DRY FARMING.

The subject of dry farming should be of great interest to the people of Crook county. There is immense possibilities in it for the people of Central Oregon. The principle involved is by no means a new discovery. It has long been known that thorough surface cultivation conserves moisture. The "Campbell system" which has shown such wonderful results when followed intelligently has revived the subject in the semi-arid west with the result that many thousands of acres that were considered worthless are brought under cultivation. A writer in the Century in describing the system says that two things are necessary.

"First, to keep the surface of the land under cultivation loose and finely pulverized. This forms a soil mulch that permits the rains and melting snows to percolate readily through to the compacted soil beneath, and that at the same time prevents the moisture stored in the ground from being brought to the surface by capillary attraction, to be absorbed by the hot, dry air. The second is to keep the sub-soil finely pulverized and firmly compacted, increasing its water holding capacity and its capillary attraction, and placing it in the best possible physical condition for the germination of seed and the development of plant root. The dry farmer thus stores water not in dams and artificial reservoirs, but right where it can be reached by the roots of growing crops."

Following out these methods a rainfall of twelve inches can be conserved, we are told, so effectively that it will produce better results than are usually expected of an annual precipitation of twenty-four inches in humid America.

This discoverer and demonstrator of these principles has made it possible to cover with wheat and corn, alfalfa and other useful crops, ten thousands of square miles of fertile land on which nothing but sage brush, cacti, Kansas sunflowers and bunch grass are now found. What this means to the country is best appreciated when the vast amount of arid land, that cannot be reclaimed by irrigation even, is considered. Snow or rain falls, to a certain extent, everywhere, and when the precipitation is utilized, as suggested millions of acres will be added to the habitable area of the country.

The people of Eastern Oregon will be gratified to learn that the Hydrographic Office of the Geological Survey will co-operate with State Engineer Lewis and enter upon a thorough study of the water resources of the state of Oregon. The object is to determine the amount of water available for irrigation and power purposes. The underground waters will be carefully studied in that land lying outside of the reach of rivers and streams may be reclaimed by reason of the underground supply.

Many strangers are to be seen going over Crook county looking for land and investments of one kind or another. These people are just what we want. They have considerable means or at least sufficient money to give them a good start in a new country where prices have not been boomed out of reach of the average man's purse. It will not be many years before present prices will double or quadruple in value. Its bound to come.

What are you going to do about insurance is becoming a serious matter in Oregon. With about ten millions of insurance that is practically worthless and the uncertainty existing as to the financial standing of other companies makes a complicated situation. The uncertainty is what is causing the anxiety. One cannot tell whether he is insured in a solvent, insolvent, shaky or a six-bit company.

The new wheat in the Walla Walla country has been tested and two distinct grades are shown in this year's crop. Fall sown grain on the heavier land was invariably graded as No. 1, while spring sown grain on "light land" was graded lower. The yield is better than the farmers expected, averaging between 18 and 25 bushels to the acre.

The scarcity of the labor problem is not confined entirely to the United States. The Krepp Co.'s agents are scouring Belgium and France for competent mechanics to work in the great gun factory. The metal industries of Germany were never so prosperous as now.

There is no denying the virtue of advertising. Too many successes in the business world are directly traceable to its influence. The merchants of Prineville are just beginning to realize what an immense advantage the home papers offer in building up trade. They go into every part of Crook county and each paper is read by at least five different families other than the one to which it was sent. There is no medium to be compared to the county papers for reaching the consumers, and there is no better time than right now to begin your fall campaign.

The drought continues in all parts of the State says the U. S. Weekly Weather Bulletin, the only precipitation reported being light showers in some of the coast counties and in the Powder River valley in the Blue Mountains. In the Willamette valley and the coast counties the forenoons were generally cool and cloudy and the afternoons warm and clear. In the remaining portion of the State, both the mornings and the afternoons were generally clear. There has been an increase in the number of forest fires and the atmosphere, in consequence, is becoming somewhat smoky, although, except in the immediate neighborhood of the fires, the smoke is not dense. The mean temperature averaged about normal, and the week was considerably cooler than the preceding one. In Southern Oregon the mornings were unusually cool, and the afternoon temperatures averaged nearly three degrees above normal. In the counties east of the Cascade Mountains both the night and the day temperatures averaged slightly over a degree above normal.

SOMETHING NEW

Eilers Piano House

RENTAL CONTRACT PLAN

Choice New Pianos at Wholesale

$5 Down and $5 a Month

Since we are to reopen our new retail store early next fall, we feel that we do not want to drop out of the retail business in the meantime. In order that our large wholesale warehouse at corner Thirteenth and Northrup streets (which property we own) does not become filled up with Pianos and Organs, and in order to keep things moving, we are offering the choice of any of these fine new Pianos at actual Wholesale and less than wholesale.

In addition you can buy any of these beautiful Pianos on a new rental payment contract, paying $5 down and $5 a month. Think of it, your choice of fine new pianos at the bare wholesale cost and at the small payments of $5 per month. Write today for catalogues, etc.

Redmond Fair Notes.

One of the enjoyable features of the fair will be a farmer's institute the evening of the second day of the fair, when we expect to have with us Professor Withycombe director of the Oregon Agricultural College, also another speaker from Corvallis, and Mr. Elias Nelson in the government employ at Twin Falls, Idaho. Be sure to attend this institute.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Fair Association is planning an entertainment for one evening of the fair. Whatever they have will be well worth attending.

The M. W. A. here expects to put up prize-winning tug-of-war team. If they do they expect to pull against everything except freighters' teams.

The premium list has gone to the printer and will be ready for distribution the last of the week. Ask for one.

Our novelty races will not be so slow—A half-mile walk, a half-mile trot, and a half-mile run.

Come to the fair and bring something for exhibition, and see what the rest of the county can do and raise.

E. C. PARK, Secretary.
