Mrs. Louisa J. Douthitt has been adjudged insane by Drs. Belknap and Edwards and was committed to the asylum by the County court. Wednesday Mesdames Irwin and Winslow, two lady attendants at the asylum, arrived in Prineville to take charge of their patient. They left for Shaniko today by private conveyance.

Chas. Campbell, the Prineville stage driver arrived at Bridge Creek just as the advancing high water was coming down and attempted to cross despite the entreaties of Miss Emma Specht, a passenger who wanted to get out of the stage. For this act he came very near paying for with his life, as well as that of his passenger. He reached the north bank of the creek when he discovered that the water had quickly cut a deep channel next to the bank in the sandy soil and that his team could not get out. One of his horses by persistent struggling got out on the bank, which was the means of Miss Specht escaping from the water. She seized the horse by the tail and assisted herself to safety. By this time the water had risen rapidly and was coming with such force that the rig, horses and driver were quickly carried down stream by the muddy current. The stage driver was carried down stream about a quarter of a mile before he succeeded in reaching safety. The horses were drowned, the rig smashed to pieces and the mail sack was observed floating away in the swift muddy current, but could not be rescued.

12 HORSES FOUND

All Show the Effects of Lack of Feed and Water.

Sheriff Elkins and party when in the Green Mountains where surprised at the number of horses that were found in different parts of the mountains. Some were hobbled, some were staked out and some were found in two cunningly contrived corrals found in different parts of the mountains. These corrals had wings built of logs and brush from a quarter to a half mile in length. All of the horses found showed the effects of lack of feed and a scarcity of water. One horse was in very bad shape. He was suffering from a bad sore where the brand had been cut out. The wound was about nine inches one way by four the other. This animal was brought to town and will be made use of as evidence later on.

The Gatewood Mines.

Howard, Or., June 30, 1906.
Editor Journal—Your letter of recent date duly received in which you requested me to give you some data about our undertaking in this vicinity. My dear sir, our mining plant is still in the hands of the constructors. However, since you have been kind enough to take notice of our operations I will endeavor to give you whatever information I can at the present writing.

To commence with, our plant is run by water power the (Pelton wheel). Our mill is built for ten stamps and with our cyanide plant which will both be completed and in operation by July 1st will give us a capacity of thirty tons of ore daily as we will run night and day both the mine and the mill. We have thirty-three claims belonging to the property, three thousand feet of tunnel work and nine miles of ditches for power or irrigation purposes if we wish to use it in that way. We get our water supply from the Ochoco and two reservoirs.

We are located twenty-eight miles east of Prineville near the head waters of the Ochoco river, surrounded by a heavily wooded mountainous country, in fact a more scenic locality does not exist on the Pacific Coast.

Any information we are able to furnish you in the future we will gladly do so.

We have not yet ordered the additional machinery you have reference to in your letter but expect to make a trip East to purchase the same some time in August and will write you when I do so.

Yours Respectfully,
BRUCE GATEWOOD.
