After the exercises Chairman Macleod announced that supper was ready at Hotel Prineville and all present were invited to partake of the good things prepared by Mrs. McDowell. Railroads in Trouble.

The Dalles Optimist of February 14 says that "notwithstanding the fact that the heavy snow has been a godsend to the farmers, and this being true, the railroads will finally get their share, they are now having much ado to keep running even with the greatest irregularity.

Immediately following the big blockade which cut off all communication with Portland for several days, the company encountered difficulties east of the city in the shape of washouts at Deschutes and Heppner. These had no sooner been repaired than Saturday night a freight was ditched at Eagle creek near Bonneville in consequence of a broken rail. Several cars were overturned, but happily no one was hurt. Accordingly no trains came up from the Metropolis until Monday. Not only has traffic on the O. R. & N. been delayed, but the Great Southern and the Columbia Southern have also suffered a great inconvenience.

The Great Southern, on account of the proximity of its track to Fifteen Mile creek, has been especially unfortunate. No sooner had the track been put in running order after the first freshet than Saturday word was received by Contractor Tyler that several bridges had been washed out along the line and his assistance was desired to repair them. Since then there has been no trains from Dufur. It is reported that several hundred feet of track has been displaced along the Biggs Shaniko road and trains have been prevented from running for more than a fortnight."
