THE BITTER STRIFE.

If I should be elected,
And you should lose the plum,
You seek and money you have spent Besides the golden cart wheels which to prospects you have lent—
I say, if I should be elected,
And you should come heart sick to me just when the votes are in
With pain and grief disfiguring you,
Your face all gaunt and thin,
I might just out of sympathy—the kind that you'd adore—
Consider your application to scrub
my office floor.

If I should be elected,
And you should then begin post-haste
an awful tale to spit
How you'd have been elected if the weather had permit—
I say, if I should be elected,
And all this gush and dribbling
should reach my listening ears,
I'd give to you the work you asked,
then the next few years—
Egob! Gadzooks! Skeddiddle Bim!
Wouldn't I? Say,
I'd make you scrub my office floor
just sixteen times a day! D. S.

Horace McKinley has eloped to China with "Little Egypt" of the Streets of Cairo fame, is the latest to be received from San Francisco. It is hoped that Horace dear will not be wigged out of all of the money he bamboozled from his eastern lambs.

The Oregonian of last Monday contains a half tone of Sheriff Smith's ranch 13 miles above town on the Ochoco. Aside from the title of the picture "Typical Ranch Scene of Oregon," there is no other comment made or a more definite location given. Space in the Oregonian, of course, is valuable. That much is appreciated, but the mere hint that the ranch was located some place in Eastern Oregon might have answered the purpose better. New comers into the state might have to look over a good deal of territory before they could locate the ranch from the Oregonian's description. The fact that so fine a ranch property is located in Crook county close to Prineville puts the kibosh on further comment by the Oregonian. Natürlich. Even the blooming deserts and blossoming pastures get the basement torn out of their Sunday pants. "And there ye air," as the St. John's man says.

August Heinze has finally settled his battle with the Amalgamated Copper company, which has been in the courts for years past, by selling out to the Standard Oil people who are in reality the Amalgamated trust. Thomas W. Lawson, in his story of "Frenzied Finance," a few months ago gave the public a vivid word picture of this young man, who, starting without a cent, took advantage of the apex law and accumulated millions through his fight against Rockefeller, Rogers and the other votaries of Standard Oil. Lawson said Heinze was the first man in history who had ever succeeded in holding out against Coal Oil Johnny and his partners and pictured Heinze in anything but a kindly light. His downfall and capitulation evidently has now taken place, but if the news dispatches are to be relied upon Heinze with all his business dishonesty has left a copper taste in the mouth of Standard Oil which will take several severe fleecings of the American public to wear away.

Desert Tract May Be Opened.

An authoritative report comes from Silver Lake, that the 17 townships of desert land in the region of Summer Lake, which the government withdrew for irrigation purposes a year ago, are to be thrown open to settlement. If such action is taken the district will enjoy the largest settlement this year of any in the state.

Prior to the government withdrawal and since that time settlement of the surrounding district has been rapid and with the restoration to settlement of the most fertile section of the valley, numbering nearly 600,000 acres, the Summer Lake region will support an immense population. The land in question is semi-arid in character, but extremely productive and the best of water can be obtained at a depth of five to 30 feet. Already the district has received much attention and many new settlers have found homes there during the past year. Recent settlement has been made in the section outside of the withdrawal, the land at present being filed upon lying in a continuous body and extending 40 miles north and south and 15 miles in width.

The entire district owing to the closeness of the water to the surface, although semi-arid in character, is capable of producing heavy crops and the government's final action in restoring the land to settlement will be awaited eagerly by those who are anxious to secure a tract of land of which there is none better east of the Cascades.

AUTOS WILL RUN

Crook County Line Will Handle Traffic This Year

Automobiles will be running in Crook county this year. Its intention of the Central Oregon Transportation, which built the 75 mile roadway between Cross Keys and Bend last year, to place lighter machines on the route and begin handling the traffic as soon as spring opens.

F. S. Stanley, secretary and treasurer of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company, which spent $25,000 last year in the construction and equipment of the line, stated last week that unless railroad advancement should take a sudden spurt into Crook county, the automobile line would be in operation in time to handle the heavy passenger traffic coming to Crook county this season to invest in the Company's lands.

Little change will be made in the route of travel with the exception that the southern terminus will be at Redmond, 18 miles of the old station at Bend. This change will be made owing to the fact that since the road was built last year the company's headquarters have been moved to the latter town.

The company anticipates an immense number of prospective settlers this year. Most of these will want to get to the irrigated sections by the shortest route possible and the auto route will prove the most serviceable.

New Settlers Come to Crook.

The tide of new settlers at present flowing into Crook county gives evidence of reaching large proportions even before summer has fairly set in. Parties of prospective residents of this section began coming here about the first of the present month and the number has gradually increased up until last Saturday when two stage coaches brought 22 from Shaniko to Prineville. This is the largest number which has come at any one time this year.

In Saturday's party were five from North Dakota who have tired of the long and severe winters of the snowy east. "Crook county's delightful climate is the cause of it all," said Ed. T. Pierson, editor of one of the newspapers in Granville, No. Dak. "The irrigated lands afford the next attraction, and it is probable that all of us will be owners of Crook county property before returning to Dakota."

Other members of this party were: G. F. Gates, Robert Noland and Walter Gillispie of Granville, and A. C. Benton of Minot, No. Dak. All of the latter are looking over the segregation of the Deschutes Irrigation and Power Company this week and expect to buy tracts and settle upon the lands as soon as their families can be moved here from the east. Mr. Pierson also intends to purchase a quarter section, but will remain for some time in Dakota before taking up his residence in this county. He is postmaster at Granville and has other business interests which will claim his time for several months.

LAMONTA NEWS NOTES.

Clyde Moore, of Hay Creek, is visiting here with his cousin, Oad Moore. Rev. Pinkham held services in the school house Sunday morning.

George Hendricks and Melvin Gillette went to Prineville Thursday returning the last of the week.

Miss Ethel Smith, Walter Smith and W. S. Rise spent Tuesday at Culver.

Low Smith went to Ashwood Thursday on a business trip. Mr. Turner returned with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore visited at Hay Creek last week with Mr. and Mrs. Pitzer who returned with them and remained over Sunday.

J. H. Starr was in town Wednesday examining applicants for the M. W. A. lodge which is soon to be organized here. He left here for Hay Creek and Grizzly to look after the local organizations there.

Sisters Correspondence.

W. A. Vanbuskirk was a business visitor in Sisters during the week.

Louis Glover was up from the lower desert this week on business.

A. Thomson, was a business visitor at Sisters yesterday. While here he purchased $800 worth of horses from E. Person.

M. L. Olliver is engaged in hauling lumber for the B. B. Co's new lumber camp on the Allen place. This looks as though the company meant business.

M. M. Thomas and Bert Hodson passed through town yesterday on their way to Wilson mill after lumber. They stated they had about 150,000 feet of logs cut and intended to cut more.

A company formed by Rob't Smith, Marcus Wilt, Wm and D. Fryrear, Robert Krugg and M. L. Olliver has purchased a fine French Canadian stallion weighing 1800 pounds. The animal was purchased in Portland and is the first of its kind ever imported here. The price paid was $1500.

L. E. Allingham and family passed through Sisters on their way to The Dalles. From there they go to Emsey to visit with Mr. Allingham's parents. Mrs. Allingham and children will go from there to Lakeport, Cal., to visit with her parents and L. E. will return to the Matoles to complete a logging contract which he has with the Cowles Lumber Company.

From the amount of grubbing hoed and mattocks that visit the blacksmith shop there must be something doing among the sage brush in this neighborhood. Sisters is keeping pace with the rest of the rest of the county in the matter of development of new land.
