushy avalanche on the west slope of the roof came to the conclusion that it would like to lie on the ground for a while. In consequence the snow slide and the man met very unexpectedly. The snow, being of a generous disposition, divided itself so that the man's head and upper portion of his body came right up through without any difficulty, and just as he glanced to see what had happened another small bunch which had been delayed in transmission filled up his open mouth and eyes. There was a short intermission then and the man uttered a few words which Webster neglected to put into his dictionary before he went on his way. He looked back once or twice to see if anyone had seen or heard, but the snow only grinned.

On Oak street, between First and Second, Portland, Ore., is the Gill Gas Engine Co., where can be seen the one thing that Northern Crook county is especially interested in—the 40 horse power Automobile now nearing completion and which is soon to become a mighty factor in the upbuilding of Crook county. There are those in the county who have always spoken lightly of the proposed Auto line. If these same men could see the machine now being built by the above firm they would say with others who have seen it that it cannot but be a success. The machine is built on four ponderous wheels, with solid rubber tires, very heavy steel axles, heavy springs, a frame 16 feet long built of angle steel, braced with plow steel and supported with numerous steel angles, plates and braces which will support the car proper. Equally well built are the four engines of 10-horse power. Each is situated in the forward part of the car and act independently of each other. The machine is so built that it will practically be impossible for anything to happen to its machinery whereby it could not finish its run under its own power. It is neatly and strongly built and will prove to be a success both in the carrying of passengers and in the upbuilding of our country, as the company have now decided to extend the line into Shaniko, thereby giving us rapid transportation and direct express and mail service. Mr. A. E. Hammond says that the company expect to place the car in service some time in March or earlier if possible.—Pioneer.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best Made.

"In my opinion Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made for colds," says Mrs. Cora Walker of Porterville, California. There is no doubt about its being the best. No other will cure a cold so quickly. No other is so sure a preventive of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other. The fact is that few people are satisfied with any other after having once used this remedy. For sale by D. P. Adamson & Co.

A Sample of January Weather.

While the East is wrapped up from top to bottom in snow and at the same time enduring zero weather and blizzards, Central Oregon escapes with a few raw days and a couple of light snow falls which disappear under the warm southern winds. The last snow, the second of the season, melted in two days, the high temperature and Chinook winds making short work of the weather man's efforts to keep the ground white. The maximum temperatures recorded in Prineville since Sunday are as follows:

Max. Temp.	Sunday	59 Deg.
"	Monday	58 "
"	Tuesday	57 "
"	Wednesday	58 "

The above temperatures were taken at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of the days mentioned.
