Another irrigating canal is to be built by the Squaw Creek Irrigation company. Action was taken towards that end at a meeting of the company which was held at the court house Tuesday of this week. The new canal in reality is to be an extension and enlargement of one which was begun last year. The present capacity of this ditch is between 100 and 200 inches and this will be increased to 1100 inches and will carry water to three sections of land. The work is to be projected through the McCallister neighborhood, the intake of the new canal lying at a point south of the main canal on Squaw creek, where construction work will begin inside of a fortnight. The company expects to complete the canal, which will be 10 miles in length, some time this fall.

Luna Lodge, No. 65, K. of P., entertained a few friends at luncheon last evening. District Attorney Menefee of The Dalles, was the guest of honor. Mrs. McDowell of the Prineville Hotel furnished an elegant lunch. The air knights and ladies passed a most enjoyable evening.

Northwestern Crook county is to have another rural free delivery route established from the Culver postoffice. The route runs south from Culver on the Trail crossing road almost to Crooked river, thence east around Haystack mountain by way of Jesse Windom's ranch, thence east to Jacob Stroud's corner, thence north to Grant's and from there to Haystack postoffice and to Culver. The route is about 25 miles long and will serve 120 families. The Haystack postoffice may be discontinued when the new route goes into effect November 1.

The M. E. church people have bought the C. Sam Smith residence property near the court house. The house will be moved back and used for a parsonage. Whether a new church building will be started this fall or not will depend upon how subscriptions come in. At the present rate the church will go up. The amount subscribed has passed the $1200 mark. Our Methodist friends are much pleased at the substantial manner in which their appeal for aid has been met.

According to the Madras Pioneer a gold-bearing ledge of ore has been uncovered within two miles of the Hay creek postoffice. The ledge was discovered on the B. S. & L. Co.'s lands about two miles south of the postoffice, near what is known as the Brewer ranch. A fine ledge of mineral quartz was found and the company is having it thoroughly prospected. A tunnel is being run under the hill and is now about 80 feet in, with prospect work going steadily on. The quartz is said to carry fair values in gold and to be sufficiently promising to justify some expenditure in further prospecting the ledge.

In a letter from Miss Ethel Chapman of Bend, to The Journal she desires to thank the gentlemen of Prineville for their aid in helping her secure the $5 prize offered by the Pacific Northwest for sending in the most subscribers to that Journal in any one week. The number secured during the Redmond fair week was 140. It will be remembered that Miss Chapman is working for a free trip to the Jamestown Exposition which is offered by the Pacific Northwest to the young ladies of the State of Oregon. The editor of the magazine compliments the young lady and congratulates Crook county on the representation the county would receive if she wins out in the big contest.

R. C. Horgan of St. Joseph, Mo. and Mrs. B. F. Bressman of Los Angeles, Calif., brother and sister of J. W. Horgan of Prineville, left for St. Joseph Monday morning. Mrs. Bressman will spend a short time, there visiting with her mother, Mrs. Horgan. This visit was the first time in twenty-three years since the Horgan brothers met. R. C. was then but a boy and time wrought many changes in him. It is twelve years since Mrs. Bressman left Portland and that was the last time Mr. Horgan saw his sister. R. C. Horgan is a conductor on the St. Joseph & Grand Island railroad where his train sometimes makes a speed of 60 or 70 miles an hour. He found quite a contrast in the methods of transportation when he took the four-horse flyer at Shanko for this city. It's all in getting used to it. If he would stay here a year he would exchange his flyer for the hurricane deck of a cayuse, and we'll bet on it.
