We Need Fire Protection.

No water! No fire pressure! Were the exclamations that passed from one person to another at the fire Tuesday. These startling facts were pressed home by the utter futility of the Prineville Light & Power Company to furnish the city with any kind of fire protection. The fire was had enough, but had the wind been in any other direction nothing but a miracle could have saved the town. Coming from the southwest the sparks and flying embers were carried toward the Oehoco bottom and the north part of town. This was the only direction in which the fire could spread without endangering the whole city. As it was it took heroic efforts on the part of the people living across the Oehoco to keep their property from burning up. Several fires started but people were on hand to put it out. Dillon's barn had a close shave a couple of times. Now, what are you going to do about it? You all realize that some action is urgent and no time should be lost in getting together and agreeing upon a plan. The old hand engine method beats the one we have two to one. If the P. L. & P. Co. can furnish no better service let us clean out the old fire cisterns, connect them with the irrigating mains and return to the primitive bucket brigade and hand engine.

The total valuation of the taxable property in Crook county for 1906 is $5,892,317. This is more than double what it was in 1905. The two main reasons for such a phenomenal increase are the different methods of valuation and the great increase in patented timber lands. Of course the county has enjoyed a good steady growth during this period but this reason would not be sufficient to account for such great strides in material wealth. Besides there are the exemptions to be reckoned with in the 1905 valuation which are all included in the 1906 totals. The number of sheep in the county declined from 117,644 in 1905 to 110,094 in 1906, a decrease of 7500. We would advise a careful study of the table on first page.

Many new names are being added to the membership of the Prineville Athletic Association. The reason for this is not far to find. Man is by nature a gregarious sort of animal that loves the companionship of kind. This natural instinct is fostered and developed to a pre-eminent degree in our social institution. The good work of the Prineville Athletic Association will be carried forward this year more vigorously than ever.

The Crook county fair will be in full swing before the next issue of the Journal and we will take this occasion to impress upon every farmer and cattleman the importance of making it representative of what we can produce. We want Crook county to make a creditable showing so that outsiders will go away impressed with the greatness of our resources.

Name it Crooked River Valley.

Editor Journal—Some time ago there appeared in your paper an article from the pen of W. F. Hammer of Haystack, in the Albany Democrat. The undersigned has lived many years at the head of the South Fork of Crooked river. He has been asked to write to you making some comments on the article mentioned and invoking your aid and that of all good citizens in the proper naming of the valley in which that river rises. In the cheaper class of periodicals there are puzzle advertisements. The letters composing the names of eminent persons and familiar cities are jumbled, and prizes are offered for the proper collocation of these letters so that the names may be disclosed. The writer and his neighbors, who, as Mr. Hammer avers, "hope that civilization will not overtake us," have acquired some of that fine discipline of mind necessarily resulting from the struggle for these prizes through long winter nights and are thus enabled to discover several things in Mr. Hammer's letter.

First putting together various covert allusions we are assured that by "Remmah Valley, a different part of Crook county," the genial gentleman means the valley referred to above, and using the aforementioned acquired shrewdness we find that "Remmah" is Hammer, and some light falls on the furtive reluctant condition of the writer's mind.

My German neighbor said "Yes, Sir, when you turn it round its converted all right." Another was reminded of the stealthy porch climber, this time innocently enough at the back of the temple of fame. Another said it was a back-handed swipe at us for not naming it ourselves. We have thought of Roosevelt valley and Edison valley. These great men would surely object to Tlevsoor and Noside. But they do not know, and could have no heart-burning in the matter. Why then should not the affable correspondent of the Democrat offer us "Hammer Valley," a noble name, the ringing insignia of virtuous industry?

But let us get on to the end. My neighbors agree that it belongs to us who live here to furnish the name. We will not have the meaningless Syrian-sounding "Remmah," but there is one suggested by one of the old-timers which will easily be agreed upon. It isn't Paradise valley because we want to keep within limits. Neither is it the one the undersigned would have chosen. But because in area it compares favorably with all the rest of the canyon of Crooked river we propose to call it Crooked River Valley and we ask the papers and the friends generally of progressive geography to refer to it by that name.

C. A. GILCHRIST.
P. S.—Emulating the example of many sensible people who name their ranches, the Gilchrist Bros. are calling their place at the head of the river Riverdale. A sign-board near the ranch house has for a year or more informed the traveler that he is seventy miles from both Burns and Prineville.

A quiet home wedding took place at Springwater last Sunday. Miss Ora Lewellen and Mr. Milton Zell were united in the bonds of matrimony. Mr. Zell is one of Prineville's best young men, and Miss Lewellen is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lewellen of Springwater. The wedding took place at 12 o'clock noon Sunday the 23rd at the Lewellen home. Only a number of the nearer relatives were present. Dinner was served after the ceremony, and after a time spent in joyous merrymaking, the newly wedded couple came to Estacada and left for Prineville, where they have a home and will live. The relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. Hale, Lester and Ethel Hale, Mr. and Mrs. R. Curran, Dora Curran, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cromer, Mr. and Mrs. S. Raney, Mrs. Lewellen.—Estacada News, September 27.
