COMING IN

Telephone Exchange Has a Fine Display of Crook County Products.

The Journal has been rather insistent in its appeals to the farmers of Crook county to bring in samples of what they raise to be placed on exhibition at the Telephone Exchange and from there will be sent to the county fairs. We are pleased to note that our farmer friends are taking to the idea and are responding in goodly numbers. The exhibit has reached such proportions that it not only excites the wonder of travelers, but surprises even the stay-at-homes in Prineville who have but a vague idea of what is grown in their own county.

The latest additions to the collection have been brought from Mill creek. The grains and grasses are from the farm of William Smith and are especially noticeable on account of size and variety. As Mr. Smith's place is one of the oldest in the county—having been continuously in cultivation for thirty-seven years—soil exhaustion does not seem to be a factor with which he has to contend. The samples are all good.

William Stanton, who lives on the same creek, has a fine grain exhibit. Not only has he good grain, but also a garden in which were raised some prize-winners that will be adorned with the blue ribbon when the county fairs are over. He has hope grown this summer that measure twenty-six feet in height.

Mr. Summers, whose business takes him to different parts of the county, assures us that a great deal of interest is being taken by a large number of the residents of Crook county in the coming fairs to be held at Redmond and Prineville. The collection of exhibits at his office will be entered at both places.

Don is a Gold Miner.

The many friends of Don Steffa, formerly editor of the Journal, will be pleased to learn that on August 29, 1906, he was at Ketchikan, Alaska. In writing to S. M. Bailey he says:

Dear Mart—First time you happen to think of it, roll up a few copies of the Weekly Paralyzer and boost them up to me. Want to see what the old rag looks like after being away for a couple of months.

Will sit down some day when I get hold of a typewriter and tell you all about the country which is a very remarkable one, and tremendously big to say the least. Have been as far north on the ocean as Skagaway, and took the White Pass & Yukon railroad there and went into the interior towards Dawson City. The country as a whole is altogether too wonderful for words.

Like the rest of the foolish people who get here and contract the mining fever your former side-kicker has stumbled onto a gold claim and a copper property. Expect to go completely busted on either one or the other.

Learned from Will Ford about the Fourth of July games and the pretty work that long right appendage of yours did in the last inning. I cheered away up here even if it was a month after the job was completed. Guess O'Neil was there with the goods, too, and I put in an extra whoop for him. Remember me to all the boys.
Sincerely,
DON STEFFA.

Hotel proprietor (to guest at breakfast)—Did you enjoy the flute-playing in the room next to you last night?

Guest (savagely)—Enjoy it? I should think not. I spent half the night pounding on the wall for the fool to stop.

Proprietor—Why, Puffer told me that he played every piece he knew four times, and the person in the next room applauded after every one!

Will Cut the Range Privilege.

"My recommendation to the department will be to cut the range privilege for sheep and cattle in this portion of the Blue Mountain reserve to fifty per cent of what it has been this season, for the next year or two at least," said D. B. Sheller, superintendent of the reserve system to the Sumpter American representative last Sunday, upon his return from a ride of several weeks through the greater portion of the vast area. "The conditions at this time demonstrate that those now in the range are going to run short of sufficient forage to sustain their flocks and herds as they should be and keep them in condition for the markets or a long winter on hay. This statement I give publicly in advance of the official report, which will reach owners much later, in order that they may be reasonably certain of what to expect and govern themselves accordingly.

"In my trip I found but a few minor derelictions on the part of the sheep or stockmen in crowding upon prohibited watersheds. This, no doubt, is largely due to the fact that our rangers have been alert and have not permitted the herders to get within circumscribed limits.

"One thing that is taking up much of my time and that of Mr. Terrill, is the examination of applications for patents to mining claims within the reserve. The regulations of the department are becoming more stringent in this matter continually and our investigations and reports have necessarily got to be very thorough and complete. Should this feature increase a man will have to be detailed to that duty especially next season.
