Charge for Grazing.

On the first day of January the forestry bureau will initiate a new policy of charging a fee per head on live stock grazing in the reserves, at a proposed rate of five cents per head for sheep and 20 cents per head for cattle, during the season. Western senators and congressmen are vigorously opposing this policy, but their only hope now seems to be to reduce the fee to a minimum. Chief Forester Pinchot has said that he will take under consideration the proposal to reduce this rate half, making a charge of two and one-half cents per head on sheep and 10 cents per head on cattle. He defends the plan by explaining a necessity of the fee to raise revenue for the government to use for forestry purposes and at the same time to give greater security to live stock men utilizing forest reserves for grazing. He explains that a considerable sum would be raised from the fee and that the government would then give grazing permits up to full pasturage capacity of each reserve; that those obtaining grazing permits the first year would have a preference right in future years, and that it would give them greater security in providing pasture for their flocks and herds in the future than they have at present.

The right of the Secretary of Agriculture to impose such a fee is doubtful. He made three efforts last Congress to pass legislation giving him authority to make a charge for pasturage on public domain but the amendments making this provision were all struck out in conference. After Congress adjourned last March, the secretary called on Attorney General Knox for an opinion as to his right to charge a fee under the existing law. The attorney general rendered an opinion in which he held that the secretary had this right. Other able lawyers doubt the soundness of this opinion and when an attempt to enforce the system is made a rest suit will probably be brought.

The Evening Telegram recently devoted two full pages of a regular edition to brief talks and portraits of salaried advertisement writers. Almost without exception these men who have made a profession of this business frankly state that display advertising in newspapers is the most successful and economical means of advertising. According to their experience it beats the bill boards, circulars, mimeographs or any other method in proportion to the cost. A small portion of the money used in buying goods if invested in newspaper advertising makes business move. It is not a matter of charity to the newspaper, but an investment that will pay a big percentage of profits.

Prineville merchants generally voice their satisfaction with the Christmas trade this year which has been heavier than was anticipated a few weeks ago. "The slump after the fair" failed to materialize, and the past season has been a disappointing one, too, in the grain production and sales of cattle. Some of the merchants in the city state that their Christmas trade this year broke any previous record. Judging from the appearance of their exhausted stocks of holiday goods it is probable that they will experience, without the wish being expressed, a Happy New Year.

The Athletic club will give another dance in Athletic hall New Year's evening. The Ladies' Annex will tender a reception to the club during the early part of the evening.

Ruth King, who was brought home only a few days from Portland where she had been receiving medical treatment is again seriously ill.

Wedding at Sisters.

Christmas chimes sounded quite merrily on Christmas eve at Sisters, the occasion being the wedding of Miss Hettie Case to Guy Claypool. The ceremony was read by Justice Foster in the school house, the bride and groom standing beneath an arch of evergreens from which was suspended a silver wedding bell. The bride was gowned in white silk to which was added the charm of a veil and orange blossoms. The wedding march was played by Mrs. William Claypool, the bride and groom passing up the center aisle to the rostrum where the ceremony was performed.

After receiving hearty congratulations from their many friends and relatives the young couple joined in listening to a program of recitations and music taken part in by Miss Myrtle Scoggin, Miss Clara Lawrence, Misses Lora and Ada Wood, Miss Effie Case, Dixon Smith, Linn Wilson, H. A. Scoggin, Frank Glover and Orithmer Wood. After the program the presents to the bride and groom were distributed.

MARRIED.

Miss Francis Reams was married to John Price at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Reams, near Paulina Wednesday, December 20. Justice of the Peace Meyer performed the ceremony before a number of invited guests. The best man was Roy Price and Mrs. Price was bridesmaid. The guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rannels, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Baber, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Price, Ed Wade, Tom Miller, Edwin Reams, Misses Maud and Cricket Reams and Masters Archie and Dan Reams.

The Eastern Vitagraph company pleased a large audience at Athletic hall last night with its exceptionally fine moving pictures, illustrated songs and specialties. The views, which are strong and clear, are the best which have been seen here and the reception accorded the entertainment last evening means another crowded house tonight. The Britt-Nelson bout was unusually good which is the least to be said regarding the many other pleasing and interesting features. An entire change of program will be given tonight, the moving pictures to include a Spanish bull fight, the McGovern-Gians bout, and numerous other entertaining views and specialties, the standard of which is way above the average. The company is here from a tour of California and western Oregon where it has received much favorable comment.
