A little "kid scrap" developed into quite a neighborhood row Saturday. A 10-year-old boy named Warren Jones and a girl named Anna Carter, about 16 years of age, had some words which finally resulted in the lad getting a paddling in which the girl wielded the stick. The adopted father of the boy did not relish the idea of a girl usurping his parental functions so had her arrested charged with assault and battery. The case came up for hearing before Justice Luckey who fined the maiden $5 and then as promptly remitted it. Both the boy and the girl were given a good fatherly talk by the judge who admonished them of the necessity of dwelling together in peace and amity.

The Madras Pioneer says that at this season's wheat opened up at 85 cents per bushel, at which price a limited quantity has changed hands. Many of the ranchers are holding for $1 per bushel, and believe they will soon get it, but at that price there does not seem to be any great demand for it here.

Shot Through the Hand.
Carelessness came near costing Henry Falkner of Paulina his life Sunday afternoon. He was out hunting with a companion when Falkner happened to see that his friend's gun was pointed toward him. He reached out his hand to push it away when it was discharged. The charge of shot passed through his right hand between the thumb and forefinger. The finger bone was blown out and the hand was otherwise shattered. Had it not been for the fact that the hand was right over the muzzle of the gun it would have been blown all to pieces. As it is it may be possible to save it. The young man was brought to Prineville Monday and placed under the care of Dr. Rosenberg.
