THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1905

In the lengthy editorial discussing the case of Senator Mitchell and Senator Dewey, the Rocky Mountain News, owned and edited by Senator Patterson, says that "guilt should not be condoned. It is repulsive in all its variant forms, and he who tries to distinguish, that he may condemn or palliate, renders a service of questionable benefit. Yet I cannot but conclude that if the average citizen of the day, cognizant of the careers and the conduct of both, were compelled to choose between the senator from New York and the senator from Oregon, as an object either of sympathy or of approval, hard though the task might be he would not stand with Mr. Dewey upon the senate floor, but place his arm around the drooping shoulders of Mitchell and walk beside him with slow and silent stride out into the marble vestibule beyond."

The disappearance of Sam Branton from a ranch on the Deschutes river nearly a month ago, which has baffled every effort on the part of his neighbors to locate him, is another of those mysteries for which Crook county has been noted ever since its origin. Branton has gone never to return, for it is not probable that a man nearly 80 years of age would be so completely swallowed up without some outside assistance. If he committed suicide in the Deschutes, the roaring tumbling waters of that powerful stream will probably hold their secret for some time longer, but if he went by another method the place and its surroundings are such that only by the merest chance will his body be recovered.

Professor Nichols, the famous Cornell physicist, during recitation of a freshman class in natural philosophy observed a tall, lanky youth in a rear seat, his head in a languid pose, his eyes half closed and his legs extended far out in an adjacent aisle. He was either asleep or about to lose consciousness.

"Mr. Frazer," said the great scientist, "you may recite."

The freshman opened his eyes slowly. He did not change his somnolent pose.

"Mr. Frazer what is work?"

"Everything is work," was the drawing reply.

"What! Everything is work?"

"Yes sir."

"Then I take it you would like me and the class to believe that this desk is work?"

"Yes sir" replied the youth wearily, "that desk is wood work."

No man from his mere position could be more literally at the head of the Republican party than Senator Fulton. Out of four representatives in congress he is the only one, as matters stand, who isn't flat. In the appointment of a federal judge or some such office one thinks that under the circumstances his recommendation would be final. But it is neither final nor official. He may give a list of eligibles and he may take a stand against the appointment of a particular man and make it stick, but that is all. The man he really desires may not be appointed and there are others consulted about appointments who follow a clearer trail to the White House than is blazed for him. Why should the recommendation of some federal fly-by-night who spends a few days in Oregon be accepted in preference to the endorsement of Oregon's sole active representative? It is unfair and it reflects upon both the dignity and character of the representative. Senator Fulton should not stand it. He either is or he isn't. If he isn't, well and good. But if he is he should in his own behalf raise a roar that will be heard clear to Washington.—Journal.

Additional Locals

Miss Hattie Quinn, of Grizzly, was in the city this week visiting.

Ike Ward returned to the city the last of the week from Portland where he was a visitor at the exposition.

J. H. Gray and wife left this morning for Portland where Mr. Gray has been subpoenaed before the grand jury.

E. B. Knox and Miss Lillie Knox were down from Post this week. Miss Knox was here to take the teacher's examination.

Mrs. Lucy Anderson and daughter, Miss Lulu, returned the first of the week from Myrtle Point where they have been spending the summer.

Rev. C. P. Bailey and the Rev. J. W. Mount, will arrive in the city from The Dalles this week and will hold services at the Union church next Sunday forenoon and evening.

C. C. Brix was in the city Monday from his ranch at Powell Buttes. Mr. Brix stated that crops as a rule around the district in which he lives were better than those in surrounding parts of the county. Most of the harvests will be from fall sown grain and good returns are the result.

Hunter's licenses were issued by the county clerk during the past week to the following residents of the county: John Chambers, John Luckey, Jr., Warren Crooks, Wm. Arnold, Marion Templeton, Prineville; Henry L. Crabtree, Bend; K. D. Huston, J. T. Wishart, Ashwood; W. H. Post, Post.

W. N. Bowser and wife, of Bemidji, Minn., were in the city this week on their way home from Bend, where Mr. Bowser was looking after some business interests. The Bowsers were friends and neighbors of J. H. Haner in the Minnesota city where the former is one of the largest retail merchants.

In an honest effort to keep pace with other financial engineers who at this time of the year, are looking after the best interests of the institutions with which they are connected, T. M. Baldwin, cashier of the First National Bank, announces that he will leave for Portland Saturday to make a study of government methods for a short time.

Contractors this week began the work of moving the Prineville Hotel building. The east wing of the hotel has been moved a block to the east and by next week the main part of the building itself will have been moved to make way for the foundation of the new building which will be erected as rapidly as possible.

County clerk J. J. Smith will leave Friday for Portland where he has been summoned to appear before the grand jury the first of next week as a witness. Mr. Smith had his work about caught up when his third subpoena was served. He expects to be absent about three weeks, as the government will in all probability hold him as a witness in the coming trials.

The names of the men who will constitute the coming Federal Grand jury will be drawn from the jury box by clerk I. A. Sladen, of the United States court today or tomorrow. At that time A. Bush, of Salem, United States Jury Commissioner, will be in Portland, and the two will fill the jury box with the names of about 700 taxpayers of the state who are eligible as members of the grand jury. To expedite the subpoenaing of the jurors the names will be taken from the citizenship of the Willamette Valley, so that they can quickly be called to Portland to serve.

MEETING OF GREAT BENEFIT TO THE WEST

The National Irrigation Congress, which will be held in Portland August 21 to 24, and to which Mayor Wurzweiler of this city is a delegate from Crook county, will be the most far reaching and important to the western states of any meeting which has been in this country. The government irrigation fund has now reached an amount which warrants the initiation of large irrigation projects in the various states contributing to the fund, and a number of these schemes are now being launched in the states of the Pacific northwest.

C. B. Boothe, chairman of the executive committee, will arrive in Portland this week from Los Angeles to take up the work of preparing final details for the congress. He will be assisted by A. H. Devers, vice-chairman; Tom Richardson, Judge Stephen A. Lowell, acting president of the Oregon State Irrigation association, and others who are interested in the irrigation movement in Oregon. It is said the Portland congress is receiving extraordinary attention at Washington and that it will probably be attended by Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture. Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, Victor Metcalf, secretary of commerce and labor, and other officials.

The states of Utah, Colorado, California, Nevada, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona are specially interested in this congress and will send large delegations. Many of the delegates to the Trans-Mississippi congress have credentials to both congresses. William E. Curtis of Chicago will address the irrigation congress on "Irrigation in India." Prince Yang Yu Wei, a Chinese, will attend and talk on what irrigation has done for the celestial empire.

SUMPTER ROAD HURRIES ITS WORK

There is a good deal of talk about railroad building in Eastern Oregon but the Sumpter valley is pushing its road right along without any talk and the extension of that line from Tipton to the present terminus, which is 54 miles from Baker City and 25 miles beyond Sumpter, which was for many years the terminus until the present extension plans were begun is being made rapidly and will certainly reach Austin Station, ten miles beyond Tipton, this fall, and may be extended further, although that is now doubtful, owing to the scarcity of water.

Superintendent Joseph Barton, says the Democrat, will leave for the front Thursday and while there will locate the new townsite and arrange many other important details of construction and improvement of the line as outlined and agreed upon by the company during the present visit of President David Eccles. Mr. Barton will arrange for the erection of regular section houses for the use of the section men instead of the old cars they have been using in the past. The entire line will also be ballasted with gravel as fast as possible, the work to begin this season. In fact the Sumpter Valley railroad is to be made an up-to-date road in every respect and when the improvements contemplated are completed it will compare with any of the trans-continental lines.

A Grim Tragedy.

is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as Death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntley, of Oakland, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Strange as it May Seem.

The Crook County Journal says that a man was frozen to death on the streets of Prineville a few nights ago. He had read the thermometer up-side down and thought it was 95 degrees below zero, and expired almost instantly. That's strange, but no more so than an incident occurring in Lakeview about the same time. Dick Wilcox, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, hung a thermometer up-side down in his cow barn and the next morning his cow gave ice cream.—Lakeview Examiner.
