While this is quite an honor, Mr. Chapman says that he cannot accept the appointment as he expects soon to commence work on his homestead and will be too busy. Mr. Chapman is a horseman and would make a good judge.—Bend Bulletin.

H. B. Foster, who has a ranch on Crooked river opposite the Sharp place, was in town on business this week. This is Mr. Foster's first year in Crook county and while he has had some hard luck on account of sickness in his family, he has no fault to find with the country. It beats Minnesota, he says, in productiveness, opportunities and in climate. Minnesota people make good citizens and we would be glad to have more of them.

Sheriff Ross of Lincoln county, together with Lee Wade, his deputy, and Ed Wade, all of Toledo, and Henry Wolf of Portland, were in Prineville Monday on a trip through Crook county. The sheriff camped in Prineville in 1884 and was hardly prepared to see such a thriving town as the one that greeted him on this occasion. The sheriff lives at one end of the Corvallis & Eastern and says that there is no question in his mind but that Prineville will see a railroad in a year or so. It would have been built before this but for the hostility of other roads. Sheriff Ross is serving his fifth term as sheriff of Lincoln county.

Geo. T. Parr, of the Eastern Oregon Land Company, is growing tired of being up against it in the failure of crops in Sherman county and has decided to introduce a hardy variety of grain, which will resist the drought. His company will ship in to Sherman county 400 sacks of Turkey Red wheat, the kind that has proven the salvation of Western Kansas, and farmers will have an opportunity to give it a trial. It is said to be the greatest drought resistant known, a good yielder, and being strictly a winter wheat, it is believed will prove a solution of the difficulty in Sherman county.—Chronicle.

The first anniversary number of the Hood River News-Letter has reached our table. It is a special illustrated edition designed to let outsiders know of the advantages to be found in that wide-awake, hustling town. The press work is excellent and typographically the edition reflects much credit upon the News-Letter working force. Such editions serve the two-fold purpose of attracting attention to the town which is served by the paper and proclaiming in no uncertain way the resources of the county. You do not have to rely upon statements of fact entirely, you can see from photograph views just what's what.

Frank F. Toews, who represents the Hazlewood Creamery Company of Portland, dropped into the Journal office yesterday just to get a whiff of the smell of printer's ink. Mr. Toews is an old newspaper man. He was connected with the Albany Herald for two years and a half and was on the Salem Statesman ten years, hence his love for the old familiar print shop smell. This is Mr. Toews' first visit to Central Oregon and he is much pleased with the country. "It is just like Kansas," he said, "my old boyhood home." He reports business good in his line.

Some time ago the Journal made mention of the resourcefulness of western women, and at the time we might just as well have narrowed the application and said Crook county women. The item, nevertheless, seems to have stirred up commendable pride in the achievements of what women can do in a sphere that is supposed to belong exclusively to the stronger sex. Mrs. Lee Wigle, who lives with her husband, a prosperous cattleman at the head of Camp creek, is deserving of special mention, say her friends, for the ease with which she can turn from household cares to the hard work of hired men. Mr. Wigle being away it devolved upon his better half to run the ranch, and she did it, too. The hired men, who perhaps did not take kindly to the change of bosses, objected to some orders given in regard to fall plowing, and refused to carry them out. They were promptly fired and the work finished by Mrs. Wigle herself. She plowed fourteen acres in five days, besides taking care of her teams and doing the rest of the farm work. Mrs. Wigle is also as handy with the rifle as she is skilled in music and kindred accomplishments. Twenty-two coyotes this fall testify to her unerring aim. Her varied accomplishments do not in the least detract from her many charming womanly qualities.

Wounds, Bruises And Burns.

By applying an antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturation and in about one third the time required by the old treatment. This is the greatest discovery and triumph of modern surgery. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering such injuries entail. For sale by D. P. Adamson & Co.
