The twenty-fourth annual catalog of the Oregon State Normal School at Monmouth has been received at this office. In speaking of the function of the Normal School it says: "The place of the Normal School in a system of education has been definitely determined. Educators both abroad and in the United States agree that the state should insist upon the proper training of those who are to teach in the public schools. Every state in the Union, with one or two exceptions, has established and is supporting training schools for the purpose of supplying a body of competent teachers for the public schools. The Normal School must differ, therefore, from all others. Its sole purpose must be to train teachers." The Monmouth Normal has an excellent staff of teachers and its graduates are sought after by the schools of the state.
