SOCIALIST COLUMN

The Truth About Dividing Up

No, Socialism does not stand for dividing up.

Capitalism stands for dividing up.

Capitalism compels the industrious to divide up with the idle.

You work nine or ten hours a day.

In the first hour or two of your day's work you produce by your labor the amount you receive for the entire day.

In another hour or two you produce your proportion of the wear and tear the running expenses, the raw material and the wages of superintendence.

Well, then, having done this, it is time for you to take your coat and hat and go home to your wife and babies.

Do you do it?

No, you don't.

What do you do?

You go ahead and work the rest of the day and add still more to the world's wealth by your labor.

Who earned that surplus?

You earned it.

Who gets it?

The capitalists get it.

You divide up with them.

The Social-Democratic party says that you, who earned it, shall get it.

The reason you do not get it now is because a few private individuals and corporations are permitted to own the means of production and distribution, and to compel you to hand over to them the bulk of the product of your toil in exchange for the opportunity to earn a bare living.

By voting a capitalist ticket, the Republican and Democratic ticket, you have extended to the capitalists the privilege of exploiting you out of the lion's share of the earnings.

The Social-Democratic party says that the means of production and distribution shall be publicly owned and managed, that exploitation shall hereby be banished from the earth and the workers shall thereby secure the full product of their toil.

No, Socialism does not mean dividing up.

You are now compelled to divide up with the capitalists.

You divide with the Beef Trust.

You divide with the Steel Trust.

You divide with the Lumber Trust.

You divide with the Rubber Trust.

You divide with the Hide and Leather Trust.

You divide with the Copper Trust.

You divide with the Brass Trust, the Can Trust, the Paper Trust, the Shoe Trust, the Oil Trust, the Flour Trust, the Woolen Trust, the Cotton Trust, the Sugar Trust, and various other exploiters and grafters. You divide up with them.

You have to. What do you think about it.

Good Times and Hard.

As workingmen, do we think we have ever had what are called "good times?" What are "good times," any how? As a matter of fact, what sort of times have we had? The following from the United States census reports is a record of the average wage rate from 1850 to 1900:

Average wage in 1850 was $248
Average wage in 1860 was 292
Average wage in 1870 was 310
Average wage in 1880 was 346
Average wage in 1890 was 400
Average wage in 1900 was 440

Now take notice that the above represents the condition of labor under free silver and the gold standard, under high tariff and low tariff. While wages show a slight increase for each decade, they have absolutely declined when measured by the work done; that is, by the values produced.

To illustrate: From 1850 to 1900 our productivity increased tenfold; the average worker produced in 1900 ten times as much wealth as in 1850; but in that half century of time his average wage did not even double.

What sort of an industrial system is it in which the great bulk of the wealth produced goes to a small class, while the conditions of the producers, compared with the cost of living is scarcely improved at all.—Metal Worker.

Water for Agency Plains.

If it is found to be feasible and practicable, the plan now under discussion for getting water upon Agency Plains for all household and domestic purposes, by pumping it up from the Deschutes, will solve a vexatious question for the farmers of that district, says the Pioneer. At present they are hauling water for such purposes, and while the amount of time consumed in that manner is not as great as is lost in other localities through bad weather, it nevertheless is a burden.

Necessity has ever been the mother of invention, and out of their need upon the Plains has grown many a plan for getting water up there. Some of these have ever taken definite form, but the latest plan appears to be the most practical, and is receiving the most serious consideration. Although the details of this plan have not been worked out, roughly outlined it is about as follows: At the U. S. Cowles sawmill on the Deschutes the river runs right under the western edge of the plains and water elevated to the plains at that point could be distributed to all other points on the plains. It would require a lift of 1100 feet, but a steady stream through a small pipe would afford an ample supply. The plan is to put in a turbine wheel at the point on the Deschutes near the mill and with the power that could be developed, to force the water up on to the plains. Whether the water can be forced up with a single lift, or whether it will be necessary to have a series of stations or reservoirs, is a matter that will have to be worked out along with numerous other details of the proposed plan.

If the plan is found to be feasible, Mr. Cowles would be assured of the hearty support and co-operation of all the farmers upon the plains. It would effectually solve the water question for them, and at a cost much less than individual or even community wells could be drilled and maintained for.

Whether the plan will be carried out as an individual enterprise, or whether it can be operated and maintained on a co-operative plan is a feature which will be worked out along with the other details, but it seems quite probable that out of this plan will one day come the solution of the water question for Agency Plains.

Must Waive $1 Fee.

The State Land Board conferred yesterday with H. D. Turney, president; Jesse Stearnes, attorney, and C. M. Redfield, representing the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company. They asked the board and the State Engineer to certify 53,000 acres of the 76,600 in the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company's system, as ready for patent. Mr. Turney explained that it would be at least a year before patents would issue, and in that time the company could comply with requirements of the board and engineer as to distribution of water.

Question arose as to the right of the company to collect both the 6 per cent interest and the $1 an acre maintenance charge, which begins when the lands are declared reclaimed. This would in effect entitle the company to collect the equivalent of 16 per cent.

It was ordered that the company should waive its right to collect this $1 an acre before the bond is certified for patent.

Mr. Turney presented contracts for two other registrations, one the Pilot Butte segregation for 84,000 acres and the other the Oregon Irrigation Company for 56,000 acres. The proposed contracts were referred to the Attorney-General for opinion.—Telegram

Failure to Observe Law Relative to Closing Books Will Cause No Little Inconvenience

Returns received by County Clerk Smith last week after he had closed the registration books bring the total registration for Crook county up to 1683. Out of this number there are 1015 registered Republicans and 524 Democrats, giving the Republicans a majority of 491.

There will be a number of those whose names appear on the last papers forwarded to the clerk's office who will be compelled to swear in their votes although their names are on the registration blanks. This is brought about probably through a misunderstanding of the precinct registration officers relative to the time allowed by law in which to forward registration blanks to the clerk. The law provides for the books to be closed at five o'clock on April 10. This was done by the county clerk and immediately thereafter he began making up the tally sheets and sending them together with the precinct registration books to the various precincts. After a number of these had been forwarded, registration blanks were returned by the precinct officers, and in a number of instances the clerk was unable to enter the names on the precinct books. Those whose names do not appear on the books will be compelled to swear in their votes.

Returns received from six precincts after the closing of the clerk's records make the total in these precincts as follows, showing an increase of 44 votes over the record as published in last week's Journal:

	Total	Rep.	Dem.
Ireland	35	25	8
Redmond	69	62	7
Deschutes	53	34	16

STILL OWNS GRANT

Road Company Has Relinquished Only a Few Small Tracts

Portland officials, through Duncan Macleod, the local agent for the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain Wagon Road Company, enter a strenuous denial of the report published in Linn county papers and in this paper a short time ago to the effect that the Wagon Road company had abandoned its holdings in the Cascades along the toll road from Linn to Crook county.

Mr. Macleod received a letter from C. E. S. Wood a few days ago stating that the published reports which emanated from the county clerk's office in Linn county, were "idiotic nonsense." Writing further of the matter he says: "Why should the company give up any of its holdings? We abandoned a few miles of hill road (not toll road) where the county had built a good road around the hills, which is not traveled any more. If it were true that we had abandoned the tracts referred to in the published reports we should have had to notify the authorities in Crook county as well as Linn."

Mr. Macleod says, as Mr. Wood's states in the above, that the only holdings which the company has abandoned are a few miles of rocky hill road in eastern Linn county where the county itself built a new road some distance away and over smooth ground, causing the Road company's thoroughfare to fall into disuse. Rather than be put at a constant expense to keep an abandoned highway in repair, the company relinquished its right to the grant of lands in the immediate vicinity. Otherwise it still retains its ownership of the tract throughout the state.
