OUR HIGH SCHOOL.

The Crook County High School was established in accordance with a law passed by the legislature of 1901, authorizing any county in the State of Oregon so desiring to establish a high school by submitting the matter to the electors of the county. Through the efforts of William Boegli, then county superintendent of schools, and a number of other prominent citizens of the county a petition was circulated asking the county court to submit the matter to the voters in the election of June 1902, and considerably more than the required 100 signers were secured. Accordingly the question was voted upon at the following election and was carried by a considerable majority, although no hard fight was made or needed to secure a favorable decision from the people.

The law states that the county judge, two county commissioners, county treasurer, and county superintendent of schools shall constitute the Board for the government of these schools. These offices were then filled by W. A. Booth, judge, M. D. Powell and H. J. Healy, commissioners, M. H. Bell, treasurer, and William Boegli, superintendent, and by them, a suitable building being lacking, an arrangement was made with the directors of the public schools of Prineville that the high school branches should be taught in the public school then under the principalship of E. E. Orton. Twelve pupils were enrolled during the following term, the majority being residents of Prineville. Owing to an epidemic in the spring of 1903, the school was closed before the end of the session and as a consequence some were not able to complete the year's work. During this year Judge Booth resigned because of ill health and M. R. Biggs was appointed in his stead.

In the fall of 1903, A. C. Strange, the present incumbent, was elected as principal and a room was secured in the postoffice building for the use of the school. Sixteen pupils presented themselves, eight from localities outside of Prineville, of whom eight were in the second year and eight in the first. Of these ten completed the year's work and were promoted. During the ensuing summer, the contract for the erection of a magnificent brick and stone building, costing about $20,000 and planned by architect J. B. Shipp of Prineville, was awarded to C. A. Gray of Salem. In October following, the building was completed and occupied by the school.

The foundation, corners, and cornice work is of the black basalt so plentiful in Crook county, one of the most beautiful and lasting of building stones, and is of strength sufficient for a much larger structure. The building is built of brick and roofed with tin making it almost proof against fire from outside sources. There are four large well-lighted class rooms, of which two can be thrown together for assembly purposes. There are also two smaller rooms for use as library and principal's office. The basement is large and well lighted and is adapted for use as laboratory, industrial training, and athletic departments. The campus consists of a block 240 by 200 feet, furnishing an abundance of room for outside games, school botanical work, etc. It is the intention to fence it, plant grass and trees and make of it something in which the people of the county will take as much pride as they now do in the building. The rooms are heated by steam and ventilated by the foul-air shaft system and both are so nearly perfect that no parent need fear the endangering of the health of his children from lack of warmth or of fresh air. The building is located in a sightly spot and is one of the first and most imposing sights which meet the eyes of the visitor to Prineville.

The third year forty pupils were enrolled of whom twenty-one came from districts outside of Prineville. Miss Sarah Marshall, an alumnus of an eastern normal school, was elected as teacher of English and Latin and a successful year's work followed.

The fourth year, Miss Margaret A. Goodin of Pacific University was elected as teacher of English and History and the enrollment reached fifty-seven. Of these thirty came from districts outside of Prineville and the school made excellent progress in all directions.

The fifth year an enrollment of at least eighty pupils is expected and plans have been made for as many. Another teacher has been added to the corps, a physical laboratory and other apparatus have been secured, the seating capacity has been increased, and as good work should be done as is done in any school of academic grade in the state. With proper patronage by the people of the county the school will grow not only in size but in the quality of the work done until we have here one of the best institutions of its kind in the west.

The Crook County High School was established because of the complete lack of schools of higher rank in central Oregon making it necessary for parents desiring to give their children education above the common school to send them to schools distant from home, at great expense, far from parental supervision and control and subject to many temptations and dangers at a period in life when they need the parent most. Prineville, being not only the county seat but the largest and most centrally located town in the county was selected as the home of the school, and her citizens fully appreciate the honor conferred upon their town and the advantages of having it and will protect it and will advance its growth by such municipal laws as are possible and practicable. It is hoped to so build up the school as to make it entirely unnecessary for residents of the county to send their children to other schools for education of any kind as high as four years above the common school, literary, industrial, or business. To that end we solicit the interest and support of the parents and promise that the welfare and growth not only mental but moral and physical, of their children, shall be looked after as far as possible.

The conditions for admission are the passing of the eighth grade examination and the securing of a diploma signed by the county superintendent of this or any other county of Oregon. These examinations are held several times a year in every school district in the state and the opportunity is thus given any young man or woman wishing to enter this or any high school to show his preparedness for it.

Grades earned in any other high school or college preparatory school of standing by any pupil aiming to enter the second, third, or fourth year will be accepted without examination. If the standing of the school is not good or if the applicant has no record of grades made he must pass an examination to enter above the first year.

There is no expense for tuition, consequently the expenses which the parent sending his children here must incur are only the purchase of necessary supplies and of board. This need not exceed $125 a year and may be much reduced. Many girls earn entirely their way through school by working in the homes of the city, and frequently jobs are offered the boys by which they may help in the payment of their expenses. Some rent houses or rooms and board themselves and, in fact, few of the students from outside localities have so far been put to as much as $125 expense per year.

Taken from the annual catalogue of the Crook County High School just published.

A Dead One.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said:
"My trade of late is getting bad;
I'll try another ten-inch ad."
If there be, go mark him well;
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home the millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade,
By local line or ad displayed,
Carves more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound;
Here let him live in calm repose,
Unthought except by men he owes,
And when he dies go plant him deep,
That naught may break his dreamless sleep;
Where no rude clamor may dispel
The quiet that he loves so well,
And that the world may know its loss,
Place on his grave a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above: "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

LOST—A pair of spectacles with nose piece; without rims. The finder will please return them to this office and get reward.
