The occupants of the in-coming stage from Shaniko Sunday morning had quite a thrilling time of it. In coming down the heavy grade this side of Helsler's the brake gave way and the heavy coach ran onto the wheel-horses. This started them running and down the hill they came at a lively clip. There is a sharp turn on the long grade and the driver foreseeing trouble ahead if he attempted to make it at the speed he was going pulled out of the road to avoid the sharp angle. He ran into a gully which effectively put a stop to the wild ride. There were quite a number of ladies aboard and all escaped injury but Mrs. Cyrus, who, in jumping from the coach on the side hill, sprained her ankle. She is able to be around with the aid of crutches.

Many are the expressions of regret on the part of the ladies of Prineville that the present chilly weather has put a stop to bathing in the mill race. All summer long the merry laughter of bathers on the Summers' place in the south part of town could be heard. The innocent cause of much of the fun was a common-place looking board used by the ladies in learning to swim. If the pesky thing would stay placed everything went well with the fair swimmer, but—no, it wouldn't keep its place when the fair charmer would strike out and churn the waters of the creek with legs and arms. The board would skedoo and the lady go to the bottom.
